HENRY WALLACE IN NEW CABINET OFFICIALLY NOW

Choice of Farley Is Also Confirmed.

Poughkeepsie, N. Y., Feb. 26.—[Special.]—Major responsibility for the salvation of American agriculture was laid today by President Elect Roosevelt into the hands of Henry A. Wallace of Des Moines, Ia.

The President elect made official announcement that he will name Mr. Wallace as his secretary of agriculture. At the same time Mr. Roosevelt announced what has been an accepted fact even since before he was elected; that James A. Farley will be postmaster general in the new cabinet.

There is more than passing interest, especially to the farmers of America, in the reasons assigned by the President elect for his selection of Mr. Wallace, who has been a Republican and is the son of the late Henry C. Wallace, who was appointed secretary of agriculture by President Harding and was retained under President Coolidge, dying while in office.

Regarded as Leader.

Mr. Roosevelt let it be known that he regards the Iowan, who is publisher of a farm journal of general circulation, as one of the prominent leaders who accomplished, during the last year, the bringing together of the many divergent farm groups in the country.

Many times in past years statesmen in Washington have shaken their heads whenever farm relief programs were proposed, declaring sadly that "you can never get two farmers to agree with each other."

Mr. Roosevelt feels that the farm organizations are now in "substantial agreement" and he credits this achievement in large part to Mr. Wallace.

The President elect has told his inner circle of advisors that the farm associations are in closer accord than they have ever been before, and are offering generally a satisfactory cooperation in presenting a united front for an agreed legislative program.

Hopes for New Deal.

This, he believes, if continued, will result in a new deal for the farmers of the nation, and will bring the fruits of their efforts back on a par with the fruits of industry.

Mr. Wallace participated actively in the meetings of the farm leaders last fall, out of which came a bill now before congress proposing an application of the domestic allotment plan for raising the prices of farm products. The Iowa publisher worked actively for the plan as it was presented to the farm groups by Mr. Roosevelt's personal farm representative, Henry Morgenthau, commission of conservation of New York state, who is slated to head the Roosevelt farm board.

Originally the bill, as approved at the farm conferences, provided for the plan to be applied to but four crops, wheat, cotton, corn and tobacco. This was known to be acceptable to the President elect, although his first hope was that the plan might be tried out experimentally upon one crop, wheat. Later Mr. Roosevelt agreed to a trial on two crops, the other being cotton.

Strikes Snag in Congress.

Finally, when the farm groups took up the plan, insistance was made by various representatives for the inclusion of corn and tobacco, and then the agreed bill was put up to congress. Here it struck snags, with various congressmen from agricultural districts demanding the addition of first creamery products, then peanuts, and then other commodities in the plan. The house Democratic leaders were floundering, and Senator Ellison D. Smith of South Carolina, chairman of the committee on agriculture, hastened to New York to seek counsel from President Elect Roosevelt.

Upon his return to Washington Senator Smith sought to obtain an agreement for the passage of the bill applying the plan to only the crops of cotton and wheat, but he had no success, and finally all hope died of passing this type of farm legislation at the short session.

May Aid Winter Wheat.

Mr. Roosevelt had hoped the plan might be put to work in time to apply to the 1933 crops, and it is known that he now hopes to put a bill through at a special session of congress by which at least the crop of winter wheat planted this year will come under the plan, benefiting the growers of this

Detroit, Mich., Feb. 26.—[Special.]—Henry Ford came to the rescue of Detroit's banks today when he offered $8,250,000 of his private fortune to take up all the capital stock of two new banks which are to take over the liquid assets of the First National bank and the Guardian National Bank of Commerce.

Ford's action put a dramatic finish to a day of tense conferences among Detroit's leading bankers and their large depositors, who had up to 6 o'clock this evening to reach a settlement if they were to obtain loans from the Reconstruction Finance corporation which would enable them to weather the storm. The stockholders and depositors during the day were unable to raise the required sum.

The proposal of the automobile manufacturer was immediately accepted by bankers and large stockholders and under the terms of the new setup the banks will open for regular business on Wednesday morning.

Releases 30 Per Cent Deposits.

Bankers here estimate that about 30 per cent of the deposits of the old banks will be available in the new banks to depositors. The cash for this amount will be obtained from the liquid assets of the old banks, the capital put up by Ford and loans approximating $75,000,000 from the Reconstruction Finance corporation. The balance due depositors will be liquidated when possible. The manner in which this is to be done has not been decided upon.

Meetings of the large depositors of the banks, which include more than 60 of the city's leading mercantile and manufacturing men, followed day-long meetings of directors of both banks. The Ford proposal was put to the depositors by Wilson W. Mills, chairman of the board of the First National bank. A motion for its approval made by B. F. Hutchinson, vice president of the Chrysler corporation, was immediately seconded and voted.

It was explained one reason for Mr. Ford taking all the stock in the two banks is that he has definite ideas as to how banks should be run. He is said to believe that "bank loans should be made for productive and not speculative purposes."

The $8,250,000 for the two banks come from Ford's gigantic cash resources. He is said to have the largest accumulation of cash and government securities of any individual in the United States.

Has Huge Cash Reserves.

The action taken tonight was seen here as a move which will improve general banking conditions throughout the state. Deposits of the banks in the smaller cities and towns of Michigan have been considered as ordinary deposits and withdrawal has not been permitted under the terms of the general holiday. Ford's action is expected to release the major part of these funds to the smaller banks.

Statement by Ford.

The statement issued by Mr. Ford and his son, Edsel B. Ford, on the proposal follows:

"To the depositors and directors of the First National bank and of the Guardian National Bank of Commerce:

"We are ready to join you in the

NEW ENGLAND UNDER BLANKET OF SNOW; 4 DEAD

Boston, Mass., Feb. 26.—(AP)—An all night blizzard left most of New England under a heavy blanket of snow today, Cape Cod being the hardest hit with a fall of 18 inches.

Four persons died in consequence of the storm. Robert J. Morrow, 61, collapsed in Everett while trudging to work and died in the police station. Charles H. Lewis, 65, also of Everett, and City Treasurer Allan R. McDonald of Quincy succumbed to heart attacks after shoveling snow in front of their homes. Matthew Yuille, 57, of Manchester, N. H., fell dead while working with a city crew of snow shovelers.

A bus containing 15 passengers stalled in steep banks of snow near Middleboro shortly after noon and the passengers were stranded for eight hours while a snow plow was sent out to release the vehicle.

The snowfall in Boston was 9.1 inches. Portland, Me., experienced its second worst storm of the winter with a fall of 8.7 inches, while New Haven, Conn., escaped with only three inches of snow.

QUAKER SCHOOL OFFERS COURSE ON MATRIMONY

Guilford College, N. C., Feb. 26.—(AP)—A course in marriage has been added to the curriculum of Guilford college, Quaker co-educational institution here.

The college is offering its students a regular classroom course, with a professor, textbooks, examinations and all that is necessary to make it a full-fledged academic study.

The marriage course, begun last week, is given to all Guilford students during their second year of college work. It is in charge of Mrs. Ernestine C. Milner, director of personnel and professor of psychology.

Mrs. Milner said that training for marriage and family life was becoming one of the important objectives of a liberal arts college. She said the divorce rate for marriages between college mates was only one out of 45 to 60 as compared with the average for the entire country of one out of seven.

Marshall Field Store Raided by Bandit Gang

Window smashing bandits who have been operating in the loop for the last eighteen months made a quick descent upon Marshall Field & Co.'s State street store at dawn yesterday and carried away a display of sable furs valued at $8,600.

The bandits circumvented special precautions to guard the furs, which included a guard posted at a second floor window just above the show window where the furs were on display. The raid was made just as that man left his post. Another store watchman who came on the scene was driven back by a shotgun in the hands of one of the bandits.

Richard Stoicke, the guard assigned to the second floor watch post, became ill and went to a washroom just before the raid. Police believe that the bandits may have had a confederate watching Stoike from some adjoining building, who informed the gang of his absence.

Four or Five Men in Gang.

A few seconds later four or five men in an automobile drew up to the curb in State street. The window in which the furs were displayed is about 50 feet south of Randolph street on State street. The furs were hidden by a curtain drawn across the window, it being the store's custom to curtain all its windows on Sunday.

Moving according to a precise plan used in numerous other loop show window robberies, two shotgun guards leaped from the car and took posts on the sidewalk near the window, facing north and south. Two more men approached the window swiftly. One of them hurled a 4 foot iron bar through the big plate of glass. The other lifted the curtain and stepped inside the show window.

In Randolph street Ernest Farnam, an outside watchman for the store, heard the crash of glass and ran toward State street. As he rounded the store corner he was met by the shotgun of one of the guards.

"Get out of here," snarled the guard.

Runs to Second Floor.

Farnam turned and retreated. Once around the corner in Randolph street, he ran into the store and to the second floor, with the intention of firing on the bandits from above. Stoicke heard the glass broken also and hurried to the front of the store from the washroom. By the time the two watchmen reached that point, however, the bandit inside the window had scooped up the furs, run back to the car, and had been joined by his companions, one of whom fired his shotgun as the car drew away. They had disappeared when the watchmen reached the front window.

The tactics of the Marshall Field bandits were the same used successfully in a score of other loop show window robberies in the last year and a half. Abandoning all attempts at secrecy, the gang has followed the tactics of bank and pay roll bandits in making a quick descent, seizing its loot, and speeding away before pursuit can be organized.

Fire on Workers.

Several times loop workers have been fired upon by the shotgun guards of the gang. Usually two cars are used, a second one full of gunmen following the car carrying off the loot. Police have fought several gun battles with occupants of this guard car, who have always been able to delay the pursuit while the other automobile, carrying the loot, is driven away.

A guard car is believed to have been somewhere in the neighborhood during the Marshall Field robbery, but did not make its appearance because the other group of bandits got out of the neighborhood before police squads arrived.

Solve Fortune Teller Murder; Accuse Widow

Police announced yesterday that they had obtained confessions solving the murder of George Carl, who was found slain last July 6 in his grocery store at 2611 South Crawford avenue. Middle age love coupled with avarice was given as the motive. At the time of the killing Carl's widow told police that a fortune teller had predicted two weeks in advance that her husband would be slain.

Four men admitted the murder plot yesterday to Capt. Daniel Gilbert, chief investigator for State's Attorney Courtney, and to Sergeants Charles Pribyl and Burt Gray, who made the arrests. The widow, Mrs. Vera Carl, who is 36 and comely, denied being an accessory, although the others accused her.

Plot of 50 Year Old Widower.

John Milosic, a 50 year old widower, father of a girl of 20 and a married son, who was employed as a roofer by the street car company, confessed that he instigated the murder plot in the expectation of marrying Mrs. Carl and sharing her slain husband's $15,000 insurance money. He said he had told Mrs. Carl and her brother, Ivan Grilec, who also confessed, that he intended to have Carl slain and they acquiesced in the plot.

Milosic and Grilec, both communists, named Joseph Fess, 26 years old, 3249 Komensky avenue, an unemployed laborer, as the actual killer, and Edward Veselka, 28, 3133 South Lawndale avenue, also out of work, as one who had considered committing the murder but who demanded more than the $800 finally paid to Fess for the crime. Both Veselka and Fess have confessed, Capt. Gilbert declared.

Won't Question Seer.

Assistant State's Attorney Charles S. Dougherty took statements from all. He plans to examine other persons, but not, he said, Mrs. Susie Ballo, 2546 South Lawndale avenue, the fortune teller. She was brought into the case when Carl was slain. At that time Carl's son, Dorn, 9 years old, told police his mother had confided to him a few days before that Mrs. Ballo had predicted the murder of his father.

Of the four men confessing, Grilec tried to shield himself and his sister, but admitted he had witnessed the murder and had subsequently received $1,000 of the insurance money from his sister. Fess told a different story, however.

"Grilec and I were drinking with Carl in the rear of his store," Fess related, "and Grilec kept motioning me to hurry up with the killing. I shot Carl twice, and Grilec said to me, 'Good work!' Outside I met Veselka. He knew I was in the store to kill Carl. I gave Veselka the gun, and he threw it into the drainage canal. Then Veselka gave me $180, and after Mrs. Carl collected the insurance I got $640 more and Veselka and I went to California.

Story Implicates Widow.

Milosic implicated the widow in his story. He said she owed him money; that he told her he would have her husband take out more insurance and then have him killed. Grilec arranged to have her and her son out of their combined home and store on the night of the shooting, he said.

"I first offered Veselka $500 for the job," said Milosic. "It wasn't enough, and I met Fess. I sent Fess to Grass lake with Carl on a fishing trip. He was to push Carl out of the boat and let him drown. Fess came back, saying he and Carl were never alone in the boat. Then I borrowed a gun from a friend and gave it to Fess. He used it.

"I intended to marry Mrs. Carl when everything quieted down."

Detectives Get Clew.

Ceaseless work by Detectives Pribyl and Gray led to yesterday's developments. Although Mrs. Carl and her brother, Grilec, had been held by a coroner's jury, further criminal action was blocked by insufficient evidence. Last week the detectives found the break in the case.

They met a friend of Carl, who also knew Veselka. This friend met Veselka on the latter's return from California with Milosic, and asked Veselka why he had not attended Carl's funeral. The friend also remarked that police wanted to question him. Veselka replied: "If they do, they had better question Fess, too." That was enough for Pribyl and Gray.

Shot When He Tries to Play a Prank on Friends

Just as a prank Frank Fenese, 45 years old, of 2918 South Wells street, dressed up in women's clothing and called on his friends, Mr. and Mrs. Carmen Manuzzi, 3205 South Wells street, last night. He is godfather to one of the Manuzzi children. Mrs. Manuzzi did not recognize him, and she screamed when he appeared at the back door. Manuzzi didn't recognize Fenese either. He opened fire with a pistol and a bullet hit the disguised Mr. Fenese in the left shoulder. The mystery was solved in the Mercy hospital.

PHYSICIANS SAY MAYOR'S HEART BEARS UP WELL

BULLETIN.

Miami, Fla., Feb. 27 (Monday).—(Special.)—Mayor Cermak's respiration had increased to 36 at 2:30 a. m. He also had developed a fever which recorded 101 degrees and his pulse 128. His respiration was by far the highest it has been since he was taken to the hospital.

BY WILLARD EDWARDS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Miami, Fla., Feb. 26.—Mayor Cermak of Chicago, sorely beset by a number of ailments which have taxed his exhausted body during an eleven days' fight against death, tonight faced a new and dread enemy—pneumonia.

This latest complication stunned the group of physicians at his bedside and reduced them to despair. They had hoped against hope, bolstered by confidence in the mayor's remarkable powers of resistance, until an examination at 6 o'clock this evening revealed that "a localized pneumonic consolidation" had developed at the base of the right lung.

The hopelessness which seized the doctors was exemplified in the attitude of Dr. J. W. Snyder, who issued a bulletin shortly before midnight, six hours after the pneumonia had been discovered.

"Serious Complication."

"Mayor Cermak is withstanding the pneumonia fairly well," he stated. "He is conscious and rational. The heart is bearing up well. Although pneumonia is a serious complication, it is viewed with less absolute pessimism since in this climate pneumonia tends to be mild. His pulse is 126, his temperature 101, his respiration 32."

Then Dr. Snyder added that a crisis in pneumonia in an ordinary case would probably be several days distant.

"But this is no ordinary case," he admitted. "There is no sense in minimizing the gravity of the situation. When a man's life is hanging by a thread, as in this case, and then pneumonia sets in, it is hardly a fair break for him. There is no telling when the crisis will come in this case, but it probably will be soon."

Fearful of the new development, daughters and sons-in-law of Mayor Cermak and his two granddaughters refused to leave the hospital tonight. They sat in the superintendent's office, having been barred from the reception room which adjoins the sick room, and inquired eagerly every hour for bulletins.

Doctors Plan Night Vigil.

The usual night force of two nurses and two physicians was also augmented. Most of the nine doctors who have been in attendance in the case planned to stay for the night in the hospital.

Diathermy in the process of generating heat in the body tissues by forcing high frequency electric currents through them was resorted to by the physicians.

The discovery of the existence of pneumonia came at 6 o'clock tonight, when the physicians were making a routine physical examination. They knew that a congestion of the lungs was present, but the development of pneumonia was unexpected.

The doctors were beginning to believe that a miracle might happen and the mayor win his fight with death when the new complication was found.

More Optimistic Earlier.

In an afternoon bulletin the physicians had declared the patient's condition "comparatively satisfactory." The report stated that the patient had rested during the greater part of the day and appeared to be refreshed when he was awakened at 3 o'clock in the afternoon to take some nourishment.

The fact that the mayor at that time partook of a portion of custard, his first real food in 48 hours, gave the physicians added encouragement. An examination of the lungs revealed "no further alarming developments."

Yet, three short hours later, an examination showed that the inflammation of the lining of the lungs, which had been merely a traumatic pleurisy, had become pneumonia, or inflammation of the lung itself. The inflammation was confined to a comparatively small area, but the complication changed the atmosphere instantly from a cautious hopefulness to a grave fear.

However, the official bulletin revealing the pneumonia, added that the mayor had maintained his "moderate improvement" of the day before which had followed oxygen treatments and a blood transfusion.

The pneumonia, according to the bulletin, "adds, of course, to the gravity of the outlook."

In addition the physicians revealed the mayor's respiration or number of breaths per minute had risen to 32, the highest since he was brought to the hospital. It had fluctuated during the day from 20 in the morning, dropping to 24 in the afternoon and rising to the 32 mark in the evening.

Increased respiration is a certain sign of pneumonia, it was stated, and a dangerous development in a man as weak as the mayor.

Oxygen Tent Removed.

At 8:30 p. m. Dr. Frank Jirka visited the mayor for a few moments. The oxygen tent had been removed from the body because the mayor had expressed a repugnance to the funeral-like canopy.

"He asked me in Bohemian if he were going to get well," said Dr. Jirka. "I told him 'sure.' I'm still betting on him."

"If it turns out to be an active pneumonia the condition will advance very rapidly and the danger point will be reached in twelve hours," he said. "We do not think, however, that it is an active pneumonia."

"We are not certain how the pneumonia developed. It may have come as a somewhat delayed result of the injury to the lung caused by the bullet wound or from an infection which developed as a result of germs in the respiratory tract. Again, the mayor's inaction during the last eleven days, the continual lying on his back and the lack of exercise may have been the cause. Persons often develop pneumonia merely by lying in bed for long periods.

"We are treating the patient by rolling him from side to side to exercise both lungs and prevent the condition from becoming double pneumonia. We have located the condition while it is still in a comparatively small area and we are hopeful of checking its career before too much damage is done."

Late Afternoon Bulletin.

The late afternoon bulletin was as follows: "Mayor Cermak's condition continues comparatively satisfactory. He has been resting during the greater part of the day and when awakened appeared to be refreshed. He has taken more nourishment than during the last forty-eight hours up to this morning. His heart remains good and no further alarming developments in the lungs have appeared. Temperature, 99.6; pulse, 114; respiration, 24."

The nourishment taken consisted of a small amount of custard swallowed by the patient. In the morning he had a minute portion of gelatin.

"The blood transfusion certainly helped immensely," said Dr. Karl Meyer who issued the late bulletin. "Yesterday, before the transfusion I would have said that he would be dead by 9 o'clock last night. Now, I'm encouraged. His mental attitude is everything now.

"His blood pressure before the transfusion was only 90, alarmingly low. Now it is 140, a reassuring mark."

"Remarkable Resistance."

Amazement at the patient's ability to withstand the complications which have set in was expressed by several of the doctors.

"The man has a remarkable resistance," commented Dr. J. W. Snyder.

"He has a better constitution than you or I," remarked Dr. Meyer to Ald. James Bowler, who has kept a twenty-four hour watch near the sick room. "If it were another man the funeral would be over, now."

"By all the odds and rules and formulas, he should have died two days ago," said Edward J. Kelly, president of the south park board, another frequent visitor. "But he just won't give in. It is that which encourages me to think that he will put over the miracle of winning his way back to health."

The physicians decided not to perform another blood transfusion today, but to await tomorrow's examination to decide definitely just how much benefit has been afforded him by the transfusion administered yesterday.

Unable to Eat Cereal.

Discouragement was felt early today over the patient's inability to absorb any food except through injections of a ten per cent glucose solution upon which he has been existing for several days. A light wheat cereal was offered him this morning but he could not swallow it. He took two spoonfuls of gelatine.

At 3 p. m., however, the mayor partook of eight teaspoonfuls of custard. He called for ginger ale and swallowed a mouthful. This development cheered the physicians.

For the first time in the eleven days the mayor has been in the hospital absolute quiet was enforced today in the east wing, where he lies. Orders were given out at noon by Dr. Meyer that no one except physicians and police guards were to be allowed in the large reception room adjoining the sickroom.

The order excluded members of the family, friends, newspaper men and all visitors from the vicinity of the sick room. Policemen stood about the grounds to insure this privacy.

"The mayor is not going to be discouraged by any more such scenes as occurred at midnight Saturday," said the physician. "When I went into his room this morning I asked him how he felt. The answer was a discouraged shrug of the shoulders. It was like a blow in the face after the usual greeting he has been giving each morning in which he declared his determination to pull through.

"Why, the mayor's almost solitary hope of recovery is based upon his mental will to live. When his daughters broke down and cried upon seeing him Saturday night it depressed and saddened him and alarmed him about his condition.

"Needs Encouragement."

"No one is going into that sick room any more except the physicians who know the proper psychology of treating a patient. A cheery smile and an air of confidence have a tremendous effect upon a sick man. Similarly, tears and gloom do great harm to him. He needs all the encouragement he can get."

The scene referred to by the doctor occurred Saturday at midnight when the mayor asked that his daughters be brought into the sick room to see him. Mrs. Floyd Kenlay was the first. At sight of the body under the canvas canopy and the trembling of the rest of the body under the coverlet, she burst into tears and ran from the sick room, half hysterical.

As a result of Dr. Meyer's orders, the noisy confusion caused by the scores of visitors, the activities of movie cameramen, radio announcers and reporters was stilled this afternoon.

Gov. David Sholtz of Florida was among those who inquired concerning the mayor's condition today. He also asked about the conditions of Mrs. Joseph H. Gill, who, regarded as near death after she had been wounded by one of the bullets from the gun of Giuseppe Zangara, would-be assassin of President Elect Roosevelt, is now deemed certain of recovery.

TODAY'S 'LADIES' DAY' AT HOOVER MEDICINE BALL CABINET SESSION

Washington, D. C., Feb. 26.—(AP)—Although the members of President Hoover's medicine ball cabinet are not supposed to know it, tomorrow will be "Ladies' day" at their early morning exercise session.

The whole thing has been planned as a "surprise" by the ladies whose husbands for four years past have risen often before daylight in order to meet the chief executive at the White House by 7 a. m. to toss the leather ball around.

Here is the plan: When the "medicine ball cabinet" members have left their respective homes their wives plan to follow them. They are to come in the front door of the White House and meet with Mrs. Hoover on the second floor, while their husbands use another entrance.

After the game is under way they plan to move out to the south grounds in a group.

White House aids have been informed, however, to set the usual breakfast table to take care of the ladies, as well as the men.

FALSE ALARMS KEEP FIREMEN GOING ALL DAY

New York, Feb. 26.—[Special.]—For two and one-half hours this morning fire apparatus in Astoria was kept busy answering false alarms turned in by a man, obviously intoxicated, who on each occasion telephoned either Jamaica police headquarters or the Astoria station and derided the police for failing to apprehend him. Between 1 a. m. and 3:30 a. m., eight alarms costing the city of New York $500 were sounded by the man and eight calls made to the police.

"A fine bunch of palookas, youse guys," he told them. "Can't even catch a cold. Haw! Haw! Haw!"

Each time the police operator traced the call, but in every instance too late to apprehend the caller. And though radio and extra police cars were ordered to keep a sharp watch on fire alarm boxes, their vigilance went unrewarded.

The final call came at 3:30 a. m. "I'm gonna turn in fifty more alarms," the voice on the telephone advised police headquarters, but no more alarms were sounded.

Arrested Leaving Church, Charged with Stock Fraud

Boston, Mass., Feb. 26.—(AP)—John William Brewer, 67, of Cleveland, O., was arrested today as he left a church, in connection with a $100,000 swindle in Cleveland in 1930. Brewer, who is almost totally blind, was taken into custody after August L. Burda and Mrs. Louisa M. Burda had recognized him as a man charged with defrauding Mrs. Caroline Gerber of Cleveland in an oil stock deal. Brewer had been living in a Salvation Army hotel here as a charity guest. He had $63 in his pockets when arrested.

HENRY WALLACE IN NEW CABINET OFFICIALLY NOW

Choice of James Farley Also Announced.

crop. The plan, as applied to wheat, contemplates levying a domestic tariff collected from the millers, on all wheat consumed domestically, the proceeds of the tax being refunded after collection to the growers.

The chief duty of Mr. Wallace, as secretary, it is clear today, will be to keep the farm organizations in line for application to this plan, and to attempt similar agreements on the other details of the Roosevelt farm program.

It has been stated from authentic sources lately that the President elect will propose to the special session of congress a plan for the elimination of marginal or unproductive farm lands in an attempt to reduce farm surpluses. The proposal, as reported, would have the federal government lease these lands at three per cent of their valuation, and either allow them to lay fallow or adopt them to purposes of reforestation and forestation.

Mortgage Aid Planned.

The President elect also is determined to reduce the burden of mortgages laying so heavily upon American farmers by granting liberal federal credit to agencies holding farm paper, and possibly by putting a lower interest rate into effect.

The President elect, in selecting Mr. Wallace as his secretary of agriculture, considered him uninvolved in the factional feuds of the various farm organizations, and as one known in all agricultural sections of the country and familiar with the needs of all of them.

In announcing the Farley appointment, Mr. Roosevelt jocosely prefaced his remarks to newspaper men saying: "This will be a big surprise to you."

ASK HOLY NAME SOCIETY TO PRAY FOR ROOSEVELT

New York, Feb. 26.—[Special.]—The Rev. Thomas F. Conlon, national director of the Holy Name society, has sent letters to all the branches of the society in the country urging all members to receive holy communion on Sunday, March 12, and to pray for President Elect Franklin D. Roosevelt, the new cabinet, and congress as follows:

"That God may enlighten our new President, cabinet, and congress, and that these leaders of our nation will seek and see the light of heaven and be guided by it in leading our beloved country out of the darkness and desolation of the depression."

MAIL FLYER LOST IN A FOG; 'CHUTE PUTS HIM IN TREE

Williamsport, Pa., Feb. 26.—[Special.]—Drifting fifty miles off his course in a heavy fog, Walter W. Seyerle, flying the air mail westward to Columbus from New York, bailed out of his plane early today and landed in the crotch of a tree in a wild section of Potter county, three miles from the Cross Forks postoffice.

The plane, owned by the Transcontinental and Western Air Transport, crashed in the woods a mile from the nearest highway and was wrecked.

Seyerle before jumping with his parachute had the presence of mind to turn off the ignition. This, in the opinion of preliminary investigators, prevented the craft from burning and saved the cargo of mail.

Negro Confesses 200 Crimes, Including Rape

Emmerson Dotson, 138 North Oakley boulevard, a 17 year old Negro who was arrested Thursday night, had confessed up to last night to more than 200 crimes, including the rape of six white women. The women identified him, as did five other women whom he attempted to assault. Dotson also confessed that in recent months he had committed 150 burglaries and about 50 strong arm robberies. He took Detectives William Grady and Hugo Olson, who arrested him on suspicion, about and pointed out to them fifty houses into which he had broken.

RUSSIA ISSUES BAN ON FOREIGN BUILT MACHINERY

MOSCOW, Feb. 26.—(AP)—G. K. Ordjonikidze, soviet commissar for heavy industries, today issued a decree forbidding the importation of equipment that can be manufactured in the soviet union. His ban canceled a proposal to import $10,000,000 worth of machinery for use on state farms. Import of locomotives, railroad cars, cranes, motors, generators, blast furnace equipment, and pumps is forbidden.

Seed loans from state stores to collective and state farms in the Ukraine and north Caucasus for spring sowing where weather conditions were unfavorable last summer were provided for in a decree signed by Joseph Stalin, head of the communist party, and Vyacheslaff Molotoff, president of the council of commissars.

About 330,000 tons of seed will be sent to the Ukraine, and about 250,000 tons to North Caucasus. The loans must be returned in kind next fall, plus 10 per cent for administrative and transportation expenses.

CALLS UP LATVIA TO ASK RABBI TO PRAY FOR CERMAK

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

RIGA, Latvia, Feb. 26.—Albert Goodman of Chicago telephoned to Libau, Latvia, residence of Rabbi Josef Schneyerson last night saying he had been requested to ask the rabbi to pray for the recovery of Mayor Cermak. The rabbi's secretary reported that he was in Berlin and Goodman said he would call there. Rabbi Schneyerson, one of the most venerated figures in Jewry, was granted permission to leave Russia in 1927 after leading Jews of the world had petitioned the soviet government.

Mr. Goodman, a claim adjuster, 7408 Jeffery avenue, said last night that after talking with the rabbi at Berlin, he received this cablegram:

"I pray to the Lord of all flesh that God receives the prayers of the masses in behalf of Mayor Cermak, whose noble deeds should be well received in the time of his distress, so he may be speedily cured."

Mr. Goodman then wired Rabbi Schneyerson's message to Mrs. Floyd Kenlay, Mayor Cermak's daughter, in Miami, he said.

HORNER LEAVES FOR SPRINGFIELD AFTER PARLEYS

Following a day of conversations with friends and political associates in his suite at the Congress hotel, Gov. Horner left for Springfield shortly before midnight last night.

He said there had been no discussion of the attitude of organization leaders in the event of Mayor Cermak's death.

"All of those who came in," he said, "are friends of the mayor's. Naturally there was no discussion of politics."

It was said the group spent a large part of the time waiting for bulletins from Miami, with which almost constant telephonic communication was maintained.

NEXT PRESIDENT FALLS HEIR TO FINANCIAL TASK

Growing Deficit Is First Big Problem.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 26.—In taking over the administrative branch of the government next Saturday, Mr. Roosevelt will confront a degree of financial chaos unparalleled since the beginning of the second Cleveland administration.

He will take over a budget that is still unbalanced. He will take over a public debt of 21 billion dollars, 5 billions of which represent the deficits of the last three years. He will take over a deficit for this fiscal year that is already 1½ billions and still going up.

Governmental extravagance still flourishes. The cost of the federal government remains about 4 billions a year. Unwilling to reduce expenditures sufficiently to balance the budget, congress piled on more taxes, which, however, have failed to yield the required revenue.

Inflation Move Gains.

The treasury is borrowing on a large scale to meet the deficit and the reserve bank system by credit manipulation is providing the banks with the funds to loan the government. Hoarding is increasing and banks in Michigan, Maryland and other localities are flying distress signals. Gold is again flowing out of the country. The pressure for inflation of the currency is increasing.

The Roosevelt administration will face an unprecedented volume of treasury financing—about 12 billions altogether, of which 8 billions consist of maturing Liberty bonds and 4 billions of the recently incurred short term obligations which must be converted into long term bonds.

Woodin to Confer with Mills.

William H. Woodin, who will be Mr. Roosevelt's secretary of the treasury, is due in Washington tomorrow for consultations with Secretary Ogden L. Mills on the March 15 financing amounting to 600 millions, the announcement of which is to be made at the end of the week.

One of the first decisions which the Roosevelt administration must make is whether it will take immediate steps after March 4 to refund at lower interest rates outstanding long term bonds which are callable during the present calendar year.

There is now a total of $8,201,313,050 of these securities, and much talk has been heard of the possibility of a great economy if they are exchanged.

List of Callable Bonds.

Nearly 7 billions of the total now carry interest of 4¼ per cent, and if the whole of the issues could be refunded at a saving of 1 per cent, it would mean that the government's outlay for interest annually would be cut by about $80,000,000. This is an item large enough to attract the eye of political leaders seeking ways to balance the budget without new taxes.

The outstanding bonds, callable during the calendar year 1933 follow:

Type of bond—	Total.
Liberty 3½%	$1,302,227,850
1st Liberty 4%	5,003,450
1st Liberty 4¼%	$55,983,300
4th Liberty 4¼%	6,288,099,450
Total	$8,201,313,050

On the basis of open market quotations interest for long term bonds is now estimated by some experts at 3¼ per cent, or less, and therefore, the agitation for a refunding operation has become quite general in political circles on the theory it is a step which would obviously remove a considerable burden from taxpayers.

However, experts believe the task is by no means a simple one, and, if refunding is decided upon, it would probably affect at this time only a part of the callable bonds and extend over a long period.

Speedy Action Essential.

Recently the market for long term bonds has been favorable, but experts recognize also that it is highly sensitive, and they have hesitated to take any major step, in addition to current financing operations, which would disturb it.

The treasury department has not issued any long term bonds since Sept. 15, 1931, when 800 million dollars paying 3 per cent were sold. These were barely subscribed, although market conditions were easy, and later depreciated sharply, selling in January as low as 82.09.

A speedy determination of policy by the new administration is essential because advance notice must be given. First liberty issues may be called in whole or in part, but only upon published notice three months before an interest payment date. Interest falls due June 15 and Dec. 15 of each year, and if the call privilege is to be used at the first opportunity the notice must come not later than March 15.

Major Refunding Problems.

In the case of the fourth Liberty, the major refunding problem confronting the government, there is a little more leeway. Interest payments are due on Oct. 15 and April 15 of each year, and notice of a call must be given six months prior to such a date. Therefore, if any or all are to be called on Oct. 15 of this year, the announcement must come by April 15.

Any large refunding issues involving bonds paying 3% per cent, or less interest, will increase by that amount the total of bonds eligible as security for national bank notes as all such bonds received that circulation privilege for three years under the federal home loan bank act approved July 22, 1932. Until that time the only bonds having the privilege were $674,625,000 in 2 per cent consols and Panama canal loan bonds.

Law Limits Issue.

The act covered an additional $3,089,000,000 of government bonds, but the maximum amount of national bank notes which may be issued is limited by the national bank act which restricts a national bank from issuing notes in excess of its paid-in capital.

Another feature of the new administration's problem is that in addition to callable long term bonds, there are outstanding, omitting from consideration certain special notes and certificates, about $3,325,000,000 in treasury notes of five years maturity or less; $2,015,000,000 of one year certificates of indebtedness, and about $640,000,000 in treasury bills, most of them of 90 day maturity, a total of about $5,980,000,000.

For nearly 18 months, the treasury has been carrying on its business by the use of such short term issues, which have been marketable at very low interest rates because of the desire of banks and other financial institutions to maintain a position of extreme liquidity.

None of the notes mature before 1934, but a long term refunding operation which involved many of the other short term securities could be carried out only at a loss to the treasury.

Some experts believe that unless the necessity for further borrowings by the government is quickly ended, a refunding of at least some of the short term debt into long term bonds will be necessary to keep down the short term issues to a manageable proportion.

CORN MONEY COMES INTO USE IN IOWA

Corn piled high in the main street of Clear Lake, Ia., after the town had turned grain dealer, buying 8,660 bushels at 25 cents and paying in corn money.

Town Sells Corn

Clear Lake, Ia., Feb. 26.—[Special.]—"Corn money" has come to Iowa. Turning grain dealer, the city of Clear Lake has purchased 8,660 bushels of corn at 25 cents a bushel, making payment in the new medium of exchange. Eighteen circular cribs 20 feet high, filled with the corn, block two city streets. The corn will be sold at auction next Friday.

Farmers from seven north Iowa counties and a number from southern Minnesota have marketed corn here under the new plan. Sales were made at the rate of 20 bushels a minute on the opening day.

The corn money, sponsored by the Commercial club, is issued in 25 cent denominations and differs from scrip in that it is backed by an equal amount in cash paid in by merchants. Through a corn exchange bank the money will be resold to local citizens and kept in circulation until March 25, when it will be redeemed. Merchants can redeem the money for cash by taking a 2 per cent discount.

The spender signs the money on the back to make it negotiable. The money is accepted anywhere in town, even for light, telephone, and water bills. All must be spent in Clear Lake, however, by next Saturday night.

4 ARIZONA STUDENTS TRAPPED BY STORM; 1 DIES, 1 UNCONSCIOUS

Flagstaff, Ariz., Feb. 26.—(AP)—Meager reports tonight from searching parties on Mount Elden said four Arizona State Teachers' college students, trapped by a snowstorm late yesterday, had been found—one dead, another unconscious, and all suffering from exposure.

Robert Sanders, 19, of Yuma, Ariz., was reported to have frozen to death. Doris Ebsen of San Simon was said to be unconscious from the cold.

Nancy Alford, 17, of Sacaton, Ariz., and William Brown, 19, of Ray, were found and taken to Flagstaff, apparently suffering no ill effects other than frostbite.

Brown said Sanders appeared dead when he and the two girls left him. Miss Ebsen, he said, collapsed while they were trying to get down the mountain and they were compelled to leave her.

HONORS NOT SOLD, MACDONALD WILL ASSURE COMMONS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Feb. 26.—Formal assurance that British titles are untainted by undue influence or pressure to acquire them will be given the house of commons Tuesday when Prime Minister MacDonald replies to a series of rumors cropping out as a result of the sentence imposed on Maundy Gregory. Gregory last week pleaded guilty to offering the sale of a knighthood or baronetcy to a naval officer for $50,000.

It was reported today that the cabinet has been making a close examination into the means whereby worthy Britons become knights, baronets and peers. Party leaders have satisfied themselves that the honors lists are now perfectly clean. All nominees are closely scrutinized.

3 CUBAN BOMBS WRECK 2 HOUSES, DERAIL FREIGHT

HAVANA, Cuba, Feb. 26.—(AP)—Three bombings in the last 24 hours caused injuries to two persons, damages to two buildings and derailment of a freight train. A Havana bombing injured both Dr. L. A. Herran and his wife and damaged their residence.

At Santa Clara a bomb exploded last night in the residence of Pedro Olascoga, municipal employé, seriously damaging the building, but Olascoago was not hurt.

An explosion of dynamite placed under the tracks of the United Railways near Jovellanos early today caused the derailment of the engine and two cars of an eastbound freight train. Damage was slight and none of the train crew was injured.

GIRL VICTIM OF SLEEP SICKNESS MAKING GAINS

Miss Patricia Maguire, 27 years old, who has been suffering from sleeping sickness since Feb. 24, 1932, was reported to be gaining against an attack of pneumonia yesterday after being placed in an oxygen tent. An appeal for the tent was made by her mother, Mrs. Sadie Walters Miley, 523 Clarence avenue, Oak Park, on Saturday, when the girl was stricken.

The girl's condition became critical at that time for the first time since she became ill a year ago. Her temperature rose to 105.6, her respiration was 42, and her pulse 142. Yesterday morning, however, Dr. Eugene Traut said her condition had noticeably improved.

12 'LAME DUCKS' FROM ILLINOIS TO BE OUT MARCH 4

Two of Them Democrats; Some Veterans.

Washington, D. C., Feb. 26.—[Special.]—One week from their last official day on Capitol hill, Illinois' lame duck congressmen are looking for a place to light, come next Saturday, when they no longer have a steady job.

Twelve of the Illinois house delegation of twenty-seven were defeated in the primaries or in the November elections and are scheduled to make an exit from public life when congress adjourns March 4.

Most of them, particularly those whose service in congress has not been so lengthy, have professional practices or businesses in their home towns. They will return to start off again as private citizens. Others plan a "vacation." And still others are faced with the prospect of actually starting all over again.

Kunz Plans to Rest.

Of the twelve lame ducks only two are Democrats, and with a Democratic administration coming into office they alone of the dozen can reasonably expect an appointment in the federal service. One of them, Representative Stanley Kunz of the Eighth Illinois district, in Chicago, has made no plans, sought no appointment—intends "to rest for a while."

The other Democrat, Representative James T. Igoe of the Sixth district, in Chicago, is seeking the appointment as United States public printer, in charge of the government printing office. Mr. Igoe, who has served in three congresses, conducted a large printing business in Chicago before he entered politics, and is indorsed for the public printer's job by the printing trade of Chicago. He has likewise the support of the entire Illinois delegation in the house, of Senator Elect William H. Dieterich, possibly of Senator James Hamilton Lewis, who has not yet committed himself. Should he fail to obtain the appointment Mr. Igoe intends, he said, to return to his private printing business in Chicago.

Plans Return to Practice.

Representative Carl Chindblom, Republican, of Wadsworth, is one of the oldest of the Illinois lame ducks in point of service, having served continuously for seven terms, from the sixty-sixth, through the seventy-second congress. He is a member of the Chicago law firm of Brecher & Chindblom, and will return to practice.

Tied with Mr. Chindblom in point of service, however, is Representative Richard Yates, representative at large, whose home is at Belleville. He, too, has served continuously from the sixty-sixth through the seventy-second congress.

"I have no plans," he said. "For twelve years I've run errands for other people. Now I'm going to take a vacation."

Representative Kunz, Democrat, is the next ranking veteran among the lame ducks. Then come Republicans William P. Holaday of Danville, Morton D. Hull of Chicago, and William E. Hull of Peoria. All have served five consecutive terms from the sixty-eighth through the seventy-second congress. Mr. Holaday intends to return, he says, to the practice of law in Danville. Morton D. Hull intends to rest, probably in Chicago. William E. Hull said he is going to stay in Washington and vacation until the beer bill for which he has fought bitterly in recent years is passed.

The next three ranking veterans of the Illinois lame ducks, Republicans Charles Adkins of Champaign, John C. Allen of Rock Island, and William R. Johnson of Galena, have served four consecutive terms from the sixty-ninth to the seventy-second congress. None of them could be reached today, however, to ascertain their plans for the immediate future.

Representative Homer W. Hall, Republican, of Bloomington, who follows them in point of service with three consecutive terms, stated that he has an established law practice in his home town.

Representative Burnett M. Chiperfield, Republican, of Quincy, who has served three terms, but not consecutively, stated that he will return to a private law practice and to the affairs of a bank of which he is president.

RIGID U. S. ECONOMY, TARIFF CO-OPERATION IS URGED BY BUTLER

New York, Feb. 26.—[Special.]—The way out of the depression for the United States, Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler said today, lies in rigid governmental economy and international cooperation on tariffs and war debts rather than in higher taxes, inflation, and "reactionary nationalism."

The president of Columbia university gave his views on the causes and cures of the financial and economic crisis in a letter to Senator Reed Smoot, chairman of the senate committee on finance, which had invited him to appear before it. Academic duties prevented his acceptance of the invitation, Dr. Butler said.

Among the economies suggested by Dr. Butler were repeal of the statutes authorizing payment of sums tantamount to "a dole to veterans suffering from injuries or illness not connected with service" and "a business-like reorganization of governmental agencies."

"The power to effect this simplification and reorganization," he said, "should be given to the President of the United States, whom the people can then hold directly responsible for the use which he makes of this authority."

Dr. Butler estimated that repeal of unsound veterans' legislation would save the United States treasury 450 million dollars a year, and indicated agreement with estimates of a 100 million dollar annual saving by means of a merger of the war and navy departments into a department of national defense, which, he held, was more compatible with the principles of a nation that had renounced war as an instrument of national policy.

LAWMAKER HITS AT 'STRONG ARM' LOBBY METHODS

Says Organized Minorities Threaten Defeat.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 26.—[Special.]—The evolution of a new strong arm method of lobbying which finds highly organized minorities holding the club of political defeat over legislators on Capitol hill was described today by Representative Royal C. Johnson [Rep., S. D.], who is resigning voluntarily after eighteen years of service.

The new lobby of intimidation, said Mr. Johnson, in an interview granted the official organ of the United States Chamber of Commerce, has grown to such proportions that it now constitutes a serious threat to the American form of government.

"Any member of congress who finds arrayed against him politically five major groups of organized minorities," he declared, "may as well not continue in politics. If he does, he must be prepared to meet class and group propaganda in every city, town and township in his state or district."

Anti-Saloon League One.

Mr. Johnson named the Anti-Saloon league, the American Legion and the American Federation of Labor as examples of the pressure type of lobby which has grown up in Washington. Of idealistic origin, he said, these groups have turned from methods of education to "blackjack tactics" in their efforts to influence congressional action.

"Before the world war, or rather before 1915, when the allies and the central powers began to spend untold millions in the United States to influence public opinion, the slogan of the individual or small group that desired to influence legislation was 'get the legislation!'" said Mr. Johnson. "The slogan of minority groups today with the new idea of political intimidation is 'get the congressman!'"

"So long as any idealistic group educates the people on the merits of legislation, it cannot injure the government," Representative Johnson went on. "The moment, however, it adopts strong arm or blackjact tactics, it does injure the government, because, at that moment, it tries to make the choice of a senator or representative dependent on his attitude upon its particular pet theory or appropriation and ignores every other economic and social public question. The new theory of lobbying is exactly that theory. In other words, each of these groups says, in effect, to members of congress:

They Threaten Defeat.

"'Do as we tell you to do or we will defeat you.'"

The efficiency of their threat, said Mr. Johnson, is attested by the fact that since 1914 some 1,800 senators and representatives have come and gone. Of the 531 senators and representatives who sat in congress in 1914, he said, only nine senators and sixteen representatives still remain.

"Of this tremendous turnover," he declared, "those of us who have been in congress can name member after member of both houses who has been 'gotten' by organized minorities, because they would not support certain special privilege legislation."

Within the last year, according to Representative Johnson, a movement has been on foot for the organization of persons opposed to these strong arm lobbies.

Make Plans for Defense.

"If these special groups can force through congress legislation for their special benefit or defeat candidates who oppose it," he said, "it seems inevitable that another group will spring up, composed of citizens who desire no special preference or appropriations, whose purpose will be to defend legislators who retain their independence. Several organizations with that professed purpose have been formed. So far as I have been able to discover, this new formation or organizations to combat organized minorities is a recent development."

While the Anti-Saloon league confined its efforts to educational activity, Mr. Johnson contended, it flourished and accomplished its purpose. But when it turned to strong arm methods, he declared, its following decreased and it gradually caused its own undoing.

"Get the Congressman."

"By its own action," he stated, "the league made an issue in every congressional district, not of the desires of a representative's constituents, but of his subservience to the league's decrees. By means of a small, compact, thoroughly organized subsidiary in every state, the league controlled congressional elections. But it forgot its educational work. As a result the temperance education of thirty million voters who have come of age since the world war must be done all over again."

Referring by name to the American Legion and the American Federation of Labor, Mr. Johnson stated that practically every organized minority in the United States has attempted to emulate the methods of these well-organized groups, and each of the groups mentioned has caused the defeat of some men and the election of others in close states or districts."

Doctor's Treatment Quickly Conquers Acid Stomach

"I feel so good after taking Udga Tablets. For years I suffered with excess acidity. Everything I ate soured in my stomach. My appetite got poor. It was agony for me to even try to work. Wish you could see me eat now. Am not bothered with sourness—work every day and am not tired in the least."

Udga Tablets, a doctor's prescription, have a world-wide record of success in the treatment of gas pains, excess acid, belching, bloating, pains after eating, sour stomach, constipation, heartburn, poor digestion, dyspepsia, gastritis and other conditions caused by hyperacidity or faulty diet.

Why suffer when you can try this safe and harmless treatment without risk? Get a $1.00 package of Udga Tablets today. Use the entire box and then if you are not positive that they have done more for your sick stomach than anything you ever used—return the empty box and get your money back. Ask Walgreen's for Udga today and see what a real treatment can do for your sick stomach.

REPEAL VOTE PLAN MAY BE ADOPTED IN INDIANA TODAY

Indianapolis, Ind., Feb. 26.—[Special.]—The Indiana legislature will either recess or adjourn Thursday to permit its principals to attend the Roosevelt inauguration. If the new state Democratic administration completes its legislative program it is expected that sine die adjournment will be in order. Administration leaders assert they see no reason why the legislature should meet again, after this month, until 1935.

Last summer's special session was caused by the stalemate of split control in the senate and house, numerous temporary alliances between insurgent Democrats and the small Republican minority.

Efforts in the senate yesterday under suspension of the rules to pass the bill setting up machinery for summoning a state convention to vote on the congressional repealer of the eighteenth amendment failed. Only enough votes could be mustered to push the bill along in its normal way. Disgruntled legislators seeking action before adjournment on certain personal bills are beginning to muster enough strength to slow up the administration's clockwork passage of bills.

The administration intends to push through the repeal referendum bill Monday or Tuesday and also to jam through a bill diverting a major part or all of the receipts from the state four cents a gallon gasoline tax to the state general fund. Two cents now go to the state highway department and two cents to cities and counties where the tax is collected.

Gov. Paul V. McNutt delayed over the week-end signing the beer control bill passed last week which makes state prohibition no more strict than national prohibition and which repeals the state bone dry law enacted in 1925. He also delayed signing the sales tax bill, likewise passed under suspension of rules last week. He says he must make sure both bills are flawless constitutionally before they become law.

SCHOOL HEADS IN CONVENTION IN MINNEAPOLIS

Minneapolis, Minn., Feb. 26.—[Special.]—Education of the nation's citizens, in all its phases and with all its problems, was the center of attention in Minneapolis today as the annual convention of the department of superintendence of the National Education association convened. Thousands of educators are here and more will arrive tomorrow.

Only one meeting, a vesper service at the University of Minnesota, was held today. At that meeting Lotus D. Coffman, president of the university, declared that the youth of the nation, having lost faith in its political and economic leaders, is looking to educational leadership as its last hope.

"Millions of youths are wondering what tomorrow's sun may bring," Dr. Coffman said. "They are asking whether the educational leadership will prove as helpless in its task and responsibility as the political and economic leadership has proven."

SEE LESS CRIME AFTER REPEAL IS RATIFIED

Hoover's Research Group Issues Report.

New York, Feb. 26.—[Special.]—Authors of the chapter on crime and punishment of the President's research committee on social trends, made public today at its headquarters here, reach the conclusion that there is at present really no crime wave of great proportions in the country, but that neither an increase nor a reduction in crime is to be expected in the immediate future. The writers of the chapter express the belief that, with the legalization of liquor selling, criminals will probably continue their activities in organized form, but on a lesser scale.

The chapter was written by Dr. Edwin H. Sutherland, professor of sociology at the University of Chicago, and Dr. C. E. Gehlke, professor of sociology at the Western Reserve university. The facts upon which their conclusions are based were gathered under their own direction.

No Great Crime Wave.

"No support is found for the belief that an immense crime wave has engulfed the United States," it is said. "The number of arrests and court cases per 100,000 population increased moderately from 1900 to 1930, with a tendancy to rise more rapidly after 1920 than before. A large part, however, of the increase of the last decade is explained by traffic cases, which increased at about the same rate as automobile registrations.

"Arrests and prosecutions for major crimes increased even less rapidly than the rates for minor crimes. Prosecutions in federal courts were fairly constant from 1900 to 1917, after which an enormous increase occurred; but this was due principally to the large number of liquor cases. Federal cases also reached a level about 1923 and have not changed significantly since that date. The record of crime known to the police, which is potentially the best index of the number of serious crimes, shows a slightly lower rate in 1931 than in 1930.

"These figures do not indicate that crime has swept over the country like a tidal wave."

On Volstead Act.

After commenting on the use of the automobile and the Volstead act as factors in "organized crime," the chapter continues:

"The passage of the Volstead act precipitated a series of developments which have had direct effects in the field of crime. The demand for liquor made a situation in which the violation of a law that had only partial public support rewarded the purveyors of the contraband on a grand scale. Naturally those criminal elements in the community which had successfully conducted the business of gambling and prostitution were in a position of technical advantage relative to the machinery of law enforcement in this new situation, and into their hands fell a large share of this business, especially in the metropolitan areas."

Chicago Is Cited.

Chicago is cited as an example of a city where it was possible to purchase immunity from interference by police and courts and to influence elections, and the rise of the "gang" is described.

In conclusion the chapter says: "No reduction is in sight in the number of crimes, either major or minor, but the fact that the major crimes reached an approximate level in 1925, which has been maintained ever since that time, indicates that we need expect no great increase in them in the immediate future. Organized crime will probably continue."

DR. ROBERT WAHL TO GIVE POST-GRADUATE COURSE IN BREWING

A post graduate course for brewers to prepare them for the legalized return of beer, will be offered beginning March 14, by the Wahl institute of Brewing Technology, which is to be located somewhere in the loop. This is a partial revival of the old Wahl-Henius institute in Fullerton avenue headed by Dr. Robert Wahl, who yesterday announced plans for his new training school.

"We will train graduates of our old institute to take positions as brewmasters in any plant," Dr. Wahl said. "It have gone the rounds of breweries and have learned that they plan to start operations the minute beer is legalized."

No brewing apparatus will be installed in the loop institute, Dr. Wahl said, but the students will be given the scientific information necessary to make a good quality of beer. Dr. Wahl will be assisted by his son, Arnold Spencer Wahl, and a staff of experts in brewing operations, technical and laboratory control, barley culture, refrigeration, engineering, construction, and pure yeast culture.

AUTOMOBILE THEFTS.

Automobiles stolen, 76; recovered, 50; stripped, 9 [from police records for twenty-four hours ending at midnight Saturday.] There were no court cases.

John Macknikowski, 68 years old, of 2500 West 46th street, a pensioner of the International Harvester company, was fatally injured last night by an automobile while crossing California avenue at 46th street. Arthur Dinardi, 22 years old, 415 South Kilbourn avenue, the driver, took Macknikowski to the Southtown hospital.

An unidentified man about 50 years old died last night in the Washington Boulevard hospital of injuries incurred Saturday night when he was struck by a Checker taxicab at Western and Austin avenues.

LONDON EXPRESS PAINTS WOEFUL PICTURE OF U. S.

Says Economic and Social Structure Cracked.

BY JOHN STEELE.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Feb. 26.—What some newspaper readers in Britain are being told about the sad condition of the United States was evidenced in today's big splash in the Sunday Express, published by Lord Beaverbrook, a Canadian.

President Elect Roosevelt is going to find the country in the most extraordinary position in its history when he becomes President next Saturday, the paper asserted.

"On every side great fissures are appearing in its economic and social structure," the paper continued. "A widespread and general eruption is threatened. Ordinary methods of business are collapsing in state after state. In the west, where thousands of farms and ranches are mortgaged to their full value, mortgagees dare not foreclose.

Horses Hitched to Cars.

"The states of Indiana, Michigan, New York, and New Hampshire are in the throes of emergency control. New Jersey will shortly join these others. There are large areas in the middle west where no banking facilities exist whatever.

"In Virginia owners of cars have not sufficient money to buy petrol. Many of them have hitched horses to their cars and drive them through the streets. These contraptions are called 'Hoover cars.'

"Tremendous social unrest exists throughout the entire Union. The younger generations has lost faith in Washington."

The Express gives its readers the following exclusive account of the dolorous plight of American millionaires, with a "famous industrialist in New York" cited as a source.

Servants Go Unpaid.

"A millionaire banker summoned his staff of 50 servants at his Long Island mansion a little while ago and explained they could remain in his service, but that he could no longer pay them any wages."

Suicides, chiefly among the business class, have reached 20,000 annually and the total is now so grave that censorship has been clamped down on future publication of such statistics, according to the Express.

"The number has greatly increased during the last six months and the actual figures are not being published," the article said. "The system has now collapsed utterly."

Unmindful of the fact that the United States prints its own currency, the Express discloses the following:

"The most extreme example of the collapse of the economic system outside the big cities just occurred in one of the biggest timber producing states of the west. State authorities were unable to afford paper on which to print currency and authorized the use of native wooden tablets instead.

"Safe deposit vaults, however, are crammed with gold all over the United States because of the general distrust of banks and the fear that currency will cease to have any value. How keenly Americans feel their position may be gauged from a Reuter's message received from Washington yesterday describing a motion [which was unsuccessful] brought forward in congress to censure Sir Ronald Lindsay, British ambassador, for his 'lobbying' during a discussion of war debts."

THREE SLAIN, 27 HURT IN GERMAN POLITICAL FIGHTS; BAN 2 PAPERS

BERLIN, Feb. 26.—(AP)—The deaths of three persons, suspension of two more newspapers, and a flood of oratory today marked the beginning of the final week before German citizens elect new reichstag and Prussian diet members.

Two persons were shot and killed and five were wounded at Wuppertal when communists fired upon a Nazi procession. At Lindenfels an 18 year old member of Chancellor Adolf Hitler's youth organization was stabbed to death and another suffered dangerous knife wounds. Three brown shirted Nazis, adherents of the chancellor, were wounded by gunfire at Falkensee, and at Breslau a Nazi was stabbed in the lungs. In a shooting affray at Hamburg 17 persons were wounded. Most of the injured were Nazis.

Die Rote Fahne, organ of the communist party, published in Berlin, was suspended for six weeks and the Bamberger Volksblatt, newspaper of the papal prelate, Johann Leicht, was forced to suspend publication for four days, under an edict forbidding publication of matter considered inimical to the government.

Prince August Wilhelm, fourth son of the former kaiser, was loudly cheered while speaking in defense of Nazi principles in Madgeburg, Saxony, considered by the Nazis to be an enemy stronghold.

De Valera Heads Rescue Party; 2 Saved from Snow

DUBLIN, Irish Free State, Feb. 26.—(AP)—President Eamon de Valera and two of his sons today headed a military party which rescued Prof. Nolan and a companion who had been marooned in the Wickow mountains by the heavy storms which have swept Ireland the last few days. Prof. Nolan, who is connected with the National university, is a friend of the president.

3 Italian-Built Argentine Submarines Begin Sea Trip

TARANTO, Italy, Feb. 26.—(AP)—Three Argentine submarines which were built here, the Salta, Santa Fe, and Santiago Dellestero, left today on a 7,000 mile trip to Buenos Aires. The submarines will make the trip without an escort.

Honduras Enacts Martial Law; Sets No Time Limit

TEGUCIGALPA, Honduras, Feb. 26.—(AP)—Congress today promulgated a martial law degree, to be in effect for as long as President Tiburcio Carias Andino deems necessary.

Hit and Run Dog Sends Denver Man to Hospital

Denver, Colo., Feb. 26.—(AP)—A hit and run dog put W. J. Cennack, 72, in the hospital today. The dog set out to chase a motor car, collided with Cennack and threw him to the pavement, fracturing his leg.

The Lobby's REIGN of TERROR

. . . with the taxpayer paying the bills!

THE MARCH of the Organized Minorities now converges upon the Nation's Capital. Their banners are imposing. Each group has one purpose: To influence legislation for its particular interest.

Today's lobby is new and dangerous. No longer a lobby of education or of bribery, it is a lobby of threat. To each Congressman, it says, "Do as we tell you—or you're through!"

IN the March issue of NATION'S BUSINESS, now on the newsstands, Royal C. Johnson, retiring Congressman, takes you behind the scenes of legislative Washington. He answers in concrete terms the question hundreds of business men are asking: Why is legislative progress so halting? Why are obvious governmental economies so difficult to obtain? He points a finger to the organized minority groups.

"Any member of Congress, who finds arrayed against him politically five major groups of organized minorities, might just as well not enter politics," says Mr. Johnson.

Here is an article typical of the service which NATION'S BUSINESS gives its readers—illustrative of why these readers respond so directly to NATION'S BUSINESS advertisers.

NATION'S BUSINESS is edited to answer the vital questions now being asked by business men. These questions come to us literally by hundreds every month . . . from what is probably the largest editorial correspondence enjoyed by any business magazine.

NATION'S BUSINESS responds, not merely with information, but with constructive remedies which business men can apply. By all means read the March number—at newsstands 25 cents—or by mail for three years, $7.50.

ESTONIA TO MAKE SECOND DEFAULT ON DEBT DUE U. S.

European Tariff Walls Hurt Baltic State.

BY DONALD DAY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

TALLIN, Estonia, Feb. 26.—Estonia intends to make no more payments on its American debt. M. Jirman, minister of economy, made this clear recently when he announced before parliament that Estonia would not pay any installments during the coming year. Accordingly, no provision for debt payment has been made in the new budget. The minister made no mention of the installment of $356,370 on which the country defaulted last Dec. 15.

Although the smallest of the Baltic countries, Estonia, with her 1,100,000 population, owes the United States more than either Latvia or Lithuania, both of whom have twice as many inhabitants.

How Debts Stand.

With accrued interest and deferred payments the debts of the three small Baltic states are today as follows:

	Present debt. Original debt.	Repaid.	With acc. int.]
Estonia	$13,999,144	$1,348,432	$16,466,012
Latvia	3,132,586	634,156	6,858,694
Lithuania	4,981,627	1,128,580	6,197,682

The debts of the Baltic states are not large and the question of their repudiation only developed after the various countries in Europe began to raise tariff walls against each other. These countries are largely agricultural and their ambition was to become prosperous little exporters of dairy products like Denmark and Holland. Great Britain and Germany have been their chief markets, but now the latter have imposed contingents on imports of butter, pork and other agricultural produce and the chief source of foreign currency which the Baltic states need to meet foreign obligations was closed.

Both Germany and England demand that the Baltic states import more of their products. The result has been increased imports from Germany and England and a decrease of imports from the United States. Although these countries have signed trade agreements with America, both Estonia and Latvia have instituted import contingents and are openly discriminating against American goods.

American Trade Curbed.

Merchants who have worked hard in recent years to build up their credit with American firms are no longer permitted to purchase dollars at the Estonian and Latvian state banks to pay their bills.

Desperately fighting to maintain their currency on a gold standard, both Latvia and Estonia have adopted bolshevik methods of finance and established valuta commissions, which control payments of foreign commercial debts.

Like Moscow, both Riga and Tallin publish fictitious exchange quotations and force persons receiving foreign exchange to exchange their money at the official rate, whereas its actual value has increased 20 per cent.

Neighbors Shuck Field of Corn of Crippled Farmer

Bloomington, Ill., Feb. 26.—[Special.]—Sixty-one friends and neighbors of Paul Woodrey, farmer near Le Roy, Ill., shucked 1,600 bushels of corn for him the last week and will finish clearing his fields the coming week. Mr. Woodrey lost two fingers in an accident three weeks ago and has been unable to complete his corn picking. Thirty-two teams were in his fields last week.

GOVERNOR DERN HERE ON WAY TO INAUGURATION

Former Gov. George H. Dern of Utah, named by President Elect Roosevelt as his secretary of war, arrived in Chicago yesterday morning with Mrs. Dern and their daughter, Mrs. Harry Baxter of Salt Lake City. They are en route to Washington for the inaugural ceremonies, but will spend today here and start east again tomorrow. From Chicago they will be accompanied by their son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. John Dern of Winnetka. Yesterday at noon the family group was entertained at luncheon at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Bruce MacLeish at Glencoe, parents of Mrs. John Dern, who was the former Jean MacLeish.

HITLER REVIVES COURAGE IN WAR BEATEN GERMANY

Why Millions Idolize New Chancellor.

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Feb. 26.—National Socialist leaders and various more or less neutral observers declare: "Hitler restored to millions of his followers faith in themselves, faith in their own country, faith in their future. For this millions of Germans idolize him."

How he did it is a phenomenon which is almost incomprehensible to the outsider. Only Germans could respond to him as wholeheartedly as they did—thanks to their strong romantic strain and to the fact that when Adolf Hitler began "spreading his message" they felt the need of consolation after four years of war, after defeat and a harsh peace.

Nazis Quote the Bible.

Hitlerites themselves quote the Bible when speaking of the startling rise of their movement.

"The faith of our people in their National Socialist leaders reminds one of the Bible where faith is the substance of things hoped for and the evidence of things unseen." Walter Funk, Germany's national press chief and a Hitlerite, said recently.

The unknown Austrian corporal in the German army who in 1919 rose to tell Germans that they had not been defeated but tricked, that they had a right to be proud and have faith in themselves, did it with an eloquence denied thousands of others trying to revive the people's courage.

The new leaders of Germany "writhing under the heel of the victors" could only try to satisfy the most urgent material needs of their starved countrymen. "Common sense and moderation," was their slogan. They keenly resented the humiliations imposed by France. They accepted them believing it was safer to yield than to have French and Polish bombs destroy the capital and the industrial centers.

Fell Under His Spell.

Proud Germans suffered agonies and thousands listened to that young soldier tell them:

"You are not the wicked initiators of the war as your former enemies brand you; you are not as weak as your present leaders try to make you appear; think of the strength of the old Germanic tribes and their great empire."

Hitler, it seems, was fate's antidote to a national inferiority complex and that gave him this uncanny power over millions of Germans. Thus, one is able to understand how Hitler now occupies the post once held by Bismarck.

Hitler—What He Stands For.

Without the historical and psychological background Hitler's rise is incomprehensible. Look at him:

Idealist, undeniably. Fanatic, without any question. Energetic with a faith in himself that may spell greatness if he wins, but which will be branded as megalomania if he fails. A dreamer with many of the characteristics of the artist, yet a thoroughly hard boiled realist who can weigh the pros and cons of a situation in practical terms. Devoid of logic.

Master propagandist and master showman, Hitler plays on the German emotions like a great artist, but with the zest of the man thoroughly convinced he has a great mission to perform.

That is Chancellor Hitler, but only a very small part of his many sided personality. Despite his self-confidence, he is often shaken by doubt and swayed by sentiment. Germans love sentimentality, but not many have the courage of their sentimentality. Hitler has it and has made a political asset out of it.

Shy in Private Circles.

In a private circle Hitler often appears shy, a bit helpless. On the other hand it is uncanny when Hitler greets a group of men and almost mesmerizes them. He'll shake hands and stare straight into their eyes for a second—two seconds, three seconds—until the other person's eyes light up in response. It is part of the Hitler rite—a challenge of loyalty.

An outsider is appalled by the lack of plain logic in many of Hitler's speeches, only to turn around and see thousands of Germans of sound education drink in his message.

He even mixes up his sentences, occasionally confuses his points—repeats passages. The outsider is a bit astonished, but the Hitlerite is swept away, thrilled to the marrow by the "leader's message."

Stages Spectacular Shows.

With the same adulation millions of Germans showered on the kaiser in the old days, Nazis today bow to Hitler. The former kaiser, too, was a great showman. His parades and processions were famous. Hitler's storm troops provided the spectacular shows, the military thrill lacking in the German republic.

Hitler built up his party with the aid of his famous twenty-five point program of "National-Socialism." As the title indicates, it is a cross between the social aspirations of the masses and nationalistic ideals. He promised to enforce it for the future happiness of Germany as soon as he came into power.

Hitler himself announced a four year program of reconstruction. Since his appointment he has not done one single stroke of work on this program. His chief lieutenants have admitted that "the leader is not losing his time working out concrete points of program because one must first see how things develop after the elections on March 5. Programs are all right for elections, but actions must be based on events and important developments."

This same theory Hitler, in his election speeches, denounced as "weak kneed opportunism" but that was before the power was his.

The temptation to try to rule Germany as Mussolini rules Italy is hard on him. Despite Germany's undeniable desire to have again a chief of government who issues orders to be obeyed blindly and placing the responsibilities on him, a Fascist state, pure and simple, will meet with strong opposition.

CAPTURE TWO HOLDUP MEN.

Sergt. George Kammerer and a detective squad from the Chicago avenue police station captured two Negroes early yesterday in the act of holding up William Bock, 2917 Belmont avenue, in front of 819 West Division street. The prisoners gave their names as Walter Lockett and James Brantley.

JAPANESE ARMY SWEEPS ON IN DRIVE ON JEHOL

Chinese Troops Fight to Check Invasion.

BULLETIN.

SHANGHAI, Feb. 27 (Monday).—(AP)—Because of uncertainties in the vicinity of Chinwangtao, just south of the Great Wall, Japanese residents of that town are fleeing to Dairen, Manchuria, Japanese dispatches reaching here today said. Chinwangtao is about 12 miles south of Shanhaikwan, which was occupied by the Japanese early in January.

The Fourteenth infantry brigade of Maj. Gen. Heijiro Hattori, after bivouacking during the night in knee-deep snow in open fields, resumed their attack along the Wukungfu road and reached Shamaoshan, 15 miles inside the border, despite continued stubborn resistance by the forces of Marshal Chang Hsueh-liang, North China military leader.

Resume Southward Push.

On another front the Fourth cavalry brigade, commanded by Maj. Gen. Kenosuke Mogi, resumed its southward push from Kailu, in northeastern Jehol, and this morning was reported past Hopei, 95 miles southwest of Kailu, after occupying Hsinglunti and Hsiawa.

Hsiawa was occupied yesterday. It was the base of Feng Chanhai, the strongest volunteer chieftain in eastern Jehol. His command was said to be retreating pell-mell toward Chihfeng, about 120 miles north of Jehol City, and reportedly the northernmost end of the Chinese main defense.

Japanese aviators on returning to Chinchow from bombing raids in the neighborhood of Lingyuan reported that that important mountain pass, about 50 miles inside the Jehol border, apparently was without defenders. The aviators estimated that their bombardments had caused 1,000 Chinese casualties.

Hold Third of Province.

Meanwhile, like a giant gate 250 miles long, hinged at Shanhaikwan, the Japanese-Manchukuoan advance swinging into Jehol already has swept across the eastern third of the province.

[Shanhaikwan, Chinese city south of the Great Wall where it dips down to the sea, was taken by the Japanese in January after heavy fighting.]

At least two Japanese columns of troops have advanced more than 60 miles from the Manchurian border into the northern China territory. One is Gen. Mogi's cavalry brigade, which began its drive at Kailu. Another force, commanded by Lieut. Gen. Yoshikazu Nishi, driving to the west from Chaoyang, was reported approaching Chienping.

[Chinese officials Saturday denied that the Japanese had occupied Kailu, as reported by military authorities of that nation. Officials of the Chinese Nationalist government at Nanking also denied that the Jehol key positions of Peipiao and Chaoyang had been abandoned to the Japanese. Chaoyang is the second largest city in the province. Yesterday, however, a Chinese communique at Peiping said both Chaoyang and Kailu had been abandoned by Chinese troops and that both cities were in ruins. Chaoyang was said to be in flames.]

Cold and Snow Curb Army.

Cold weather prevailed on most of the battlefields. That was said to be the worst enemy encountered by the cavalry of Gen. Mogi, which went into action in the face of subzero winds which drove before it desert sands mixed with snow.

However, Gen. Hattori's cavalry, recently brought down from the northern island of Hokkaido, yesterday met stalwart Chinese resistance where the road from Suichung to Wukungfu crosses the Manchurian-Jehol border. Gen. Hattori was said to have started an advance from Suichung, in southern Manchuria, aimed at Wukungfu.

A mixed force of regulars of Marshal Chang Hsueh-liang and volunteers going under the name of the "blood and steel corps" entrenched themselves on a hilly pass and stood off the vanguard of Hattori's forces all day long. Bombing planes from Chinchow were rushed to assist in smashing the defenders.

Despite this disarrangement in schedule Japanese authorities assert that Chinese morale is cracking and that a majority of the fighting units are retreating without resisting. They believe no real battle will be offered by the Chinese before the latter's line of defense stretching from Chihfeng to Pingchuan is reached.

[Military observers have said it was their opinion the first major engagement of the Japanese-Manchukuoan offensive would occur in the vicinity of the first Chinese defense line stretching from Chihfeng, midway between Kailu and Jehol City, the capitol of the province, to Wukungfu. There, it was said, many thousand troops of Marshal Chang and Gen. Tang Yu-lin, Chinese governor of Jehol, were concentrated.]

Dispatches from Kailu claimed that the former foe of the Manchukuo state and its newly made ally, Gen. Liu Kui-tang, had begun an advance with the objective as Lintung, 40 miles northwest of Tienshan. [Japanese dispatches near the end of last week said Gen. Liu, who had been commanding Chinese irregulars opposed to Manchukuoan rule, had agreed to submit himself and his troops to Manchukuo and join in the campaign against the Chinese armies.]

Chinese Casualties 1,000.

PEIPING, Feb. 27 (Monday).—(AP)—Chinese casualties in the fighting in Jehol province were officially estimated today at 1,000.

The Japanese casualties were said to be unknown, but it was stated the invaders had lost 600 in killed and wounded near Paishihtsumen, near Lingyuan, alone.

(Lingyuan is approximately half way between Chaoyang and Jehol City, capital of the province. It is approximately 125 miles from Chaoyang to Jehol City.)

At 6 p. m. Sunday the Chinese forces still held Paishihtsumen, their new line of defense, despite efforts of Japanese cavalry to push through with the support of concentrated artillery fire.

Telegrams from Jehol City said Japanese airplanes were bombing vehicular traffic on main roads, but the results were negligible.

Capital Ready for Siege.

[Copyright: 1933: By the New York Times.]

CHENGTEH (Jehol City), Feb. 26.—This city of 30,000 population, the capital of Jehol province, is the scene of feverish military activity as it is the point from which war supplies are being sent to many fronts. The military leaders here say they are prepared for a long siege and that they are ready to withstand the worst the enemy has to offer.

Along the route from Peiping to this city are evidences of the Chinese preparations for large scale hostilities. Hundreds of camels laden with munitions are plodding through the mountain passes. Long lines of supply carts are drawn by donkeys and oxen. Besides large bodies of infantry and cavalry are proceeding toward this city.

Chinese commanders here express the belief that Jehol presents a military problem to the Japanese that is likely to prove the terminating point in their Manchurian adventure by shattering the Japanese army's attacking strength.

Calls Retreat Strategic.

Gen. Tang Yu-lin, governor of Jehol province, was interviewed today in the magnificent summer palace built 200 years ago for the Manchu dynasty.

"The Chinese withdrawal from Chaoyang and Peipiao is purely strategic," Gen. Tang said. "We are expecting to make similar fighting retreats, drawing the Japanese from the railroads into difficult, mountainous country, extending their lines of communications and shortening ours.

"We are not afraid of their airplanes. Let them drop what they want, knowing that they must return to their distant bases. The Japanese are superior in modern instruments of warfare, but we will show what flesh and blood can do."

Lieut. Col. Walter S. Drysdale, United States military attaché to Peiping, W. H. Donald, adviser to Marshal Chang Hsueh-liang, and C. Walter Young, legal adviser to the Lytton commission, are at present inspecting the concentrations at Lingyuan.

China Denies Envoy Is Recalled.

[Copyright: 1933: By the New York Times.]

SHANGHAI, Feb. 26.—The Chinese government today issued an official denial of reports that a decision has been reached to recall Chang Tso-pin, China's minister to Tokio. Admitting that there is agitation for such withdrawal and that the advocates include men of such prominence as Sun Fo, former premier, and Dr. C. C. Wu, former minister to the United States, both of whom are now members of the Chinese government, a government spokesman declared it is too early to take such a momentous step.

JAPANESE THRUST DEEPER INTO JEHOL

Heavy dotted line on map indicates approximate battle front as Japanese forces advance into the Chinese province of Jehol. A Japanese cavalry brigade is pushing south from (1) Kailu. After occupying Hsinglunti, 50 miles due west of Suitung, it passed Hopei, 95 miles southwest of Kailu, this morning.

Another column is driving to the west from (2) Chayoang, which was abandoned by the Chinese. Japanese infantrymen are attacking the Chinese 15 miles inside the border of Jehol after starting their advance at (3) Suichung in southern Manchuria. Chinese defenders are retreating in the Kailu region toward (4) Chihfeng, a mountain pass, reportedly the northernmost end of the Chinese main defense. Japanese planes are bombing the neighborhood of (5) Lingyuan, another mountain pass about 50 miles inside the Jehol border.

U.S. SUPPORT ON JAPAN'S CENSURE PLEASES LEAGUE

Russia's Reply to Report on Manchuria Awaited.

GENEVA, Feb. 26.—(AP)—The reply of Secretary of State Stimson of the United States regarding the league of nations report on the Manchurian situation aroused gratification today among delegations to the league which had seen it. Most of the delegations, however, were observing a week-end holiday.

(A note dispatched to Geneva last night from Washington following upon a conference between Secretary Stimson and Cordell Hull, secretary of state-designate, expressed "general accord" with a league report which condemned Japanese military policy in Manchuria. The Japanese delegation walked out of the league assembly Friday after the report was adopted unanimously.)

Delegates to the league assembly reserved comment pending consideration of the American reply by the committee of 21, which will carry on the work in connection with the Manchurian situation.

The reply of the soviet government was still awaited. It was believed that Maxim Litvinoff, chief soviet delegate, wishes to get diplomatic recognition from some league members in exchange for soviet coöperation. League leaders now are greatly concerned to learn if the United States will coöperate with the committee of 21, which was authorized to invite the participation of the United States and soviet Russia.

Japan Makes Plea to U. S.

[Copyright: 1933: By the New York Times.]

PARIS, Feb. 26.—Profoundly disturbed by Secretary of State Stimson's note to the league of nations, Yosuke Matsuoka, speaking for Japan's Geneva delegation, which is now gathered in Paris, made an earnest plea to the people of the United States tonight "to think twice before they agree lightheartedly to the recommendations by the league."

That Mr. Stimson's action added a new and vital element to the situation which has deeply intensified Japanese resentment against the United States was obvious to those in contact with that group today. They were anxious, deeply worried men, but still as determined as ever to continue those policies in Manchuria that have been condemned in Geneva.

"Japan will not yield," he said. "What has happened at Geneva will not alter her policy the slightest."

Think of War's Possibility.

What worries the Japanese chiefly is not Geneva nor do they particularly blame the league as such for what has happened. The two non-members, the United States and Russia, and particularly the former, are most in the minds of the Japanese. And what they think of is the possibility of war.

For this reason Matsuoka feels that the greatest task before him and other Japanese leaders is to work for better relations with the United States. Otherwise, he said, a very serious situation is bound to arise. He seems to be reconsidering his idea of going through the United States, where he had planned to see President Elect Roosevelt. It is known that he feels Mr. Stimson's move has made matters very awkward for him and also fears embarrassing the Washington authorities by paying what might be an unwelcome visit.

BOMB 2 ULSTER RAIL STATIONS; STRIKE GOES ON

BELFAST, Northern Ireland, Feb. 26.—(AP)—Two bombs were exploded over the week-end in Belfast railway stations.

(Ulster railwaymen have been on strike for almost three weeks over a proposed wage cut.)

Police as yet have been unable to prove any connection between the bombings and the railway strike.

The first bomb damaged the roof of the station and one car at the Victoria station of the Great Northern railway. The second bomb did slight damage at a depot of the London Midland Scottish railroad.

ILLUSION: The Oriental girl reclines on a sheet of plate glass supported by two slaves. The magician waves a white sheet in front of the pretty maiden... pronounces a few magic words... Presto! She has disappeared in thin air.

EXPLANATION: "Disappearing" acts are among the most popular in the repertory of the magician. Dogs, horses, girls, whole rooms disappear—whisked into wings, dropped through trapdoors, hidden by mirrors. But this "disappearance" is a bit different. One of the "slaves" is a hollow dummy. When the magician holds up the sheet the lithe little lady disappears completely—into the convenient figure of the dummy.

IT'S FUN TO BE FOOLED ...IT'S MORE FUN TO KNOW

There is also a trick of cigarette advertising, whereby a few magic words are used to create the illusion of "Coolness."

EXPLANATION: Coolness is determined by the speed of burning. Fresh cigarettes, retaining their full moisture, burn more slowly... smoke cooler. Parched, dry cigarettes burn fast. They taste hot. This makes the method of wrapping very important. Improperly wrapped cigarettes begin to dry out as soon as packed.

Camels are cooler because they come in the famous Humidor Pack of welded, three-ply, MOISTURE-PROOF cellophane... and because they contain better tobaccos.

A cigarette that is fresh, full of natural moisture, and blended from choice, ripe tobaccos tastes cooler than one that is harsh and acrid. For coolness, choose a fresh cigarette, made from costlier tobaccos.

It is a fact, well known by leaf tobacco experts, that Camels are made from finer, MORE EXPENSIVE tobaccos than any other popular brand.

Try Camels... give your taste a chance to sense the difference. You'll appreciate it!

FRENCH PAPERS INSIST HUNGARY IS PLANNING WAR

See Fascist Scheme to Seize Vienna.

BY EDMOND TAYLOR.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, Feb. 26.—That the peace of Europe is about to be rudely shattered in south central Europe, that Hungary is brazenly preparing for war, that the battlefield will be Vienna, and that the combatants will be the Socialists who hold the Austrian capital in their grip and the Fascist Heimwehr army backed by Fascist Hungary—this sensational but well documented report is occupying much of the attention of the Paris press despite its pre-occupation with the budget situation.

The story in great detail is appearing in all papers from extreme left to extreme right. Nationalists organs pleasantly quoting Socialists papers and the other way around, in their common effort to avoid revealing the real source of the report, which THE TRIBUNE is informed is none other than the Quai d'Orsay itself. The Quai d'Orsay, THE TRIBUNE learns from authoritative sources, looks upon the report as confirmed and wishes to give it publicity, but for its own reasons does not wish to be credited with giving out the information.

Report Planes Sent to Hungary.

Populaire, Socialist official organ, begins its article by quoting what is usually one of its bitterest enemies, the Nationalist Echo de Paris, organ of the military party, to the effect that Italy delivered a fleet of high powered airplanes in Hungary recently.

Populaire then adds some new and sensational matter of its own:

"In the entourage of the Hungarian Premier Goemboes the opinion prevails that the touchy point in the European crisis has shifted recently from Germany to Austria. The long expected clash between Socialists and Fascists is imminent. There is reason to believe that the Hungarian and Italian governments are not unaware of the preparations being made.

Tells of War Plot.

"The Budapest cabinet has never maintained so many spies and agents provocateurs in Austria as now. In Premier Goemboes' entourage the developments are envisaged thus: As soon as the civil war begins between the Austrian Socialists and their enemies, bands of Hungarian 'irregulars' will hurry to the aid of the Austrian Fascists. Their objective will be Red Vienna. Their mission will be to annihilate the Schutzbund, the Socialist organization.

"Parallel with this activity of the irregular bands, the regular forces of Hungary will occupy the Czechoslovak border. These troops will have orders not to cross the border into Czechoslovakia unless the Czechs abandon their neutrality.

Charges Militarization.

"In preparation for these events several important steps have been taken. The manager of the railways has been replaced by an army staff officer, Col. Jules Dalnoky Kovacs.

"A central military transportation committee has been formed. In January the government postal, telegraph and telephone system was placed on a military basis. Army officers have been placed in all the ministries.

"Preparations are now being made for spring maneuvers. Not only the army but also the various youths' military formations, university corps and veterans' organizations will participate. . . . The first group of armed forces will get moving March 15, when civil transportation will be suspended."

OBSERVE 86TH ANNIVERSARY OF WOMEN'S SCHOOL

Rockford college, at Rockford, one of the oldest colleges for women in the middle west, celebrated the 86th anniversary of the chartering of the college yesterday.

The college was founded in 1847 by Anna P. Sill, for 35 years its leader. The first collegiate class of seven students received degrees in 1854. Numbered among the famous graduates is Jane Addams, Hull house founder and winner of the Nobel peace prize, and the late Julia Lathrop, also noted for her social welfare work.

Dr. William A. Maddox has been president of the college for the past 13 years. One of the most recent innovations into the curriculum is a course for freshmen called "introduction to the arts."

FALL FATAL TO WATCHMAN.

William C. Fort, 54 years old, 1928 North Kedvale avenue, a watchman, died yesterday in the Garfield Park hospital of injuries suffered on Feb. 18 when he fell at 1016 West Monroe street.

LAND ARCHITECT VITALE OF NOTED ESTATES IS DEAD

Member of World Fair Commission.

New York, Feb. 26.—[Special.]—Ferruccio Vitale, a member of the architectural commission of the coming World's Fair at Chicago and one of the best known landscape architects in the United States, died of pneumonia today at his home here at the age of 58 years.

Mr. Vitale was named by President Coolidge in 1927 as a member of the national fine arts commission and he was the designer of the Meridian Hill park in Washington as well as other national parks in the west and many estates in the environs of New York, Chicago, Philadelphia, and Pittsburgh.

Native of Florence.

Mr. Vitale was born in Florence, Italy, Feb. 2, 1875, a son of Lazzaro and the Countess Giuseppina Barbaro Vitale. Graduating from the Royal Military academy of Modena, he was commissioned in the Italian army. He was military attaché at the Italian embassy in Washington in 1898 and 1899 and was sent to the Philippines as military observer with the United States army. He was made a chevalier of the crown of Italy.

Resigning from the army, Mr. Vitale came to New York in 1904 and began practice as a landscape architect. In addition to private estates Mr. Vitale executed the town plans of Scarsdale and Pleasantville, N. Y. Besides the national fine arts commission he was engaged on many federal government projects during the world war.

In Many Societies.

He was a member of the Foundation for Architecture and Landscape Architecture at Lake Forest, Ill., and was a past president of the New York chapter of the American Society of Landscape Architects. He was an honorary member of the American Institute of Architects and of the Army of the Philippines.

Mr. Vitale, who became a naturalized American citizen in 1921, won the gold medal of the Architectural league of New York in 1920.

In 1910 Mr. Vitale married Miss Rosamond Flower Rothery of Wellesley, Mass., who survives him with two children. His summer home was at Great Barrington, Mass.

PANAMA CANAL PASSES COLOMBIA WARSHIPS FREE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BALBOA HEIGHTS, C. Z., Feb. 26.—Not only is the Panama canal open to warships of both Peru and Colombia in the Leticia conflict, but the vessels of Colombia will continue to have free transit of the canal, it was announced by Panama canal officials today.

This concession is guaranteed to Colombia in her treaty with the United States of 1909, which states that "the republic of Colombia shall have liberty at all times to convey through the ship canal now in course of construction by the United States across the Isthmus of Panama, the troops, materials for war, and ships of war of the republic of Colombia, without paying any duty to the United States; even in the case of an international war between Colombia and another country."

Another clause limits this guarantee to exclude transit of ships free of duty for Colombia in case of a war between that country and Panama. The Peruvian cruiser Bolognisi, which was scheduled to reach Balboa from Callao six weeks ago for overhauling at the dry dock, has not so far arrived here. It is reported that the vessel is standing by somewhere near the Colombian port of Buenaventura and will bombard that port as soon as the order is received from Lima. The Peruvian legation here claims that the ship is anchored at the Peruvian port of Talara.

Dr. Arthur C. McGiffert, Noted Theologian, Dies

New York, Feb. 26.—[Special.]—The Rev. Dr. Arthur Cushman McGiffert, theologian, educator, and author, president of Union Theological seminary from 1917 to 1926, died suddenly last night at his home in Dobbs Ferry, N. Y., of a cerebral hemorrhage. Funeral services will be held Tuesday morning in the seminary. Dr. McGiffert's successor was the Rev. Dr. Henry Sloane Coffin.

Gunmen Rob Two in West Side Auto Finance Office

Four armed men entered the G. N. C. Auto Finance company at 2929 Washington boulevard last evening. They took $825 from the manager, Joseph Riha, 1931 South Austin boulevard, and his ring, valued at $225. The robbers also took a $350 diamond ring from Mrs. Lillian Gardner, 3316 North Springfield avenue, who was in the place with her husband, John E. Gardner, an attorney.

SEEK NEW UNION PAY SCALES TO SPUR BUILDING

Negotiations between employers' groups and the various trade unions to formulate new wage scale contracts are getting under way, Edward M. Craig, business manager of the Building Construction Employers' association, announced yesterday. The present contract, which was drawn up last year and which reduced the pay scales of building mechanics 20 per cent, expires on March 11.

A further reduction in the wage scale is asked by the contractors, it was said, although no definite demands have been made as yet. The employers have suggested a flat rate of $1 an hour for all building mechanics, according to Mr. Craig. The unions are asking a six hour day and the staggering of work to give employment to more men.

Mr. Craig asserted that the employers are willing to consider the staggering of work but insist that the work shifts be arranged so as to cause the least possible inconvenience to the contractors.

"The employers feel that through the establishment of a flat rate of $1 an hour building activity will be stimulated," said Mr. Craig, "and consequently a great number of mechanics will go back to work."

Mr. Craig pointed out that the present wage scales run from $1.40 and hour for screenmasons, slate roofers and painters down to $1.30 an hour for carpenters, cement finishers, hoisting engineers, ornamental ironworkers and tilesetters.

As to the seriousness of the question, both from the standpoint of employers and workers, Mr. Craig pointed out that 1932 was the poorest building year in Chicago in decades.

It was further pointed out that the actual wage scale in Chicago is much lower than the agreed union rate. In many cases building trades mechanics are working for less than $1 an hour, he said, through secret arrangements with unorganized contractors.

The employers' group, it was said, are insisting that organized labor cooperate with them in the matter of a new wage rate to enable them to meet the competition of unorganized contractors who are paying low wages. They charge that the trade unions have been unable to control the practice of secret wage rebates. A meeting of contractors who are members of the association will be held today.

Laundry Owner Is Slain Near Tong Headquarters

Henry C. Lam, 35 years old, the Chinese owner of a laundry at 1466 East 67th street, was shot and killed yesterday by another Chinese in front of the headquarters of the On Leong tong at 2214 Wentworth avenue, known as the "Chinese city hall." As he fled the killer tossed aside his weapon. It was a new revolver and the police are trying to trace its sale. Frank Moy, an official of that tong who is sometimes called the "mayor of Chinatown," told police that there has been no trouble between tongs.

JUDGE CONTINUES WAR OF WORDS WITH COURTNEY

Municipal Judge Thomas A. Green fired a fresh volley yesterday in his war of words with State's Attorney Courtney over release of prisoners from jail by judges of the Municipal court.

Judge Green denied that he released Julius Mapp, a Negro fined $200 for speeding, from the Bridewell on a writ of coram nobis. Mapp, he said, was released under a pauper's writ, through the procedure provided by the statute for the release of prisoners sent to jail to serve out a fine who can show that they have no money to meet the fine.

Judge Green has a hearing scheduled today upon a writ of coram nobis sought for Harry Waller, whom the judge fined $200 and sentenced to the Bridewell for ten days for reckless driving. A writ of coram nobis is in effect the court's order for the reopening of a case upon grounds that new evidence has been discovered since the first trial.

In a letter to Judge Green, Assistant State's Attorney Grover Neimeyer asserted that the law had not been complied with in applications for these writs recently, and also that Mapp had been released on such a writ.

Begin Sowing Oats in Region Around Quincy

Quincy, Ill., Feb. 26.—[Special.]—In case good weather continues, hundreds of acres of oats will be sown in the Quincy area in the next ten days. A few farmers have sown oats already. The frost is virtually all out of the ground and spring plowing is well under way.

FORD PUTS HUGE FORTUNE BEHIND 2 DETROIT BANKS

Will Establish and Run Both Institutions.

creation of two new banks and will match the total necessary capital, which we understand is $8,250,000, with the good brains of those who are willing later to unite these banks into one institution founded on what we think sound banking should be, provided you have confidence in our ability to select the men whom we all believe will merit future public confidence.

"The institutions so established will be the type of financial structure that will merit public faith in the ability of industrial Detroit to rehabilitate itself.

"HENRY FORD,
"EDSEL FORD."

It is understood that Ford will leave his deposits in the old banks, estimated at around $7,000,000, on the same terms as the other depositors.

78 Million R. F. C. Loans.

Under the terms of the Reconstruction Finance corporation loans the First National bank was to have received $54,000,000 and the Guardian National $24,000,000.

In subscribing for all the capital stock of the two banks Ford announced his willingness and his desire to take over the liquid assets of both institutions, which would enable them to carry on. However, he reserves the right to name his own board of directors because there will be no stockholders. The banks will be his own personal property, as he will own every share in them.

Alters Banking Situation.

Ford's entry into the picture alters banking conditions here materially. It provides a new hope and it leaves control in the hands of a Detroit man.

Although they refused to comment on the new turn of affairs, bankers of the city were evidently greatly pleased. They feel that the financial power of Mr. Ford, fortified with one of the largest stores of liquid cash and government securities in the country, would in themselves be all that is necessary to place the city's financial situation on a solid rock foundation.

Earlier in the day Walter H. Dunham, president of the Detroit Savings bank, had announced that the bank he heads would resume its commercial business, but would be unable to accept checks upon other institutions except subject to final payment. It will operate upon a limited withdrawal basis, he said, in so far as the savings deposits are concerned.

Mr. Dunham said that withdrawals temporarily will be limited to cases of real necessity, under the terms of the second proclamation issued by Gov. William A. Comstock.

MANAGERS PLAN COUNTRY CLUB ZONING SYSTEM

A country-wide zoning system for town and country clubs is to be discussed at the four day convention of the Club Managers' Association of America, which opens today at the Hotel Sherman. The managers hope to formulate plans to prevent club promoters from reaping a harvest for themselves at the return of prosperity.

"During boom days promoters had an easy time selling memberships in cow pastures and vacant city property," said Frank H. Murray, president of the Chicago District Club Managers' association. "A large portion of the money they collected for club memberships went into their own pockets, with the result that the clubs were founded insecurely and failed with the financial drop.

"The association is aware that the next era of prosperity may witness the overbuilding of clubs due to the activities of promoters. They are meeting to suggest a form of zoning so that the number of clubs will be determined by the wealth and population of a community."

Society Woman Thrown, Crushed to Death by Horse

MITCHELL, HEAD OF NATIONAL CITY BANK, RESIGNS

Decision Follows Senate Committee Testimony.

New York, Feb. 26.—[Special.]—Charles E. Mitchell tonight offered his resignation as chairman of the National City bank and the National City company, its subsidiary, in a letter addressed to the directors of the bank as the result of the recent testimony before the senate committee on banking and currency.

Mr. Mitchell's letter to the board of directors of the bank follows:

"My first loyalty is to the National City Bank of New York, to which I have given the best years of my life, and I am not willing that the criticism which has been directed at me as the result of public misunderstanding of testimony given in ex parte hearings before the senate committee on banking and currency during the past week shall react upon the institution.

Explains Decision.

"The subjects dealt with related in the main to events of the year 1928, 1929, and 1930, a period which has passed into history, and chiefly concern activities of the National City company, the bank's securities affiliate, which had little or no relation to conditions of the present day.

"As the chief executive officer of the National City company as well as of the bank, I personally have been brought under a cloud of criticism from which I conceive that the institution should not be permitted to suffer by my continuance in office.

"It is, therefore, with deep regret that at the same time with satisfaction that the way of service to the institution is open to me, that I ask you to accept my resignation as a director and as chairman of the National City bank of New York, which resignation applies as well to my similar position in the affiliated and subsidiary companies.

"I am sure that this elimination of my personality will not in the slightest degree affect the loyalty and devotion to service of the officers and employés who have been my associates in this great National City institution.

"Its financial strength is such that it needs no restatement by me, but it will always be my deepest source of pride."

Mr. Mitchell's proffer of resignation will be acted on by the directors of the National City bank at a meeting tomorrow morning at the bank's headquarters.

The resignation was offered by Mr. Mitchell before he left tonight for Washington to reappear tomorrow before the senate banking and currency committee, which has been pursuing an inquiry that resulted in scrutiny of transactions by Mitchell while an executive in the National City bank and its security affiliate, the National City company.

The statement was given out at the headquarters of the bank, 20 Exchange place.

The meeting at which Mr. Mitchell's resignation will be considered tomorrow morning is a special meeting called for that purpose.

List of Affiliated Companies.

The list of companies affiliated with the National City bank, from which Mr. Mitchell is resigning, includes the following:

The National City company, the City Bank Farmers Trust company of which he was also chairman; the National City Realty corporation, the National City Safe Deposit company, the International Banking corporation, and the General Sugar corporation.

Mr. Mitchell before going to the National City bank was head of his own investment banking corporation, C. E. Mitchell & Co. In 1916, when the National City went into the investment banking field, through the National City company, he took the position of vice president of the latter.

Later the same year, he was elected president of the National City company. In 1921, he was named president of the National City bank of New York and on April 2, 1929, he became chairman of the bank's board of directors.

HIGH MOTOR TAXES CALLED THREAT TO HIGHWAY TRANSPORT

Sidney D. Waldon, chairman of the American Automobile association, in a survey of special taxes levied upon motorists, has reported that the excises have mounted so high that the future of highway transportation is threatened. In states that have increased their gasoline tax rates the revenue from this source has shrunk because owners were forced to abandon their cars.

The total federal, state, and local tax paid on motor car ownership and operation in 1932 has been placed at $1,099,293,844. This is an average of $45.28 a vehicle.

"Any fair analysis of the situation today," said Mr. Waldon, "should convince congress and the state legislatures that topheavy and unscientific motor taxes, together with the growing temptation to use these taxes for general purposes, are threatening the country's motor transportation structure.

"In the three year period of 1930, 1931, and 1932 there was a decline of 2,269,281, or 9 per cent, in motor vehicle registration. At the same time there was decreased use of motor vehicles still registered, particularly passenger cars.

"In the face of these two facts the per vehicle tax increased $7.56, or 20 per cent, during this three year period."

Woman Bandit Beats 2 Sisters, Flees with $40

A woman purse snatcher, armed with a blackjack slugged Frances and Tillie Treder of 3835 North Sawyer avenue, and robbed them of their purses, containing $40, early yesterday near their home. The two women, sisters, were severely bruised by their assailant, who escaped in an automobile driven by a man.

SPEEDS APPEAL OF DECISION ON BANK RECEIVERS

Kerner Acts as Counsel for State Auditor.

Attorney General Otto Kerner today will perfect an appeal to the Appellate court from the decision of Superior Judge Denis E. Sullivan holding that the section of the banking act giving the state auditor power to appoint receivers of closed state banks is unconstitutional and void. The attorney general is acting as statutory counsel for State Auditor Edward J. Barrett.

In conference with Assistant Attorney General William C. Clausen, Kerner is to determine the course to be pursued in appealing the decision. The Appellate court may be asked to review Judge Sullivan's decision or to certify an immediate hearing before the Illinois Supreme court. It was indicated yesterday that the former procedure will most likely be followed.

Examine Appointments.

At the same time an examination of court confirmations of the appointments of each receiver is to be made. Under Judge Sullivan's decision confirmations which merely approve the auditor's choice of a receiver are invalid, because the auditor has no power of appointment. If the confirmations are worded by the judges in such a manner as to appoint the receiver without mention of the auditor's selection, the receivers will not be affected by the decision, it was said.

Judge Sullivan ruled that the appointive section of the state is unconstitutional on the ground that it delegates judicial power to the state auditor. The decision is said to involve 500 appointments made by Oscar Nelson, former auditor, and his successor, Barrett.

If the decision is sustained the acts of the receivers appointed by the auditor and merely confirmed by the courts can be held illegal. It is estimated that dealings of the receivers involve more than 150 million dollars of cash and securities.

Depositor Tests Law.

The decision was made in a test case brought by a depositor of the Phillip State Bank and Trust company, challenging the appointment of Charles H. Albers as receivers. Albers was appointed by Nelson. The appointment was confirmed by Superior Judge Lindsay.

Pending the appeal Auditor Barrett announced all receivers will continue in charge of the closed banks until the case is finally decided by the Supreme court. Attorneys for the depositors have announced they will appeal an unfavorable decision by the Appellate court.

$300 OR LESS for 30 or 60 days or longer—

what is it worth to you?

• There are two cardinal principles back of the Household Loan Plan: first, to make money available to meet the emergency needs of most families; second, to render this service at the lowest charge possible for loans at retail.

• It is estimated that less than 20% of the nation's population has stocks or bonds available as security for loans. Under the Household Loan Plan two other kinds of security are acceptable—the ability to repay and household furniture (which remains in the borrower's possession).

• Furthermore, the plan is not limited to those who can repay within 30, 60 or 90 days. Repayments can be made in small sums monthly, over as long as 20 months.

• In place of requiring a co-signer, Household asks for the signatures of only husband and wife. Respecting their confidence, the only investigations made are the questions asked of them.

• To make this service convenient, the Household organization maintains 154 offices in 95 principal cities.

• Any thinking person will realize that it costs more than the usual bank rate to render this essential, small unit, retail loan service with its convenient monthly repayment feature.

• Yet the charge is not as high as many imagine, no more, in fact, than one is accustomed to pay for other retail services of comparable value.

LOAN COST*

Amount of Loan	Total Cost Repaid in 30 days	Total Cost Repaid in 2 equal installments in 60 days
$100	$3.50	$ 5.25
160	5.00	7.80
200	6.00	9.50
260	7.50	11.75
300	8.50	13.25

Twenty Monthly Repayments

Amount of Loan	First Payment	20th Payment	Av. Cost Monthly
$100	$ 8.50	$ 5.18	$1.84
160	13.00	8.28	2.81
200	16.00	10.35	3.40
260	20.50	13.46	4.24
300	23.50	15.53	4.80

All charges are figured on unpaid balances for actual time money is kept. No charges or deductions from the face of the loan.

*Cost slightly higher in some cities due to local business conditions

• Isn't it worth the fair cost listed at left to get $300 or less in cash quickly to pay past due bills, to meet unexpected expenses, or to tide over any other emergency?

• There is probably a Household office near your home, the address of which is listed below. You are invited to come in or phone at your convenience. Any information will be given gladly and without any obligation. If you prefer, write for the free booklet "The Household Loan Plan."

M. V. L. WARNS OF NEW THREAT IN CITY ELECTION

Finds 'Write-in' Campaign Gaining Headway.

In a bulletin issued yesterday by the Municipal Voters' league, citizens in 14 wards where there are no aldermanic contests were urged to defeat unofficial candidates who are instructing voters to write in their names on the ballots at tomorrow's election.

The campaigns to "write in" names of unofficial candidates have been under way in the wards since the board of election commissioners ruled out the nominating petitions of a large number of aldermanic candidates. The campaigns are being carried on usually in the interest of candidates whose petitions were rejected.

Find Many Undesirables.

"It now develops," the bulletin states, "that in many wards 'write in' campaigns have burst into varying degrees of bloom, and for probably the first time in the city's political history, whether because of lavish financial backing or astute campaign management, give promise of amounting to a definite threat.

"Many of the 'write in' candidates, who found themselves in the discard when the petitions were ruled out are not worthy of election. Some are wholly undesirable. In these days, when it is so necessary to have men of ability and capacity in the city council, Chicago must not suffer the calamity of losing even one capable alderman because his supporters figured he would win election without their aid and vote.

Lists Capable Aldermen.

"The wards represented by capable aldermen who face the possibility of losing their seats in the city council through the failure of their friends to go to the polls and vote for them, even though they seem to be unopposed, are:

Ward.	Ward.
4—B. A. Cronson	29—Thomas J. Terrell
8—David L. Sutton	30—John S. Clark
10—William A. Rowan	31—Thomas P. Keane
22—Henry Sonnenschein	35—Walter J. Orlikowski
24—Jacob M. Arvey	40—Joseph C. Ross
25—James B. Bowler	42—Dorsey R. Crowe
28—George D. Kells	48—John A. Massen

"The same situation confronts two wards in which the candidate whose name appears alone on the ballot is not a sitting alderman, but is believed by the league to be worthy of election. These are:

Ward.	Ward.
38—Dr. Henry J. Wieland	44—John J. Grealis.

"In the 44th ward in particular, an attempt at such a 'write in' campaign is being made in behalf of a candidate whose name was eliminated from the ballot when his petition was found not to comply with the law. The league strongly urges the election of Grealis in this ward.

"In the light of these facts the league offers good citizens in these sixteen wards this thought: On Tuesday, vote; it is better to walk a few blocks than to let things ride."

GEORGE KOOP ASKS VOTERS TO 'WRITE IN' NAME

George Koop, veteran campaigner and candidate, who is conducting one of the most active of the "write in" campaigns for alderman, yesterday distributed thousands of circulars in the 38th ward, where he is asking voters to write his name and address on the aldermanic ballot and put a square with a cross in it in front of his name.

Koop was one of the candidates whose names were left off the ballots for technical reasons. He is opposing Dr. Henry J. Wieland, whose name appears alone on the printed ballot.

Koop has the indorsement of the Chicago Federation of Labor. He is a member of the Typographical union and its delegate to the federation.

The "38th Ward Spotlight," a campaign document which appeared last week, declares the citizens of the 38th ward were disfranchised through the action of the election board in eliminating all 38th ward candidates except Wieland. It mentions Walter Miller, Charles Blaul, Joseph S. Rekus and Arthur Anderson as other candidates who are asking that their names and addresses be written on the ballot by voters.

Candidate Koop said last night that two armed hoodlums slugged distributors of the "Spotlight" at 3550 Ozark street and also in the 5700 block on School street.

BRUNDAGE TAKES UP NELSON OFFER TO AIR CHARGES

Reiterates Allegation of Capone Influence.

Former Attorney General Edward J. Brundage yesterday accepted the challenge of Ald. Oscar F. Nelson of the 46th ward to ask Federal Judge James H. Wilkerson for a public airing of Brundage's charge that Nelson with others asked him to use his influence with Judge Wilkerson in behalf of Al Capone. Judge Wilkerson, however, declined to be drawn into the controversy and refused to say whether he would take cognizance of the charge by Brundage and the denial by Nelson.

Ald. Nelson's candidacy for reelection at tomorrow's polls precipitated the Brundage statement. Originally it was made to the Municipal Voters' league in an effort to prevent the league's indorsement of Nelson, but the league decided in Nelson's favor and gave him its indorsement.

The Brundage Version.

The Brundage version of what happened when Al Capone was on trial for income tax fraud before Judge Wilkerson brought Nelson into the matter twice. First, Brundage said, he was asked to "soften" Judge Wilkerson during the trial, and Nelson visited him in his home in pursuance of orders from Capone.

The second occasion, Brundage said, was when Nelson and others went to him in his office after Capone's conviction with a proposition that organized labor would not oppose Judge Wilkerson's promotion to a higher court if the judge would be lenient in sentencing Capone. [The sentence eventually was 11 years in prison. Labor opposed confirmation of Wilkerson's appointment to the Circuit Court of Appeals before the United States senate, and Judge Wilkerson later asked that his name be withdrawn from consideration.]

Nelson's reply was that he had met Capone twice in his life, once in Brundage's office, and had never had any dealings with him. He went to Brundage's home to talk ward politics, Nelson said.

Tells of a Consultation.

In his statement of yesterday Brundage said that when he was asked o state the proposal to Judge Wilkerson he went to United States Senator Otis F. Glenn for a consultation. He said Senator Glenn told him "they"—appearingly meaning the labor representatives—had been to see him on the same subject.

Senator Glenn was told last night at the Auditorium hotel about the Brundage statement. He refused to discuss it. He also said he did not know whether Brundage had informed Senator William E. Borah of the proposals Brundage said were made to him. Senator Borah was head of the sub-committee that gave consideration to Judge Wilkerson's appointment by President Hoover to the higher court.

Senator Borah in Washington said he recalled that a story of that character had been brought to him but his recollection was that Brundage had never made actual contact with Judge Wilkerson on the matter.

Agrees to an Airing.

"If Judge Wilkerson is not disgusted with the public's appreciation of his services and desires to go into the Capone question I should be very glad to accommodate Nelson," said Brundage in his statement yesterday. "I apprehend, however, Nelson will not be interested after election day and he knows the time is too short to have a judicial hearing before Tuesday.

"Ald. Nelson is throwing a smoke screen of challenges, hoping the air will not clear until after election day. I have no personal controversy with him, although I believe he is unfit for the city council. Any challenge of public interest I will accept. The incidents I have related of his call upon me with Capone were not made as a personal attack on his present candidacy, but were told at the time they occurred to the persons directly affected.

"One of the directors of the Municipal Voters' league knew of the Capone attempt to intimidate Judge Wilkerson and asked me to tell it to the officers of the league for their private guidance, which I did. Some of them informed Nelson I had made charges against him.

His Charges Are Repeated.

"What I said I repeat. Senator Serritella called me up at my home one night during the Capone trial and asked if he could come out to see me. He came and brought Capone, whom I had never seen before.

"They told me they came because they knew I was a friend of Judge Wilkerson and that my record in public office was to treat people fairly and they considered they were not getting a fair trial before Judge Wilkerson. I told them that was a very unusual complaint to make of Judge Wilkerson, who was noted for his fairness and impartiality.

"They said he was manhandling their lawyers before the jury and prejudicing them. I told them I saw nothing wrong with informing the judge of their complaint, which I did.

"Capone boasted of his influence and connections. He named Nelson among others and I casually remarked that Nelson had been picked by Goy, Emmerson to put me out of politics. Whereupon Capone said to Serritella: 'You bring Nelson out here tomorrow night.' The next night Serritella was at my house with Nelson, who told me he was for anything I wanted politically.

Quotes Nelson on Emmerson.

"I asked him how he could be for me and loyal to Emmerson, whose patronage he had taken. His answer was: 'I don't owe Emmerson anything.'

"My next meeting with Nelson was the day after the jury had brought in its verdict of guilty against Capone. Serritella brought a delegation so large it filled my office. Capone and Nelson were among the number, including various labor leaders.

"Nelson sat with the others while their spokesman, who was—as I recall—Serritella, told me that rumors were Judge Wilkerson was going to impose an extreme sentence on Capone. If he would be reasonable, they said, they would help the judge be confirmed as justice of the Circuit Court of Appeals.

"I inquired what they thought was reasonable and they replied two years, but if he gave Capone a long sentence they would fight the judge's confirmation, they said.

Asks Nelson a Question.

"I pondered after the delegation had left what to do, knowing full well the ultimatum of Capone and his friends could not be told to the judge while sentence was pending. I concluded to tell another friend of Judge Wilkerson what had been told me, so I went to Senator Glenn. He said: 'Yes, I know all about it. They have been to me.' May I ask Nelson if he was also in the delegation making that call?

"It was unnecessary for me to go before the senate committee. Senator Borah was informed.

"Now, that is all I know about Nelson and Capone. His statement that I sent for him to discuss 46th ward politics with him and labor leaders who do not even live in the ward is ridiculous. Such alibis are usually accompanied by affidavits. Where is Serritella's? I have never discussed ward affairs with Nelson."

ASSERTS RUSSIA HAS TURNED AWAY FROM 'COMMUNIST FAILURE'

The failure of communism in Russia is demonstrated today by a widespread departure from its principles and a rising individualism gives promise of a new order, the Rev. Bruno Bitter, S. J., declared in a lecture yesterday. Father Bitter, who is vice president and American representative of the Catholic university in Tokio, spoke in the Studebaker theater.

Communism, said Father Bitter, has given way in Russia to state capitalism. He ascribed whatever material success the Russians have achieved to departures from the principles of communism, and said there was neither economic equality nor an effective ban on private property in the soviet country.

"If Russia returned to an international currency she could not compete in foreign markets and she must dump her products abroad to get international currency for necessities," Father Bitter said. "This arrangement can endure only so long as the workmen are content with a bare existence."

The rest of the world should be sympathetic toward Russia and thankful for the 16 year experiment, for it has shown conclusively that communism cannot solve our own economic problems, Father Bitter concluded.

JEWISH CHARITY WILL SEEK 1,000 NEW MEMBERS

The Young Men's Jewish charities will conduct a drive for 1,000 new members this week, Philip E. Ringer, president, announced yesterday. Because the charities are carrying a greater load than in any previous year, he said, more members are needed.

The charities support two boys' clubs and a summer camp for underprivileged boys and must raise $40,000 this year. Adrian J. Eichberg and Morris Halevy are co-chairmen of the drive.

The two boys' clubs are the American Boys' commonwealth, 3415 West 13th place, which serves 1,700 boys, and the Deborah Boys' club, 2415 Division street, which has a membership of 1,000.

RESENT CHARGES AGAINST CHICAGO MILK INSPECTORS

Dr. Bundesen Says Men Are Conscientious.

BY PAUL POTTER.

Officials of the Chicago board of health yesterday expressed resentment against charges, directed at the city's milk inspectors operating in Wisconsin, which were aired in a senate committee hearing at Madison this week.

A group of Wisconsin dairymen, headed by State Senator Herman Severson of Iola, accused the Chicago inspectors of such "irregularities" as the forcing of farmers to buy fertilizer and cattle feed from them in return for a permit to ship milk and cream to Chicago.

Severson assailed the character of many Chicago milk inspectors and urged the enactment of a law which would require all milk inspectors in the state, regardless of their employer's location, to be subject to Wisconsin state regulation.

Revive Severson Bill.

The Severson bill to accomplish this object, defeated two years ago, has been revived by a group of Wisconsin farmers who are opposed to the manner in which the Chicago board of health issues permits and enforces the city health inspection regulations.

"These charges reflect upon the character and quality of the inspectors sent out by Chicago," Dr. Herman N. Bundesen, president of the board of health asserted yesterday. "To say the least, they reflect upon men who frequently must work 15 to 18 hours a day to reach outlying territory in Wisconsin that seeks a Chicago market.

"We resent these charges, coming at a time when the board of health is endeavoring to operate on a strict, economical program and to require extra efforts from our limited force to insure a quality milk supply for Chicago. Our men are well trained and conscientious. If Wisconsin wants to regulate them, of course that is another affair."

Meanwhile, Illinois dairymen eyeing the possibility of obtaining a market for their milk and cream in Chicago were rallying to support a bill in Springfield which would place all Illinois milk dealers under state inspection and regulation.

Law Fixes Penalties.

The bill, introduced by William Carroll in the house, would require all farmers, importers and shippers of milk brought into Illinois in its natural state to be sold to secure a license from the director of agriculture at Springfield. The license would be subject to revocation or suspension upon a violation of the health provisions of the law, with penalties for violations. It is now in the committee on agriculture.

UNEMPLOYMENT INSURANCE BILL RAPPED AS 'DOLE'

State Group Leaders Urge Defeat.

The Illinois Manufacturers' association yesterday sent its members a bulletin urging them to oppose passage by the legislature of the "compulsory unemployment insurance" bill, which the association charges is nothing more than an attempt to establish the dole in Illinois. The bill has been introduced in the senate by Senator Richey V. Graham of Chicago, majority leader, and in the house by Representative Thomas J. Stack of Peoria.

It provides that all employers shall pay into an unemployment insurance fund 3 per cent of their wage payments until Jan. 1, 1937. Thereafter the proposed unemployment insurance commission shall classify industries according to risks of employment and set premiums for each classification which may range from 1 to 4½ per cent. The bill forbids collection of unemployment insurance payments from employés.

16 Weeks a Year.

The bill provides that payments, starting after three weeks unemployment, shall be made to employés for not more than sixteen weeks in any year. Payments for total unemployment shall be 50 per cent of weekly wages, with a maximum payment of $15 a week, and smaller sums are provided for partial unemployment due to shortened working days or working weeks.

The bill provides that unemployed persons may continue to claim the dole even though they have refused work from an employer who demands that they be nonmembers of unions, or in whose shop a lockout or strike exists, or who offers a rate of pay below the "prevailing wage." This latter provision, the association charges, is a disguised attempt to unionise Illinois industries.

Describes It as Dole.

"The 'relief' which this measure proposes," stated the bulletin, "is not 'insurance.' It should be described by its correct name—a dole for the unemployed. 'Unemployment insurance' would increase unemployment by crippling industries which furnish jobs by placing a premium on idleness and by decreasing the purchasing power of industrial employés whose wages employers would have to reduce in order to make contributions to the 'insurance' fund.

"The adoption of the measure would result in the creation of the most extensive and powerful bureaucracy thus far experienced in the state. The politically dominated 'unemployment insurance' commission would have practically unlimited authority to add pay rollers (all of whom would be paid out of funds furnished by employers) and to harass the employers who are endeavoring to supply jobs to competent and deserving employés. The fund would eventually become a political football."

50,000 CELEBRATE START OF WORK ON GOLDEN GATE BRIDGE

San Francisco, Cal., Feb. 26.—(AP)—Fifty thousand or more Californians gathered today to celebrate the start of work on the Golden Gate bridge across San Francisco bay, with the result that it was more a ground trampling than a ground breaking.

The throng at Crissy field was so dense it interfered with the program of parade and pageantry planned to commemorate the event.

Army, navy, marine, and civilian units combined to make up the parade of nearly 15,000 marchers.

Actual construction on the bridge, which is to cost $31,000,000 and be four years in the building, already has begun. When finished it will include the longest single clear span in the world, 4,200 feeet.

REPORT JUDGES FAVOR KEEPING STATE PAID AIDS

Economy Wave May Oust Secretaries.

Criminal court judges were reported to be desirous of retaining the "official" court reporters, paid by the state, who in many instances act as private secretaries to the judges, and who gather fat perquisites in "extra" charges to the county, and to lawyers and defendants. The retention of these secretaries, however, is contingent upon the views of the state legislators, according to word from Springfield.

These stenographers receive $300 a month from the state under an appropriation of the last legislature. The judges are understood to have decided that $250 a month would be sufficient.

Assembly Awaits Report.

State Representative Elmer J. Schnackenberg, chairman of the Illinois commission on taxation and expenditures created by the last general assembly, is to make a report to the legislature on the advisability of a new appropriation for the reporter-secretaries, but at Springfield it was said the report is not yet ready.

In addition to their monthly salaries the official reporters are entitled to charge 20 cents a hundred words for all proceedings transcribed for any one except the judges.

Thor Madsen, county efficiency expert, called attention to the bill presented by one of the nine reporters. The bill demanded $500 in extra compensation from the county and $1,400 from the state board of registration and education for work done in a month for which the state had already paid a salary of $300.

Finds Work Duplicated.

Mr. Madsen said the "official" reporters duplicate the work of the court reporters employed by the state's attorney in important criminal trials.

There was criticism, too, of the fact that nine official reporters were kept on the pay roll regardless of the fact that not more than five judges sit in the Criminal court at any one time.

FIND FLAT WHERE KIDNAPERS HELD JEREMIAH FLYNN

The apartment in which Jeremiah Flynn, 42 years old, owner of the closed Picardy club, at 4308 Cottage Grove avenue, was held a prisoner by kidnapers, was discovered yesterday by police at 1214 West 91st street. Thomas Mulvihill, the tenant, was arrested.

An anonymous telephone call sent Sergt. Chris Callahan and his squad to the apartment. They found Flynn's hat, topcoat and cane in the place. Later Flynn was taken to the apartment and said it resembled the one in which he had been held prisoner.

Flynn was kidnaped in front of his home at 816 East 42d street early Saturday morning. A short time later his relatives received a $10,000 ransom demand. He was released Saturday afternoon and denied making any payment.

A police guard was stationed in the apartment and Mulvihill was taken into custody when he appeared. He said his wife and two children are in Florida and that he had just returned from Kansas City, where he had been since Wednesday. He said he is a fur salesman, purchasing furs on Maxwell street and reselling them by canvassing homes.

Mulvihill said he did not know Flynn and had no part in the kidnaping. He said a friend, Willis Murphy, 8035 Prairie avenue, had a key to his apartment. Chief of Detectives Schoemaker was seeking Murphy for questioning last night.

20th Century Pullman Conductor on Last Trip

When the 20th Century limited rolled out of the La Salle street station yesterday afternoon, George F. Blackman, Pullman conductor aboard the limited, started on his last official trip of a railroad career during which he estimates he has traveled more than five million miles. Mr. Blackman, who is 70 years old, will retire today when the train reaches New York. He has been in service for 45 years, and has spent most of the last 25 on the 20th Century. His home is at Woodcliff, N. J.

ORDER NEW DOCK FOR WORLD FAIR AIRSHIPS HERE

Contracts have been let for construction of a 160 foot addition to the Goodyear airship dock at Pal-Waukee airport, near Wheeling, to provide facilities for a second airship that will be based there during the World's Fair this summer. This was announced yesterday by F. W. McConky Jr., local manager of the Goodyear Tire and Rubber company.

The airships Puritan and Reliance of the Goodyear fleet of nonrigid blimps, which are now in Miami, Fla., will leave there in April for Akron, O., where they are to be overhauled. They will arrive in Chicago about May 1 and will remain all summer, operating directly from the Century of Progress grounds. The two airships are 140 feet long and 35 feet in diameter, contain 112,000 cubic feet of helium gas and are powered by two radial air cooled Warner motors of 110 horsepower each.

THE RULES:
Eligibility: Every man, woman, boy and girl is eligible regardless of place of residence—excepting employes of the Chicago Tribune and their families. You pay nothing.
What to do: Solve the series of Crossword Puzzles appearing in the Chicago Daily Tribune. A new puzzle will appear each day, excepting Sundays, until 48 have appeared. The official seal and name of one of the 48 States of the United States will appear in each puzzle. Solve the puzzles and write the name of the State below each puzzle.
Dramatizations: Each evening, excepting Saturdays, W-G-N, the Chicago Tribune Station, will broadcast a dramatization of the State whose seal appears in the puzzle the following morning in the Tribune. Tune in. These dramatizations will furnish clues to help you.
Where to Send Entries: Hold all puzzles until you have the complete set of 48. Then send them to "State Seals," Chicago Tribune, Post Office Box 1718, Chicago, Illinois. All entries must be in by midnight 15 days after Puzzle No. 48 has been printed. Each entry must be sent by First Class Mail, Postage Prepaid. Entries with insufficient postage will be returned by the Post Office Department.
The Awards: The Chicago Tribune will pay 179 cash prizes totaling $2,500.00 to the persons who send in the nearest correctly solved and neatest complete sets of puzzles in accordance with these rules. You do not necessarily have to solve each of the 48 puzzles correctly to win. The prizes will be paid to the persons whose entries rank highest. Elaborate entries are not necessary and will receive no greater consideration than simple ones. Therefore make your entry simple and neat. (See Prize List at right.)
Judging: All entries will be judged by a Committee appointed by the Chicago Tribune. Entrants agree to accept their decision as final. In case of ties a duplicate award will be paid to each tying contestant.
Free: It is not necessary to buy the Chicago Tribune to compete. You may copy or trace the puzzles and send them in. The Chicago Tribune may be examined at any of its offices or at Public Libraries free of charge.

THE PRIZES:
1st Prize $500.00
2nd Prize 250.00
Next 2 Prizes—$100.00 ea. 200.00

DISSENSION RISES IN SERBIA; KING IN SHAKY POSITION

Rules as Dictator with Help of Army.

BY DAVID DARRAH.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BELGRADE, Jugo-Slavia, Feb. 10.—[By Mail.]—Is Alexander Karageorgevich, king and dictator of Jugo-Slavia, destined to become Europe's next ex-monarch?

Today it is an open secret that the dictatorship is in a bad way; discontent comes not only from the Croats the Slovenes but also from increasingly large elements of Serbians themselves. Established to reinforce the union of the south Slav peoples, who were falling apart under parliamentary government, it is generally felt now that the dictatorship has failed in this purpose.

As on the eve of all political changes, the opposition meets in secret and deplores the present state of affairs. The honesty of Alexander's motives in establishing the dictatorship four years ago is admitted. Only the opposition says the experiment has failed. What can be done to extricate the king from a mess and get back to constitutionalism? That appears the problem.

Rules with Bayonet.

The king's power and dictatorship now rests safely on the bayonets of his soldiers—soldiers who rank as among the best in Europe.

A picture of how the dictatorship functions is best given by a visit to the royal palace at Dedigny, 30 minutes from Belgrade. There Alexander lives in seclusion, surrounded by a veritable army of soldiers.

Surrounded by his soldiers, the king leads a simple and homely life. Except for an occasional visit, as for instance his recent visit to his brother-in-law, King Carol of Rumania, he spends his time in this lonely castle. There he receives his advisers and his generals and transacts the business of monarch and dictator. His recreation is hunting.

The king's problem is the problem of Jugo-Slavism—that is, the problem of making a unity out of the south Slavs. These are composed of three different groups, all of them divided by diverse culture. Lubliana, the principal Slovene town near the Italian border, is Catholic; Belgrade is orthodox; Zagreb, the elegant little capital of Croatia, is western and Germanic, Sarajeva is oriental and as Turkish as Stamboul.

Croats Want Free Union.

Two ideas of Slav amalgamation have been clashing: one the Croat idea of a free union and confederation and the other the Serbian, of unity brought about by a Serbian hegemony, or Greater Serbia. The first ten years of life under a parliamentary government saw rancor and misunderstanding between Serb and Croat steadily increase. Twenty-three cabinets rose and fell between 1919 and 1929.

Partisanship and corruption were rife in 1929 when Alexander decided to put the army into politics, assume the dictatorship and force a crystallization of opposing elements which would not crystallize of themselves.

Events had been precipitated the year before by the murders of Croat leaders in parliament. The Croats after that left Belgrade, announcing they would free themselves of the 1921 constitution, which had only been an instrument of Serb hegemony. No one could be found to unite the parties.

Demand New Constitution.

Then came the Croat demands for a new constitution with a federative base and local autonomy.

Seeing in these proposals a danger to the kingdom and a menace of dissolution for the young state, Alexander decided apparently to take direct responsibility of government with the army as his principal instrument.

On Jan. 6, 1929, proclamations were plastered over Belgrade that parliament had been dissolved, the constitution abrogated and the king from then on would be sole boss of the Serbs, Croats, and Slovenes. "It is my duty to safeguard the unity of the state at all costs," the king's proclamation.

The spirit of dissension and opposition, however, after four years still remains. And Serb disappointment with the dictatorship of Alexander now equals Serb disappointment with it. Both admit it has not advanced the cause of South Slav unity.

QUICKEST WAY TO KNOCK COLDS

Feel Like A New Person Almost Before You Know It

If you want quick relief from a cold, go back to first principles and use something you know does the business—don't start trying a lot of fancy ideas or remedies.

Get Hill's Cascara Quinine. A scientific formula made to do ONE THING WELL: to knock a cold in a jiffy, not to cure a hundred different things.

Take two tablets now. Then follow directions on box. Drink lots of water, too—that's all. Soon those meanaching pains in head and body begin to go; the cold breaks up; poisons leave your system and you feel like a new person.

If it doesn't do that, your money back. Get a box now for a few cents. Way it works will surprise you.

CARNEGIE BODY URGES SLASH IN SCHOOLS' COSTS

Time to Retrench, Says Foundation Report.

New York, Feb. 26.—(AP)—Economic retrenchment by the nation's schools of higher education was urged in the 27th annual report of the Carnegie Foundation for the Advancement of Teaching today.

Stressing a need for what it termed a "deflation" in the financial policies of colleges and universities, the report stated a "day of reckoning has come" for education "as well as industry."

Charges of "waste, inefficiency and lack of unified control" were made in the case of the state of California in a section of the report devoted to the findings of a commission which investigated the "state of higher education" there.

Work Sharing Proposed.

Among the measures suggested by the foundation for economic readjustment which would cause the least "human hardships" among personnel or institutions involved were:

Economy in expenditures of all kinds.

Reduction of the types of courses offered by colleges when similar courses are offered by "more competent" neighbor institutions.

Adoption of a "share the work" plan among faculty members to provide maximum employment compatible with curtailment of classes.

The main report on economic conditions to be met by institutions stated that "while an institution may refrain from filling vacancies, it should also refrain from forcing academic men and women into unemployment."

Vacating Job Opposed.

"It is doubtful institutional ethics," wrote Dr. Henry Suzallo, president of the foundation, "to allow at present a policy of economy, however necessary, to lead to discharges from the academic staff.

"The present economic situation imposes certain very practical policies of curtailment on college management, but the present human situation just as insistently calls for a humane policy."

Dr. Henry S. Pritchett, president emeritus of the foundation, in his section of the report said that if "any man imagines that public education can escape the demand for retrenchment that confronts every other public activity, he is deceiving himself."

Woman Nominated for Constable at Sidney, Ill.

Sidney, Ill., Feb. 26.—[Special.]—Mrs. Ida Dempsey has been nominated with Clarence Kirby as Democratic candidate for constable of Sidney township. They will oppose Ray Prickett and Thoeron Robinson, Republican candidates.

TAX EXEMPT PROPERTY IN ILLINOIS.

The commendable effort of the assessor to place more property on the tax books and thus distribute the burden more widely should be reinforced by a reexamination of the whole question of tax exemption in this state. Hitherto most of the effort to find new objects of taxation has been directed toward personal property, but the fact should not be forgotten that there is also a considerable amount of real estate which is tax free either by charter, by law or by departmental regulation under the law.

How much of this tax exempt real estate there is in Cook county it is difficult to say because when a property is declared exempt it is omitted from the books. That, at any rate, has been the assessors' practice hitherto. No accurate record has been kept of the number of tax exempt properties. No attempt has been made to appraise the value of such holdings, as recently was done in Montreal, where it was found that something like 25 per cent of all the property in the city by value paid no taxes. It is unlikely that the proportion of exemption runs quite so high as that in Chicago. In Cook county, according to an estimate recently reported by Philip Hampson, there are some 15,000 tax exempt parcels in a total of 1,100,000. This is a factor of considerable importance in distributing the burden today and the problem is certain to loom larger in future because the tendency to grant exemption is by no means diminishing.

Schools are not taxed; neither are churches, hospitals and other charitable institutions. The theory is that these institutions are not operated for profit and serve the public good, a theory with which a majority of citizens will probably find themselves in substantial agreement. The difficulty arises in the border-line cases. Most citizens would agree that a Y. M. C. A. which was operated solely as a social settlement was as much entitled to tax exemption as any other charitable institution in the county; but when a Y. M. C. A. becomes, as many of them in Chicago today are, an institution scarcely distinguishable from a hotel or a club, it is grossly unfair to the taxpaying owners of other hotels to require them, in effect, to subsidize their competitors. The Y. M. C. A.'s exemption comes to it by virtue of a special charter and therefore presents a peculiarly difficult problem to the assessor. Clubs which combine social activities for the entertainment of their members with charitable works offer another twilight zone case. Still another is the hospital which takes a few charity cases but to all intents and purposes is an institution run for profit like any other business.

The weight of the tax burden has become so great that the question of tax exemption cannot be put aside any longer as one which is too troublesome and too delicate to deal with. The state tax commission might well inquire into the matter, obtain the facts and recommend much needed legislation to the general assembly. Meanwhile any efforts of the assessor in this county to place border-line properties, now exempt, on the tax books deserve and will receive popular approval.

THE JUNIOR FARM BOARD.

No doubt because the farm board's stabilization program proved a half billion dollar failure the senate has approved another stabilization scheme of much the same sort, but confined in its operation to cotton. Where the big farm board cost the taxpayers of the country half a billion dollars and the farmers of the country perhaps as much again in lower prices, the little farm board is expected to cost the taxpayers a mere $60,000,000 in the estimate of Senator Smith of South Carolina, who sponsored the measure.

The bill creates a cotton board in the department of agriculture and authorizes a loan to it of R. F. C. funds sufficient to buy up the 3,400,000 bales of cotton owned by the coöperatives, the government and the Red Cross. This cotton would be held off the market at least until March 1, 1935, more than two years hence. This is, of course, intended to shorten the visible supply and thereby enhance the price of the new crop. It is the same old fallacy. To the extent that the price of cotton rises production will be stimulated and new surpluses accumulated. It is asking a good deal of a senator to think as far ahead as March 1, 1935, but even a senator with a little effort ought to be able to see that by that time the Smith law would have made two surpluses grow where but one grew before.

Perhaps it is unfair to the senators to say that they did not foresee this eventuality. The bill contains a provision that farmers who reduce their cotton acreage by 30 per cent shall receive options to buy equivalent amounts of the government's cotton, presumably at the present market price. This provision is intended to enable the farmer to make a speculative profit in substitution for the income he might have received from the 30 per cent of his land which he left idle. The plan is ingenious, but it won't work. Like so many other crop reduction schemes, it depends for its successful operation upon a nonexistent bureaucratic machine comparable in size to the United States army. The senate, which has just discovered that a constitutional amendment can be defeated by bootleggers of liquor and the appetite for alcohol, is proposing a law which can be defeated by bootlegging of cotton acreage and the human desire to make money.

LIBERTY IN EVANSTON.

The prohibition of moving picture shows in Evanston on Sundays has been lifted. A mass-meeting of citizens was held in the Haven school to censure Ald. Franzen for voting as he did in favor of repeal. Speakers who sought to defend the alderman were shouted down with the exception of Attorney Newell Mecartney. He replied that Evanston church people who are incensed about the menace of Sunday movies to religion might better consider the damage which they themselves have done the cause of religion by inviting radicals to conduct meetings in their churches.

It was a direct hit. The defense of the socialists in the pulpit and the theological schools and the radical meetings in the church assembly halls has been freedom of thought and speech. It is difficult to see how a libertarian in matters of speech and assembly can fail to be a libertarian also in matters of Sunday observance. If the good people really believed in freedom of individual thought and conduct, as their hospitality to political extremists seems to suggest, it is hard to see how they could consistently oppose Sunday movies. No one has to go to a movie on Sunday or any other day who doesn't want to. No one who wants to go to church or Sunday school is prevented from doing so by the fact that there is to be a picture show the same day.

The apparent inconsistency in the thinking which favors individual liberty one moment and rejects it the next disappears the moment the assumption is examined that the doctrines preached by the radicals in Evanston churches are the doctrines of liberty. On the contrary, they are the doctrines of suppression. There is no freedom under the commissars. The individual has no rights and is subjected to strenuous prohibitions on his conduct. He may not live in the principal cities without permission. He may buy and sell only certain articles and under severe restrictions. If he is a farmer in the Caucasus he may expect to find himself in a chain gang bound for work in the northern forests. He has no inalienable right to free speech or press or assembly or protest. Any attempt to assert, much less exercise, these liberties would land him in front of a firing squad, with no indictment and no jury trial having intervened to protect him from a tyrannous government.

The kind of people who yearn for an America ruled by such a political régime are sabbatarians by instinct. They are prohibitionists by temperament and authoritarians by choice. They welcome the radical message not from a belief in freedom but from an ingrained love of tyranny with themselves as tyrants. The fact that their support of prohibition has already alienated hundreds of thousands of devout men and women should serve as a warning, but doesn't.

RUIN AS A POLICY.

Representative Cannon of Missouri told his fellow members of the house the other day that congress was responsible for the nation's banking troubles. "Unintentionally, perhaps," he said, "the government in the last ten or a dozen years has taken every possible step to embarrass the banks of the country and every step has brought the banks nearer to bankruptcy."

Few bankers will defend congress against this charge and about ninety-nine in a hundred business men will inquire why Mr. Cannon limited his remarks to banks. With equal truth he might have said that the government—and that means congress—has driven nearly every business in the country along the same road. Congress has harassed business by competing with it unfairly, as the Shannon committee has shown. Congress has taxed the individual and the organization for which he works to the point where enterprise has been stifled and purchasing and investing power have been crushed. Congress has hampered business with regulation in the interest not of the public but of the regulators. And, after all this, congress has maintained the pretense that the government is the sole salvation of a suffering people and has therefore gone ahead appropriating on an ever more grandiose scale.

Mr. Cannon and the country can be thankful that he is not an employé of the house as Mr. Barry was of the senate. All that Mr. Barry said, after all, was that not many members of congress take cash bribes. Bribery is ugly, but the country could survive a minority of bribed congressmen. It cannot survive a majority of reckless and destructive congressmen, ignorant of economics and unmindful of the long history of nations which were wrecked by the folly of their rulers. Mr. Barry goes, but, fortunately, Mr. Cannon stays to tell the truth.

Editorial of the Day

A PLEDGE APPROACHES FULFILLMENT.

[Decatur Herald.]

Power of patronage never was more boldly used by a governor or more shamelessly yielded to than when Len Small jammed through the legislature his amendment to the quo warranto law.

On Wednesday the Illinois house of representatives recovered its honor by repealing this amendment almost unanimously. The credit, however, belongs to Gov. Horner, who promised in his campaign to right the wrong. The senate is expected to put through the repeal.

The quo warranto proceeding is seldom invoked, but it is the traditional gun behind the door. It provides for the determination by a court as to the right of a public officer to hold office or the right of a corporation to retain its franchise. Having been compelled to make restitution to the state of the funds not accounted for in his term as state treasurer, Gov. Small doubtless feared the law would be invoked to deprive him of his office; hence his demand that the act should be amended so that no petition in quo warranto could be filed against any constitutional officer.

Mr. Small's fears were well grounded, for one of his long time political enemies actually tried to start court proceedings to test the constitutionality of the amendment. The state's attorney of Sangamon county, however, refused to press the case.

The house having acted, the senate is expected to quickly follow, and it will give Gov. Horner pleasure to sign a bill that will place him and every other officer under the provisions of the law which opens the way to a test of their authority to hold their positions.

A LINE O' TYPE OR TWO

How to the Line, let the quips fall where they may.

THE SADNESS of Rhode Island when the governor of that vest pocket commonwealth had to confess to the Marine band at Washington that Rhode Island had no state hymn to be played at the inaugural festivities March 4 is most poignant and bitter. The Marine band has sent out word that it will play the state anthem of each one of the forty-eight states, and, while poor little Rhode Island has to confess with sorrow and shame that it hasn't got a state anthem, Illinois gets busy and sends words and music. But loyal Illinoisans who aren't fully up on the state song should be warned not to exclaim in tones of irritation and disgust when they hear the band playing the Illinois state song: "Why, that's that old thing 'Baby Mine'; what's the band doing, giving us the razz"? Ah, fellow Illinoisans, "Baby Mine" is the tune of the national anthem of our great prairie commonwealth. The only way to take the curse off the music is to sing the words very lustily so as to drown out any old timers who sing the words of "Baby Mine." Of course, you all know the words of our state song. Certainly. These are the words usually sung:

By thy rivers gently flowing,
Illinoy, Illinoy;
Stands a noble state a-growin',
Illinoy, Illinoy;
La la la la, la la la,
Abraham Lincoln, la la la;
Grant and Logan, la la la la;
Illinoy.
Illinoy.

AND NOW JAPAN has grabbed her hat and bolted out of the League of Nations. Which shows that the league is not such an important thing as some people fondly imagine. If a nation that belongs to the league gets what it wants then it stays in and shouts hurrah for the League of Nations. And if it doesn't get what it wants then it jumps up and runs out. And what of it? The League of Nations probably won't do anything except to announce to the world that Japan is no longer a member. Which will hardly be news either to Japan or the rest of the world. "I leave you forever," shrieks Japan, and the poor old league merely asks: "Is that a threat or a promise?"

He said (though not in just these words) that now
Since May had pushed the clover into bloom,
He found it hard to give his spirit room
The while his body clumped behind a plow.
He thought (and it was written on his brow)
He'd not been made for working in the gloom
Of desolate swamplands; 'twas a very tomb
For all he would have done if he'd known how.
Sometimes, he said, he felt so strangely blithe
Spring mornings when the air was turning mild;
And when the fern unfearful of the scythe
Spread out its leaves and started running wild,
Surprised himself by thinking thoughts as lithe
And lovely as the body of a child.

ENGLAND SPURNS with hauteur, disdain, wounded pride, and a few other things the modest suggestion that if she can't pay her honest war debts she should do as a debtor in civil life has to do, turn over his property to his creditors. We could use the West Indies very nicely; they're right close to our mainland and the doors of the Panama canal. "What, give up British soil?" shriek the British statesmen; "that would be a national dishonor." Yes, but the West Indies were Spanish soil before England swiped 'em. So they needn't be so darned touchy about 'em.

THE JAPS have warned the Chinese to expect serious trouble if they dare to assume an aggressive attitude in Jehol. An "aggressive attitude," according to the Japs, would probably consist of (1) Chinese soldier looking at his watch; (2) Chinese old woman picking up a stick (she probably would use it to beat the Jap army), and (3) Chinese idol frowning in the direction of the east because Japan is in that direction. And if none of those things happen a Chinese pig might grunt derisively when a Jap band was playing the national anthem. Oh, naturally, that would be a most aggressive attitude and the Japs would have to take action.

MY HOUSE.

Some folks boast a neat house,
A well kept and complete house,
With rugs and chairs where they belong in apple-pie array;
With every book and every vase
Within its own appointed place—
With every paper folded—and not a one astray!

But my house is a used house,
A battered and abused house;
It isn't gay and shining for stranger folk to see.
There's a well worn air about it,
But don't you ever doubt it,
Every scratch and mar and wrinkle makes it
Home, Sweet Home, to me.

LOW PRESSURE AND LONG LIFE.

If one would live long it is advisable for him to suffer from low blood pressure. Some would say that since a man does not get much out of life nature allows him to hang on for a few extra years. He should live, say, eighty years in order to get in as much fun as the ordinary man gets out of sixty.

Maybe nature is not trying to average things up and has no special interest in seeing that every man gets his one hundred units of pleasure from living, and does not allow a man to hang on until he gets his allowance.

Another way to look at it is that a man with low blood pressure suffers and is given a few extra years as a reward, or punishment, for they may be years of added suffering.

Or maybe nature is not interested in rewards or punishments. It may be that a low blood pressure life does not use up the human machine quite so quickly.

Whatever the reason, "How to Live" tells us that twenty-six life insurance companies have investigated three-quarters of a million insured and one of their conclusions is that a man with low blood pressure can expect to live a few years longer than the average.

In this study they excluded all those who had Addison's disease or other diseases that cause a marked lowering of the blood pressure.

The best of all insurance risks were the young people with low blood pressure. This condition in an older man did not have as much effect on his expectation of long life. The people with the average blood pressures for their ages, according to the accepted figures, are not the best risks. The lowest death rates are found among those whose blood pressure is a little below the average. The opinion is expressed that a blood pressure 10 to 15 below the figure shown as average for a given age is a favorable sign.

"How to Live" sees a similarity in this to the effect of weight on longevity. It is the Slim Jims who live to the oldest age. The people who have the lowest death rates are those who are a few pounds below the average weight for height and age, as given in the insurance companies' manuals for examiners. They are well below the figures found on the weight charts.

The reverse of this picture was found to be true. People with blood pressure above normal also had death rates above the average and life expectancies below it. Whenever a blood pressure is found to be above the average, a search should be made to find the cause. If it stays above that level the expectation of life is lessened.

DOESN'T NEED THE ADVICE.

F. N. writes: Beef, milk, and cheese are the primary causes of insomnia because they are the hardest to digest. Abstain from these foods and you will sleep like a newborn babe. Try it and be convinced.

REPLY.

I don't need to. Poor digestion is sometimes the cause of insomnia. But it does not compare with a bad conscience, and being at peace with the world is a thousand times more important. Did you ever hear of the blind man who built an elephant around the way the trunk felt to him?

NOT SAME BREED.

Miss H. L. G. writes: 1. When does pernicious anemia develop into secondary anemia?

2. Is it dangerous?

REPLY.

1. Never. The two conditions are radically different.

2. Pernicious anemia is a very serious disease. Secondary anemia may be rather unimportant.

NEEDN'T HOLD BACK.

E. F. writes: How much tomato juice may a man 75 years old drink each day?

REPLY.

Now is the season of all others for tomato juice. It will be so until the early garden stuff becomes available. There is no likelihood that you will take too much, provided what you take is not highly flavored with condiments.

NATURALIZATION WITNESS.

Chicago, Feb. 22.—[Friend of the People.]—I became a citizen of the United States by an act of congress. I haven't any kind of papers to prove that I am a citizen except my father's naturalization certificate. Have I the right to be a witness for a person who is applying for naturalization? G. J. W.

The writer may appear as a witness. He should have his father's certificate of naturalization with him. He may also secure a certificate of derivative citizenship, if he desires, by applying therefor to this office.

MINORITY A DEFENSE.

Chicago, Feb. 23.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—A, a minor, signs a guarantee on a loan for B, an uncle. B instructs A to fill in a fictitious age and salary which is $7 over A's actual salary of $18. The information is not investigated and the loan is made to B. This was in August, 1932. B defaulted on the payment due Dec. 1, 1932. Jan. 5, 1933, A is first notified. A, who is the only one employed in a family of five, is working part time. 1. What redress has the loan company against A? Against B? 2. Against a second guarantor? H. H.

1. His minority would be a defense to liability on the contract. It is common to threaten the minor with court liability for the misrepresentation, but we know of no case in which such threats have been carried out.

2. Of course it is entitled to collect against B.

3. Depends on the facts as to such guarantor. TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

PARTNERSHIP.

Chicago, Feb. 23.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—We have a partnership consisting of A and B, with 40 per cent each and C with 20 per cent interest. If A signs a personal loan note to a greater extent than his share of the partnership, to what extent is the partnership liable? J. G.

B and C would be liable only on A's contracts within the scope of the partnership business. As to A's personal loans the remedy of a creditor would be to force a winding up of the partnership affairs. The creditor would have to look to A's share in such winding up.

TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

FROM THE TRIBUNE'S COLUMNS

16 YEARS AGO TODAY

FEBRUARY 27, 1917.

QUEENSTOWN.—A steamer bringing 267 survivors from the Cunard liner Laconia, which was torpedoed off the Irish coast Feb. 25 and sunk, arrived here. They were picked up in eight boats. Among the American passengers unaccounted for are Mrs. Mary E. Hoy and her daughter, Miss Elizabeth Hoy, who were booked from Chicago, and there is grave reason to believe that they have been drowned. The Laconia was torpedoed in comparatively calm weather. It was first struck near the stern and later a second torpedo was sent into it and it took a violent list to starboard. With considerable difficulty boats were got away, but no panic whatever occurred among the passengers and crew.

LONDON.—It has been definitely established that two Americans were lost in the sinking of the Laconia, according to the Queenstown correspondent of the Daily Chronicle.

CHICAGO.—THE TRIBUNE early this morning received from Floyd P. Gibbons, its correspondent aboard the Laconia, a message announcing not only that he survived the sinking of the vessel safely but that his story already was on the way to Chicago. As soon as the dispatch arrives it will appear exclusively in THE TRIBUNE. Mr. Gibbons' message follows: "Queenstown, Feb. 27.—TRIBUNE, Chicago: Am cabling three thousand Laconia sinking. Two Chicago women victims. Please expedite with Western Union through New York."

WASHINGTON, D. C.—Grave fears were entertained in Washington tonight that the sinking of the Cunard liner Laconia might be the dread "overt act" which will plunge the United States and Germany into war. First reports indicate that the ship was unwarned and that American citizens, if not killed, were placed in jeopardy of their lives. If these reports be true, Germany has brought about a repetition of the Lusitania case and has strained the patience of the United States to the breaking point. Although the loss of life on the Laconia cannot be nearly so great, the fact remains that the intent and purpose on the part of Germany was the same in both cases and it had the same effect.

WASHINGTON, D. C.—President Wilson took his second step in the latest German crisis. He appeared before a joint session of congress and asked that body to give him authority to supply American merchant ships with defensive arms and grant him a sufficient credit to provide adequate means of protection where they are lacking. Congress listened to the President in profound silence. There was applause only when he entered and when he concluded his speech, and each time the demonstration lasted less than half a minute. The legislators found that the executive had put it squarely up to them to decide how far he shall go in protecting Americans and American ships.

CHICAGO.—Mrs. Albert H. Hoy, wife of Dr. Hoy of London, and formerly of Chicago, who was on the torpedoed Laconia, was traveling with her daughter, Miss Elizabeth. It is reported both were drowned. They were returning to London to rejoin Dr. Hoy and the son, Austin, who is London representative of the Sullivan Machinery company. Dr. and Mrs. Hoy were prominent socially in north side society before their removal to London. They lived in North State street, between Goethe and Banks streets [old No. 461]. Previous to this they lived in the Lexington hotel.

CHICAGO.—First effects of the general boycott of the higher priced foodstuffs were felt in South Water street, with the result that potatoes, eggs and poultry dropped in price. A further break during the week is expected. One hundred and fifty-two acres of land was offered free of charge for the use of Chicagoans who want to fortify themselves against the H. C. of L. by "backyard" gardening. Real estate men, corporations, and land associations made the offers. THE TRIBUNE'S call has now brought offers of 414 acres.

FOOD, BUT NO STOVE.

Chicago, Feb. 19.—Arthur Evans, in his article of Feb. 13 on relief for the unemployed, states that unemployed family men are given work relief and are paid in wages what otherwise they would receive in direct relief and can buy their own groceries with this money. Some of this statement is true and some is not. When an unemployed person is fortunate enough to be called for a week's work he must use that money he receives as wages to pay his rent, gas, light bills, and clothing. He is not credited for groceries during the week he works, as Mr. Evans gives one to understand.

Mr. Evans did not state how much work an unemployed father of a family receives; and, for the benefit of those who may be of the opinion that we unemployed fathers are the recipients of enough work to enable us to meet our rent, gas, and light bills, let me, as the unemployed father of four young children, state a few facts about myself as well as a good many others like me who are compelled to seek relief at the present time.

The only work I received from the Illinois Emergency Relief since early October is one week in late December. Now, my rent is $25 per month for a five room stove heated flat. My gas and light bills total about $5 per month. One can see it is impossible for me to be able to pay my monthly rent, as well as gas and light bills, since I have only received one week's work since October, with the result that I am now without gas and light in my home. Both were shut off last week and I expect to be told to vacate my flat at any moment, as I owe five months' rent. I suppose it is quite impossible for the emergency people to give one a week's work each month during the winter, but I should think they could give a person a week's work every two months, which would enable one to keep his landlord pacified as well as contribute something towards gas and light bills.

As to the groceries we receive, I must admit that there is plenty and I would be dead willing to have my groceries cut $5 per month and have this $5 applied to my gas and light bills. This family has plenty of food, but what is the use when we have no gas to cook it? As far as I am concerned, I would be satisfied with less food and let something be done in helping us unemployed to get more work so we can take care of the rent, gas, and light bills, which to me are just as important as eating.

UNEMPLOYED.

A SIMPLIFIED GOVERNMENT.

Chicago, Feb. 18.—My suggestion is as follows: Abolish the national senate and all state governments. Substitute county for city government. The national executive branch should consist of the President, secretary of state, secretary of defense, to be assisted by an army, navy and marine officer; secretary of communications, in which all departments now relating to postoffice, commerce, etc., would be included; treasury department, to consist of an auditor, disburser, and purchaser; labor department, and department of justice, having control of all judges, lawyers and police. The legislative department should consist of a house of representatives of not more than the present number. The county government should consist of an auditor, disburser and purchaser and not more than five councilmen. Counties should have the right to levy taxes for upkeep of the county only, all others to be the right of the federal government. Bond issues should be voted on by property owners only, and every public official from the President down should be subject to removal from office upon a majority vote of the people in his district. Also appointments to West Point and Annapolis should be made only from the ranks of the army, navy, and marines.

I hope you will not think this inspired by vin blanc or rum Martinique, for I assure you such is not the case. I feel if some program involving some of the above theories were advocated by men of influence and standing the depression would soon disappear.

ROBIN FOOD.

Chicago, Feb. 22.—Here is an answer to the inquiry of A. E. P.:

Robins like raisins. They like them almost as much as they do worms. Last winter, in a snowstorm, there was a robin in the back yard. I threw raisins out to him. It was not long before two of them were coming up to my back door and window looking for raisins. They became so tame I would find them waiting on the windowsill in the morning. They stayed until November.

St. Marys, O., Feb. 23.—Robins are fond of bruised apples. Those partly decayed seem to attract most attention. They must like the cider flavoring. Our Ohio robins will leave other food to the sparrows if apples are available.

MRS. ORAL A. SCOTT.

FROM A WISE TEACHER.

Chicago, Feb. 22.—Praise is due Senator Glass for his stand against the reckless subsidizing by the R. F. C. and for his brief but keen sketch of the states coming whining to Washington.

I am a Chicago public school teacher, and will doubtless receive back pay and will, of course, accept it if the Wagner bill is put into effect. But the situation, to my mind, boils down to this: Hard up as Chicago's public employés are, still that the federal government should pay our back salaries is not right, for if the states, towns, and cities cannot provide their own running expenses something terrible is indeed upon us.

RUSSIA AS AN ALLY.

Metropolis, Ill., Feb. 22.—In view of the increasing seriousness of complications with Japan would it not be well to let up on Russia in order to facilitate a rapprochement between that country and this so as to play Russia against Japan? What I am suggesting is that we play Russia against Japan as the next step towards avoiding a naval battle with the latter.

BY CHARLES COLLINS.

The droll and lilting folk-dialect of the Irish drama, spoken by its authentic practitioners—the Abbey Theater company of Dublin—returned to the Chicago stage last night. A new generation of players representing this famous group, adept in racial character study, began an engagement at the Harris theater before an audience ready to laugh happily at every humorous twist of Hibernian dialogue.

In token of the history that has been written since the Abbey's last official visit, the program carries the line: "By special arrangement with the Irish Free State government." For the unpretentious little playhouse on Abbey street, Dublin, where Lady Gregory and the poet Yeats fostered a band of amateurs some thirty years ago, has become a national theater.

The play with which the engagement's copious repertory began was "The New Gossoon," by George Shiels, a specimen of the more recent work of the Abbey's school of dramatists, and a novelty to Chicago. It is a comedy of small farm people not identified with any special section of Irish geography, completely typical of the Abbey's product in the lighter vein.

It is rich with native humor, and its characters are a quaint and garrulous peasantry, talking of new inventions such as the radio, the motorcycle, the Ford, and the flapper in the eloquent and whimsical idiom that is the Abbey theater's special contribution to Irish literature. The performance flows smoothly along to constant laughter, not because it contains situations that are unusually comic but because humor is the very soul of the Abbey's speech.

The scene is the kitchen of a farmhouse, typical of the old régime but ornamented by a mechanical symbol of modernism—a second hand motorcycle, to purchase which the futile and erratic son of the worthy Widow Cary had stolen five of his mother's sheep. The trifling behavior of this specimen of the new youth, who is weak on work, strong on girls, and wasteful of money, imparts intense annoyance to his elders and betters, and starts a kettle of minor family troubles boiling merrily. The story is slender but diverting, and carries a genial burden of picturesque philosophy in which the morals and manners of the times are amusingly lamented.

"I've four sons and three daughters, and if I only open my mouth all seven of them laugh at me."

Again, he describes a group of girls in the neighborhood as "all of thim running about the world with no more clothes than would hide the legs of a humming bird."

The intrigues of a crafty old poacher of the hill country, keen for setting a trap that will marry his brazen daughter to the heir of the farm, or get some breach of promise money out of him, figures importantly in the play. He is a wily, wheedling rapscallion in the vein of character study that was the specialty of Arthur Sinclair of the first Abbey company. The rôle is richly interpreted by P. J. McCormick.

"The New Gossoon," although an excellent opening bill, does not reveal the complete range of the company's talents nor employ its full strength. All this will be discovered as the repertory runs on through its nightly changes. For this evening "The Far-Off Hills," a comedy by Lennox Robinson, managing director of the Abbey, is announced.

"The Bride Retires," a comedy with Edna Hibbard in the leading rôle, began an engagement at the Blackstone theater last night. The performance will be reviewed tomorrow.

Good Morning!

An exchange man wished I might have seen this picture before it had been censored. I wish so, too.

Here's a movie that views the late war through the eyes of a recalcitrant drafted man. He doesn't see any reason for fighting in a battle which he had no hand in starting, when, by peremptory request, he dons his private's uniform. He wears the same regalia and entertains the same sentiments at the picture's end.

True, on Private Jones' bosom is a Distinguished Service medal—but not a thing, save that it represents something to hock, does it mean to its wearer. He knows how he won it and why he performed the act that brought him to official attention. And neither reason was for the honor and glory of anything or anybody.

"Dollar a year" men, officers, and welfare workers are painted in none too enhancing fashion. In brief, the picture is just a large, sarcastic "WHY?" with the answer left up to the audience.

Mr. Tracy performs in customary breezy, natural, workmanlike style, but receives little help from the writing of his rôle. It's good sense to rebel at an intolerable condition when rebellion will do any good but just plain dumb to keep on kicking at the inevitable. The latter Private Jones does in word and deed till you get a bit bored with him. Compelled to endure what he can't cure, he does it with a mighty bad grace.

The supporting cast is an able one. The dialogue displays considerable thought and occasional pungency. But "Private Jones" is not the powerful anti-war propaganda it might have been.

See you tomorrow.

A Job a Day

Every little improvement we give our home right now helps us—and the other fellow, too.

It is a very good plan to make sure of the conditions of your plumbing fixtures and piping before you start spring house cleaning and decorating. Be sure there is no leak in any of the piping—for a leak can ruin decorations and furnishings alike. If your plumbing fixtures are more than ten years old they may look out of date with new decorations. So if there is any doubt in your mind whether you may need new fixtures to go well with new decorations, install the fixtures now so that later, after decorating, there will be no need to make changes in hanging of fixtures, or tearing into the freshly decorated wall.

New Blue Tone Brings Cheer to Shoppers

Vibrant Colors Arrive in All Shades and Tints.

BY RHEA SEEGER.

Sight-seeing shoppers are gloating over colors. Cheerful, vibrant colors in all shades and tints and tones are being used by dress and hat designers. After a dark winter wardrobe, these glowing colors certainly do enliven a weary clothes collector.

All the enthusiasts for blue have ample reason to cheer, for one can find any tone of this flattering color. The new shade that will take the town by storm is a good, live blue, that is, a color between the last year's favorite cornflower blue and a deep sapphire blue. It has depth and lots of snap and anybody can wear it! You will see it among the newest hat collections, the flowered or feathered turbans, fresh, engagingly different bits of headgear that will flatter the most furrowed brow, besides slicing years away from the gal who wears them.

This bright blue shade can be found in soft wool coats lined with printed silk patterned in field daisies, poppies and matching blue buds, the same print that fashioned a slim, spring frock that is definitely related to the coat. Or you can find a luscious blue rabbit's wool coat, made with loose swagger lines that will top a deep ivory silk crêpe sleeveless dress. This same loose coat can be worn later with colored and printed cottons.

Deep blue suits are worn with separate blouses also blue, but a blue that is rapidly becoming a fashionable competitor for favor, an azure blue, or sky blue. This is the blue you wear with black suits, as a soft light blue top contrast in a black afternoon frock in an intricately draped yoke, or as a blouse or windaround sash, as well as half-sleeve portions to contrast the black or navy blue of the dress. Sky blue hats are intriguing accents of blonde or brunette and all the in-betweens . . . some soft feathered models are made entirely of pale blue feathers skillfully moulded to the head, others are made of feathers into flower forms: and of course you can find exquisite flowered creations, all of this delectable new blue.

Dove grey is a charming accent to all the fashion blues . . . and a darker pumice shade of grey is particularly stunning with sapphire blue. One knockout grey costume that is a find for any one, consists of a two piece suit, a long coat lined with pearl grey silk crêpe, the coat with softly puffed sleeves, fitted, slenderizing outlines and a collarless top section to allow for a smart fur scarf.

The long coat covers a dress made with a lower section of the grey woolen and one of the best looking deep-blue blouse tops that has been seen in weeks.

The blue blouse fashions with points onto the skirt around the hipline . . . a cleverly draped neckline, is the outstanding feature of the short sleeved sapphire blue top. This is one of the most practical two piece costumes of the season, for the grey coat is of that delightful neutral shade that combines with everything, and the two-color combination dress can be worn with a deep blue cape, short or long coat. Gorgeous new handbags, gloves and footwear of this same good looking new blue color have arrived in every shop, so that this shopping problem is solved before you begin to assemble your wardrobe.

You will find these costume accents of blue, either in plain, uncontrasted models or accented with frosty silver, shiny chromium or dusky shades of copper, costume accessories to tempt the most capricious shopper, with modest price tags that will surprise even the most skeptical soul.

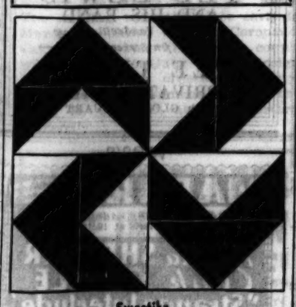
Stitch Health and Riches Into "Swastika" Quilt



Swastika.

BY NANCY CABOT.

If you have a superstitious leaning you will piece a "Swastika" quilt just for good luck. It will appeal especially to the little boy with his natural love for manufacturing secret codes and signs. And lucky is the lad who has one.

The symbol itself is of great antiquity—much older than the quilt pattern which developed from it in a modified form. In fact, various decorative designs, such as the Greek fret, were derived from or closely associated with it.

For a pattern of this quilt design, send 5 cents in stamps or coin to Nancy Cabot, Chicago Tribune, printing your name and address clearly. Or call at the Tribune Public Service Office, 1 South Dearborn street.

Russian Male Chorus Leads Good Concert

Benefit for Bohemian Old People's Home.

BY EDWARD MOORE.

It would seem as though the fund of the Bohemian Old People's home and orphanage should have benefited materially as a result of the concert at the Auditorium yesterday afternoon, for a large audience assembled to hear the program. There was excellent reason for the assemblage outside of its philanthropic aspect, since those magnificent singers, the Don Cossack Russian Male chorus, took the leading place on the program.

It is difficult to think of more thrilling male choral singing than this organization is in the habit of doing. They have a fiery leader in the person of Serge Jaroff, and they fully respond to his fervor. Lvovsky's "Have Mercy on Us, O God," to take one example from their sacred group, is about as dramatic a bit as there is in all liturgical music.

Associated with them on the program was the Bohemian singing society, Lyra, which sang an elaborate list of songs of its own nation.

A capacity houseful at the Studebaker Saturday night greeted the joint dance recital of Ruth Page and Harald Kreutzberg, and its applause was quite in keeping with its size. Miss Page has a special gift for witty critical comment by means of posture and expression, and her joyous impersonation of five different dances in a group of "Humoresques" by Casella was one of the delights of the season. In fact she is so gifted that one is inclined to doubt the necessity of masks, admitting the unforgetable smirk on that of the "Señorita." Mr. Kreutzberg, the greatest male dancer on the stage today, was a whirlwind of vitality in his Hungarian dances, having once before run away with the show in the Albeniz "Tango."

Wherefore the two were most ingratiating contrasts to each other.

The Civic orchestra gave its second concert of the season yesterday afternoon at Orchestra hall under the direction of Eric DeLamarter, and introduced considerable new music in the process. One was an orchestration of Debussy's "The Engulfed Cathedral," made by a man who comes nearest to being the wisest in orchestral lore of any one in the world, Frederick Stock. Another was the tone poem, "The Song of the Falcon," by Gregor Fitelberg of Poland. A third was a Concertino for flute and small orchestra by David Van Vactor, once a member of the Civic orchestra, now in the ranks of the Chicago Symphony.

It is a well written, studious work, less a display piece than an orchestral number wherein the flute takes important scoring. The flute part was played by a highly talented artist, Caroline Solfronk. The other soloist was Harry Sturm, who received applause for his performance of two movements of the Lalo Concerto for cello. Mrs. Kellogg Fairbank spoke during the intermission in behalf of the Friends of Music and its projected Temple of Music.

Cora Alvera Quinn, soprano, made a debut song recital at Kimball hall yesterday afternoon, displaying a flexible voice of wide range and pleasant quality and with considerable knowledge of the art of singing English. She was assisted by Jacob Goldsmith, pianist.

Explain Trips of Miss Atkin to Evanston

Popular Junior Leaguer Sitting for Portrait.

BY JUDITH CASS.

For several weeks past Miss Margot Atkin has been making regular and frequent trips from Winnetka to Evanston. She always wears the same dress, a lovely black velvet gown with a cowl collar of white satin. Friends have wondered why.

Here is the reason. Miss Atkin, the popular president of the Chicago Junior league, is sitting for her portrait and the artist is none other than Mrs. John Satterthwaite who recently moved to Evanston from Akron, O.

Transferring her membership at the same time from the Akron to the Chicago Junior league, Mrs. Satterthwaite's work is eligible this year for the annual art exhibit of the league to be held March 7, 8 and 9 at the Casino and she wants to have foremost among her entries this portrait of Miss Atkin.

To judge both by her subject and the portraits she has done formerly, the painting will be lovely. Mrs. Satterthwaite has painted some stunning likenesses of the members of the Paul Litchfield family of Akron, and in 1926 she won a gold medal for her work at the Philadelphia sesqui-centennial exposition. She studied at the University of Syracuse.

Other Junior Leaguers Busy Preparing Exhibits.

Other Junior leaguers are working equally hard preparing their exhibits for display next week. Miss Marguerite Foster is to have some charming paintings in the competition. She did them last winter while visiting in New Orleans—lovely scenes with all the atmosphere of the "vieux carre."

The oils that Miss Emeline Bush will exhibit will also represent several months of travel, for she is choosing them from among the paintings she did last summer in little out of the way French villages. And she may take over to the Casino one of her Mexican pictures, alive with red bougainvilleas.

Mrs. John Irving Shaw (the former Barbara King) and Miss Jeanette Peterkin are the sculptresses among the Junior leaguers. Mrs. Shaw will have a collection of the small animals she

FOLLY ISLAND

By Wallace Irwin

SYNOPSIS.

Bart Burgess is marooned in a catboat on Peconic bay, fifty miles from his Long Island home in Wyattville. His companion, Ingalls Frederick Warren, spoiled child of a new-made fortune, known as "Nosey Ingy," rows to town and sends Bart help and taxies home. A girl in a canoe invites Bart over to her family's island. Bart learns that she is one of the Bayleys, who have lived in seclusion on the island fifteen years. The father travels. He invites the girl, Alice, to visit him in Wyattville. Less than a week later Trevor Burgess, Bart's father, dies suddenly from a heart attack. He confesses in a letter left for Bart to being a bigamist. The Bayleys of Folly island are his second family. They know him as Matthew Bayley. He asks Bart, for his invalid mother's sake, to guard the secret, and leaves a fortune to provide for the Bayleys. Bart calls on Mrs. Bayley, posing as a lawyer, and finds her a lovely woman, not the harridan he expected. Bart is happy to learn from her mother that Alice isn't Matthew Bayley's daughter. But to keep her from visiting his home and seeing his father's pictures is now a problem. When Bart realizes he loves Alice he resolves to stay away from Folly island. He sees a lot of Lora Sackett, a distant relative and recent divorcee and soon finds himself unexpectedly engaged. The Bayleys visit New York and Bart sees them. Ingy Warren has been visiting the island and has invited Alice to Wyattville. Bart tells Alice of his engagement. Alice and her mother are guests of the Warrens for the annual Wyattville flower show. Alice wins first prize.

INSTALLMENT XXXVII.

TWO WIDOWS.

It was nearly 5 o'clock and Bart had thoroughly exhausted the Paris shopping guides. He had also gone over a chart of the Bremen and shown her that their new stateroom was better located than the one Lora had first insisted on. For those two hours he was the dull, dutiful husband prospective, very methodical, and full of plans for an ideal honeymoon.

But at 5 o'clock the telephone rang. Lora, after going to answer it, came back and announced, "It's Little Eva—you know, Aunt Augusta. She's got some sort of a comedy party on for us."

Then he heard the spinister's large voice coming over the wire, "Bart, where did you go? I telephoned the club, after we left. . . . What did you say? O I'm home now. Your mother's having the Bayleys in for tea. And Ingy——"

"What the devil——"

"Because Miss Bayley won the Burgess cup. And she wants to see those lovely Watchung Sunrises. Your mother wants to know if you won't come home, and bring Lora."

Aunt Augusta couldn't make out his reply, and it was just as well, for he was swearing softly when he hung up.

"Bad news?" asked Lora hopefully.

"Yes." With a dull laugh. "Mother wants us to come to tea and talk flowers some more."

"I've got to go." Wild horses were pulling him away. The Bayleys in his mother's house! His father's picture in the drawing room! Ingy Warren, acting as guide, relishing every ill turn he was doing to a dead man's name!

He had some ideas of reaching the house before the Bayleys got there.

"Let's step on it," he urged harshly and hurried her out to her little blue roadster. He had some idea of reaching the house before the Bayleys got there. At least he might do something to keep them out of the drawing room where the full length portrait hung. Or maybe he could persuade his mother. . . .

A quarter of a mile ahead of him he saw Ingy's car, racing as usual, turn in from a side road and go shooting up the hill.

Far ahead of him, Bart could see the gaudy sports model shuttling in between the gate posts and when he reached the house Ingy and his guests had gone inside. Almost frantic now, Bart sprang out. Once in the hall he breathed again. The drawing room door was closed. Tea was in the back sitting room, old Ella said. Luck was playing into his hands. Now he could get the Bayleys away without their seeing the one thing that would be fatal to them all.

Guiltily worried, Bart peered along the hall, leading to the back sitting room. There used to be a small picture of his father there—the one in the Seventh regiment uniform—but mother had taken it down last week to have the frame mended. Yes, this was luck. . . .

Vaguely following Lora into the white room, Bart knew that his forehead had become coldly damp; he had a far away impression of Aunt Augusta being unusually pompous as she introduced Trevor Burgess' two wives. And Alice was so much fairer than the sunburst of flowers she held in her arms while Mrs. Burgess praised, "O the precious darlings! Each one perfect! My dear child, how I wish I'd been there to give you the prize!"

They were seating themselves around the tea table, Bart slipping out chairs for them while a parlor maid arranged the Watchung Sunrises in a tall vase at Mrs. Burgess' elbow. It was cozy as cozy, this meeting of four kind people around a grave, which might open at a false move and swallow them all in. The other three, Ingy Warren, Lora Sackett, and Aunt Augusta, seemed to sit in a zone apart, themselves removed from danger as they watched their dangerous experiment.

What were the ladies talking about, Mrs. Bayley and Mrs. Burgess, with occasional heavy chimes from Aunt Augusta? O flowers, of course. Mrs. Burgess thought Mrs. Bayley very fortunate to have so many of this fine variety.

"I brought you some roots from Newport last year," said Aunt Augusta too pointedly to Mrs. Burgess.

"Yes, you did, dear," sighed mother. "But they wouldn't thrive here. Trevor had them taken out to make place for some other varieties."

Everybody was looking at the prize cluster in the tall vase. Now Bart saw the irony of it. The beauties that sickened in Wyattville flourished splendidly on Folly island. As though she heard his thoughts, mother was asking:

"Where did you get the plants, Mrs. Bayley?"

"My husband gave them to me," she said. "He used to bring a great many rare flowers for my garden. . . ." Then her simple statement tore at Bart's nerves. "I've been a widow since last spring."

"O." Nothing but sympathy in Mrs. Burgess' short exclamation and she seemed to be saying, you and I know what it is.

"Watchung Sunrises," boomed Aunt Augusta, "are very sensitive to climate and soil conditions."

"Where did you say you grew them, Mrs. Bayley?" asked mother.

"On Folly island."

"Folly island?" asked Mrs. Burgess politely, "I don't believe I know where that is."

"It's very much out of the way," explained Mrs. Bayley. "In Little Peconic bay. The nearest town is Port England."

"O I know Port England," smiled Mrs. Burgess. "Bart, didn't your father have some land near there, where he used to go for quail?"

"Not very near, mother," said Bart. "He had a strip of woods near Center Reaches, way inland. But he sold that off for truck farms."

"Mrs. Burgess we're ever so grateful to your son for the interest he's taken in our little place."

"How nice." Mother was smiling at Bart, showing a slight surprise.

"O it was just routine work of the office—I mean, it was bully luck for me to find you there." He realized that he was talking too loudly.

Now it was Alice's turn to look at him, clear scorn, slightly amused. During the whole talk she had scarcely spoken a word. How she hates being here, he thought. How she detests me. Alice, who means more to me than anything that lives. But I must get her away from here. Get them all away before . . .

Mrs. Bayley relieved the tension by saying that her husband had brought her some remarkably fine Darwin tulip bulbs.

"Was your husband fond of gardens, Mrs. Bayley?" Bart heard his mother ask softly.

"I think he adored mine." Between the two widows there seemed to lie an air of understanding; as though the ghost were pulling them together. "But mine isn't a real garden. It's just flowers among the rocks."

BY MARY MEADE.

It's no fun eating things because you know they are good for you, no matter what the psychologists say to the contrary. One either feels painfully virtuous or vastly irritated and probably the health boosters therefore don't get any too well digested with our mind all tied up with our pride or sorrow at having eaten them.

But don't mistake me. That's no argument against serving these boosters. It's just a warning that when some husky source of vitamins, minerals, or what-not is on the menu for dinner, it's up to us to make folk forget they are eating for rosy cheeks and strong bones by conjuring the favored food into dishes that simply sell themselves on their own delectability.

Take carrots, for instance. They can boast an assortment of health building vitamins and they're next to spinach itself in richness in iron for good blood and general fitness. But too often folk see them coming tableward in the same modest buttered form, and it's little wonder they rebel against being spoonfed with health in such obvious doses.

Next time serve carrots mashed with hot milk and plenty of seasoning and offered up with a lump of butter trickling lazily over the top. Or combine them with other foods—onions, for instance. Boil equal parts of peeled, diced carrots and peel, chopped onions together until tender in salted water to which a little sugar has been added. Season and add melted butter or white sauce.

Or introduce glazed carrots to the family. Cooked carrots, cut in lengthwise quarters, are luscious glazed in a hot oven or in a frying pan on top of the stove. Simply add them to a sirup made of equal parts of butter and sugar and salt to taste. For about three pounds of carrots this will take one-half cup of butter and sugar and one-third teaspoon salt. Turn frequently till glazed and golden brown.

For carrot soup simply make a thin cream soup—a quart of milk thickened with one-fourth cup butter and three tablespoons flour and seasoned with salt, pepper, onion juice, and parsley—and add to it one cup of cooked mashed carrots.

Next, with fresh peas coming on to the market at reasonable prices, a colorful and most utterly tempting luncheon treat is carrot ring with buttered new peas in the center.

CARROT RING ABOUT BUTTERED PEAS.

1 pound carrots
1 green pepper, shredded
1 cup milk
3 eggs, well beaten
¼ teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon sugar
Dash of pepper
½ cup blanched almonds, chopped
1½ tablespoons butter

Clean, scrape, and grate the raw carrots. Shred the green pepper in fine slivers and add to the carrots. Combine the milk, eggs, seasoning, sugar, and almonds. Melt the butter in a large ring mold and pour the excess into the carrot mixture. Combine the carrots and the milk mixture and pour into the mold; bake in a shallow pan of water in a slow oven [325 degrees F.] for about 30 to 40 minutes, or until the custard is set. Turn out on to a hot platter, fill with cooked hot buttered peas and sift with a little grated, hard-cooked egg yolk. Garnish with sprigs of parsley.

CARROTS WITH MUSHROOMS.

½ pound fresh mushrooms
1-3 cup butter
½ cup water
1-3 teaspoon salt
1½ tablespoons butter
2 teaspoons lemon juice
2 teaspoons chopped parsley
1 teaspoon minced celery leaves [optional]
2 teaspoons meat extract

Cut the cleaned, scraped carrots and mushrooms into slim strips and combine in a sauce pan with the butter, water, and salt. Simmer, with cover, until the vegetables are tender. Add the remaining ingredients, let heat a few minutes longer an then serve.

Brushes Away Gray Hair Keeps Permanent Wave

Now you can really look years younger. With an ordinary small brush you just tint those streaks or patches of gray back to your natural shade—no matter whether blonde, brown or black. It is so easy to do—at home—with Brownatone. Over 20 years success. Guaranteed harmless. Active coloring agent is purely vegetable. Defies detection. No tell-tale, "dyed" look. Cannot affect waving of hair.

No need to guess. First cut a lock of hair from your head and apply a little of this famous tint. If Brownatone does not give your gray, streaked, dull, or faded hair its natural color, youth and luster, your money back. Only 50c.

Children Sense Atmosphere in Home or School

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS.

When you find principal, teacher, educator, human being, and lover of children all rolled into one, what a satisfaction it is! How glad you are for the little children and the older boys and girls in his school! And what a fine experience it is for his staff of teachers.

A principal like that can imbue his teachers with his own attitude toward the children. Such a man can set the tone of his school. I firmly believe every school needs a "guiding spirit," no matter how fine the ideals of this or that individual teacher may be. He can establish an atmosphere, and teachers and pupils, too, will become impregnated with it. I've seen schools with such a guiding spirit and schools without it, and what a difference there is!

A gifted nurse, trained in a Swedish hospital, was saying practically the same thing to me the other day. "The girls when they go into training mostly fall in with the prevailing attitude they find in the heads under whom they work. If there is a feeling that the ward patients are a nuisance, that the way to manage is to do only as much as you have to do for them, the nurses become gradually hard and even 'hard boiled.' They copy what they find, unless they're unusual.

"The head of our hospital was a wonderful woman and a wonderful nurse. The ideal she held was that of service. Anything which meant health or comfort to the patient we were taught to regard as of first importance. To be quick, quiet, skillful, kind—never to act or even look tired—those were some of the things expected of us. Any who were not ready to give them were soon weeded out. That head nurse turned out some of the finest nurses in Europe. She died about seven years ago—and you wouldn't recognize the graduates now, they're so different."

The same is true of home life. Mothers and fathers who at first are the very light by which a child lives, either consciously or unconsciously set the stage on which he takes his first steps in life.

Explain Trips of Miss Atkin to Evanston

does so beautifully, and Miss Peterkin is working hard to finish a figure as well as a new animal group.

It is no wonder that Mrs. Duncan Hodges, who was Sarah Brewster before her marriage, does oil paintings and crayon drawings, for she was brought up in an atmosphere of art appreciation. There isn't a more notable private collection of paintings in town than that of her parents, the Walter S. Brewsters.

Mrs. Franklin G. Clement to Show Charcoal Sketches.

Mrs. Franklin G. Clement has some new charcoal sketches and pen and ink drawings for the Junior league exhibit and Miss Harriet Borland will show the originals of the ten maps that illustrate the new book she and her sister, Beatrice, have written, "Passports for Asia." Mrs. Frederic Clay Bartlett Jr., who devotes every one of her spare minutes to painting, will show some new water colors.

If needlework were allowed nine chances out of ten Miss Margaret Quan would take a prize on the "petit point" cigaret case she is doing, with the family coat of arms worked into the design. But since this kind of art is barred from the exhibit Miss Quan is choosing instead two heads, one in pencil and one in colored chalk. "They're terribly amateurish," she says, but her friends say otherwise.

Alice Means' Engagemen Is Announced in Boston.

An engagement announcement of interest to Chicago society was made in Boston yesterday. It is that of Miss Alice Means, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Whitman Means of Brookline and Boston, to Harold Palmer Mills Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Palmer Mills of New York. Miss Means is the granddaughter of Mrs. William H. Hubbard of Chicago and Lake Forest and was entertained extensively when she visited Mrs. Hubbard here last winter. She is a lovely girl and very pretty, with reddish gold hair. She made her debut in the season of 1930-'31 and is a member of the Vincent club and the Junior League.

For two days society has been excited over the rumored visit of the handsome young Earl of Warwick and now the disappointing news comes that he is boarding a plane this morning at Palm Beach and flying directly across the continent to Hollywood. Lord Warwick, as the guest the last few days of Charles R. Munn, met Mrs. Frederic McLaughlin, who has also been a guest at Mr. Munn's Palm Beach home, and Mrs. McLaughlin tried to persuade him that he shouldn't fly west without a stopover in Chicago, but to no avail.

There isn't a possibility of the young nobleman coming back this way, either, for he's on a trip around the world.

Today Miss Barbara Graf is to be hostess at a luncheon and bridge for Miss Suzanne Morris, one of this winter's debutantes at the Woodlawn avenue home of her parents, the Robert J. Grafs.

Mrs. George Shepard Chappell Jr., the former Caroline Smith, is giving a linen shower Thursday afternoon for Miss Constance Hasler, who is soon to marry John McLaren Simpson.

Yesterday afternoon a gay group of friends dropped in on Miss Nelle Offut at her Elm street house, to say "many happy returns of the day." Miss Offut was celebrating her 21st birthday.

Miss Winston Hostess to Pine Manor Alumnae.

Miss Virginia Winston of Evanston is to be hostess this afternoon to the Chicago and North Shore alumnae of Pine Manor Junior college. The party is prompted by the arrival in town of Miss Hetty Shepherd Wheeler, dean of the college.

The Lighthouse Volunteer Aids are having an exhibit every day this week from 12 to 2:30 at Grayling's restaurant, and the things they are showing are the wooden toys the blind men make at the Lighthouse—animals on wheels, trains, dolls, doll houses, and favors. Every day two of the aids are to be present to explain the work the blind do. Some of the hostesses will be Miss Mary Fortune, Miss Jane Fortune, Miss Ann Elizabeth Walsh, Miss Ann Small, Miss Wilma Hetzel, Mrs. Robert M. Hoffman Jr., Mrs. John S. Jennings, president of the aids, Mrs. R. Hampton Ripley and Mrs. Wilbur C. Smith.

Laflin to Tell About La Gonave's White King.

Louis E. Laflin Jr., will relate some of his experiences hobnobbing with Faustin Wirkus, the white king of La Gonave, when he speaks to the Matrix club this evening in the clubrooms at 75 East Wacker drive. He has also been asked to tell about his work as a playwright with the Princeton Triangle club, since the Matrix society is composed of promising young literary lights. Mrs. Laflin will attend the meeting with Mr. Laflin.

Three north side households are rejoicing over the arrival of three little girls who will debutantes of about 1950. The J. Allen Newtons of 210 East Pearson street, are the parents of a tiny daughter born last Friday at St. Luke's hospital. She has already been named Patricia Lucy, after her maternal grandfather, Patrick J. Lucey at 70 Cedar street. Mrs. Newton is the former Gertrude Lucey. On the paternal side Baby Patricia Lucy is the granddaughter of Robert Crittenden Newton of 64 East Cedar street, and the great granddaughter of the late William P. Rend, a pioneer Chicagoan. The Newtons little son, J. Allen Jr., is just 20 months old.

At the same address as the Newtons, the Macauley Carters [Mrs. Carter was Miss Patricia Schmidt] are announcing the birth of Miss Irene Ann Carter on Friday at the Presbyterian hospital. The little girl bears the name of her aunt, Mrs. Owen A. West, who was Miss Irene Schmidt.

The third little girl is Anne Winthrop Boyd, daughter of the Douglas Boyds of Highland Park. Mrs. Boyd before her marriage was Marian Taylor, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Gale Taylor.

Baby Susanne Shaw used her party manners Saturday afternoon when she was christened by the Rev. Duncan Browne in the living room of her parents' apartment, the John Irving Shaws, at 1442 Lake Shore drive. Only the immediate families came for the ceremony and tea afterward. Mrs. Shaw is the former Barbara King, daughter of the Charles Garfield Kings.

Kenwood Club to Hold Fashion Show Downtown.

Encouraged by their success in former years, the hard working and enthusiastic young matrons who compose the membership of the Kenwood Social Service club, are announcing that they will hold their annual fashion show downtown for the first time this year, at the Congress hotel. The date is April 19.

Dr. and Mrs. Fay-Cooper Cole are to entertain the geologist and historian, Robert Shippee, at dinner at the Cliff Dwellers tomorrow evening, preceding his lecture before the Geographic society at Orchestra hall. Mr. Shippee is to tell about the eight months he spent in aerial exploration in Peru. Guests at the Coles' dinner will be Mr. and Mrs. Herbert E. Bradley, Dr. and Mrs. Nathan S. Davis III., Dr. and Mrs. Wilfred H. Osgood, Mr and Mrs. Joseph S. Rice, and Mr. and Mrs. Lee Mitsenberg.

Because of her extended honeymoon abroad, Mrs. Malcolm S. Henderson's position as chairman of the junior members of the Alliance Francaise has been filled by Miss Marjorie Goodman, daughter of Mrs. James M. Hopkins. Every one is delighted that she has been chosen, for she speaks French well and is very charming and gracious.

With Mrs. Joseph M. Cudahy sunning in Palm Beach, and Mrs. Frederic W. Upham on her way to the West Indies, Mrs. Arthur B. Slade is putting in most of her waking hours at the office of the Friends of Music. She may well be called the "manager," for she has all of the departments working for Chicago's temple of music under her direction.

Mrs. Clyde M. Carr sailed Saturday on the Majestic to be abroad for an indefinite stay. On the same boat with her is John Masefield, poet laureate of England.

Edna Doering Off Today for Two Weeks in Florida.

Miss Edna Doering, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edmund J. Doering Jr., is leaving today to spend the next fortnight with Mrs. Frederick C. Thwaits of Milwaukee at Mrs. Thwaits' house at Daytona Beach, Fla. On her return Miss Doering will stop for a day or two with her sisters, Miss Nancy Doering, who is a pupil at Miss Weaver's school in New York. She is due back in Chicago the 25th.

Miss Eleanor McCormick, daughter of Mrs. Robert H. McCormick, and Miss Dorothy Ranney, daughter of the George A. Ranneys, left yesterday for Miami Beach to visit the Conway Olmsteds.

Mrs. Charles Bromwell left last week to spend the remainder of the winter in Colorado Springs. She will be here again in May for a short visit with her son and daughter-law, the M. Scott Bromwells of Lake Forest, before she sails back to England.

The Tuftin musical anticipated weekly by Evanston society is to be held this time on Thursday rather than Wednesday morning at the Cradle, 2039 Ridge avenue, Evanston. The artists will be Miss Helen Abbott Byfield, soprano, and Miss Harriet Flower, cellist.

Paris Borrows Old Fashioned Calico Designs for Metal Threaded Silks

BY BETTINA BEDWELL.

PARIS.—[Special.]—The peasant velvets of winter are responsible for the new calico printed lames and silks for spring. Women still like something rustic for their grand moments, and so the designs from kitchen aprons and mother hubbards are transferred to luxurious gold threaded silks and made into spring evening dresses and wraps.

The Lyolene ensemble in our sketch today is made of this new material, woven of gold and green metal and silk into a tiny sprigged print identical with the familiar design of calico. Mme. Lyolene contrives to carry the rustic idea of the material into the cut of the jacket, which is shown on the large figure. This jacket has a low, boat shaped neckline just like a dress, and its big sleeves look as if they were rolled up above the elbows in preparation for an assault on the dinner dishes. It buttons up the front on buttons of Chinese jade and is fitted at the under arm seams.

The dress, made of the same material, has elbow length sleeves like the jacket and the same neckline. The bodice is fitted and shirred at the sides of the waistline. It is cut in one with the panels down the front and back of the skirt, while at the sides the gores are made circular, which gives lots of width to the skirt.

Three Authors in Chicago; 2 Will Lecture

BY FANNY BUTCHER.

London, Paris, New York . . . Chicago was graced yesterday by leading literary men from each of those cultural capitals, by Philip Guedalla from London, by Maurice Sachs from Paris, and by Christopher Morley from New York. . . . That's because we're on the main line to Hollywood! Though not exactly, for Mr. Guedalla and Mr. Sachs are here to lecture.

Philip Guedalla—and the very nicest wife any literary man ever had—hasn't been here since 1927 when the lake front he saw from his hotel window was a modernistic landscape composed mostly of tin cans, and both he and his wife were lyric about the phoenix which had risen from its literal ashes. They kept exclaiming as we walked back from luncheon at the Drake hotel, "But this IS the most beautiful modern city in the world."

They are travelers, the Guedallas, and connoisseurs of cities. "Argentine Tango," his latest book, proves that. "The Second Empire," which is the modern classic on that period and "Palmerston" are two of the most important books in their fields. "What are you doing now," I asked him, "biography or history?"

"I'm half way through editing the letters exchanged between Gladstone and Queen Victoria. There will be two volumes, which I shall call 'Queen Victoria and Mr. Gladstone,' and I am writing almost as much as I am editing. That relationship began, you know, as a sort of intellectual honeymoon, but it developed into one of the best battles of the generation when Gladstone tried to get her mind off Disraeli, who vamped her politically more successfully than Gladstone had ever been able to do, and tried to make her work harder at being a queen. Many of her early letters to Gladstone have never been published. No, I shan't do another book about America." . . . His "Conquistador" was grand harpooning of some of our favorite national whales.

We were trying to decide whether fiction was in a specially low way lately or whether with the death of the great figures in English literature it only seemed that way. "Wells," said Mr. Guedalla, "once told me that if he had to do his early work over again he would never have put it in novel form. But in his day when you wanted to discuss an economic fact you had to make human beings the clothes horses upon which such facts were hung. Nowadays literature needn't all be fiction."

Mr. Guedalla will lecture in Oak Park tomorrow.

Christopher Morley is journeying toward Hollywood by lecture stages. Years do not stale HIS infinite variety of wit, though so far as years go his add up only to 42. He took great pains to write out for me the title and publisher of a book by our next secretary of the treasury, William H. Woodin, to prove to me that the country is going literary politically. [It's "Raggedy Ann's Sunny Songs" by Johnny Gruelle, with music by William H. Woodin, published by Miller Music company.] That was apropos of my asking his traveling companion, Francis Henry, sales manager of the Doubleday Doran Publishing company, who are doing the Dolly Gann book, how come his firm didn't have a book from the Roosevelt pen, since several are docketed for the next few weeks.

Nellie Sees Herself Home; Escort Quits

Modern Young Man Lacks Energy, It Seems.

BY DORIS BLAKE.

Seeing Nellie home isn't the popular theme it used to be, we take it.

"Blue Eyes" and "Worried" and "Anxious" and other girls tell of being asked to see themselves home, once the dance or show is over! It's a long way home, of course, which is why the boys like to back out.

As "Megs" tells it, she's very much in love. Doesn't want to lose the boy, who takes her out frequently. But he never takes her home. Just puts her on a street car and says "Good-night, girlie, I'll see you soon!" "Megs" spoke to the boy about this lapse in the gentleman's code and he replied, "Well, if I take you home I'll have to come back alone."

Modern—if you take it that way! But who, among the young women, wants to be that modern?

Personally, we're all for making the boy put himself out a bit. From our post of observation we see that it is not well, even in this day and age, to let boys off too lightly. A little sacrifice of personal comfort won't hurt these young men. If they are in training for future good husbandship it's well not to be too lenient. The unwilling husband is no prize package in matrimony.

There will be times when you'll want him to go out of his way for you. But you can't expect him to turn into this sort of husband after the sweetheart training he's now enjoying. But mostly we base our protest on the time worn fact that men appreciate girls most who call on them for some sacrifice.

Of course, no generalization applies to all cases. We are referring only to the casual young man who could easily see that a girl gets to her door safely. There are circumstances where it would mean the young man's arrival at his own doorstep with the milkman. In this event a girl might compromise on the trip home unescorted once in a while. Even so, the idea of a girl traveling home alone late at night is not pleasant.

But this growing crop of young men who seem to think they've done enough for the girl when they've put her on a street car should meet with discouragement pronto if for no other reason than to teach said young men that we have to pay for our pleasure, and a little personal discomfort is the least of tolls.

Illinois Colleges to Hold Annual Conference Today

Administrative officers from 30 Illinois colleges and universities will meet today at De Paul university for the 29th annual convention of the Federation of Illinois Colleges. The Very Rev. J. W. R. Maguire, president of St. Viator college, will open the meeting, and Prof. S. C. Ratcliffe of Illinois Wesleyan university will deliver the first speech. At the annual banquet tonight at the Chicago Woman's club the Rev. Michael J. O'Connell, C. M., vice president of De Paul, will preside as toastmaster.

Engaged

[Carlos Photo.]

Announcement has been made of the engagement of Miss Dorothy Helen Davis, daughter of Capt. and Guy Davis of Evanston, to Ensign Robert Lee Moore Jr., U. S. Navy. The wedding will take place early in March at Christ church, Coronado, Cal., after which the bridal couple will sail for Honolulu, where Ensign Moore has been ordered for duty. Capt. Davis is commandant of the naval R. O. T. C. at Northwestern university.

PILE SUFFERERS LIVE IN SHADOW OF THE KNIFE!

If you want to be rid of the torment of piles without an operation, throw away your laxative drugs. Generally it is abuse and neglect of your bowels that causes bleeding, itching, aching piles in the first place, and as long as you continue to irritate the delicate membrane with laxatives you are living in the very shadow of the surgeon's knife.

Start Cream of Nujol treatment instead, stop the irritation and take the first step toward the relief of pile suffering.

This new form of Nujol is specially suited to sufferers from piles. It soothes and heals the delicate bowel membranes and makes you as regular as clockwork without any interference with your work or play.

It is delicious to take, and will cost you only a few cents a day. Buy it at any drug counter.

TRULY ROYAL DRAMA!

Electrifying as only THE FIRST FAMILY OF STAGE and SCREEN could make it!

Midwest Adds Two More to Good Film Bets

BY GEORGE SHAFFER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Hollywood, Cal., Feb. 26.—Two radiant midwest newcomers to the screen fold have been rewarded for their dimples, their curves, their intelligence and their aptitude in picking up screen technique by long term option period contracts. The beaming pair are Margaret McConnell, Chicago and Kawanna, Ind., "Magazine Cigaret Ad Girl," who gets her contract from MGM, and Verna Hillie, natural golden haired blonde from Detroit, who goes on the permanent players' list at Paramount.

Miss McConnell recently accepted a round trip ticket from MGM to come from Chicago and take a gamble on her screen tests turning out to the studio's satisfaction. The tests were more than satisfactory and she will get her first part in a couple of weeks. "I guess they weren't very optimistic at first," Miss McConnell says, "because of the round trip ticket. Now I feel so relieved."

Miss Hillie, whose hair is of such texture and hue and whose complexion is so creamy that visitors at Paramount generally greet her first with: "Why the camera really doesn't do you full justice." She finished "Under the Tonto Rim" last week, and studio officials thrust a long term contract under her eyes as soon as they looked at the final rushes. She had appeared in only one prior film, the ingénue lead in "Hell Bent for Heaven."

Miss Hillie recently received a letter from a Mrs. Meckie in Abbo, Finland, the city from which her father emigrated to America, asking if the actress' father was not Mrs. Meckie's long lost brother. It seems the name Meckie means "hilly" and the Finnish woman had seen a newspaper picture of Verna and thought her likeness resembled the missing brother. The father, Edward Werner Hillie who works in the Detroit Ford factory, was not the brother, however.

The tests of Philip Merivale for the part selected for him did not turn out as the studio had anticipated they would. Although Merivale has a contract with the Fox plant, there may be some difficulty in finding a rôle for him. He may be one of those cases where the camera mistreats an actor who has made a fine showing on the stage.

MINUTE MYSTERY

CAN YOU SOLVE IT?

BY H. A. RIDLEY

[Copyright: 1933: By The Chicago Tribune.]

Dr. Fordney is professor of criminology at a famous university. His advice is often sought by the police of many cities when confronted with particularly baffling cases. This problem has been taken from his case-book covering hundreds of criminal investigations.

Try your wits on it! It takes but ONE MINUTE to read! Every fact and every clew necessary to its solution are in the story itself—and there is only one answer. How good a detective are you?

DEATH SAILS IN.

Picking up the automatic pistol from beside the dead body of Winston Donnelley Prof. Fordney casually released the safety and examined the barrel for fingerprints. Two hours before, Donnelley, in the deepening twilight of late summer, had steered his yacht into Belmont harbor. The club was deserted.

"Well, professor, if Donnelley bumped himself off, his fingerprints will be on the gun," remarked Sergt. Reynolds emphatically noting one superficial head wound and the small hole in the temple.

"You see, son, the dead man's wearing gloves."

"They could be a plant, you know," ventured the sergeant.

"Yes . . . yes . . . that's right!"

Donnelley had dismissed his crew after anchoring and Doris Girton, his guest, bade him goodnight, then swam to the clubhouse for a last bit of exercise. She insisted, though unable to prove her alibi because no one was there, that she hurriedly dressed and walked briskly home. Donnelley intended remaining on board all night.

Samuel Jones, prominent broker, out strolling along the shore with his sealyhams, had heard two shots from the direction of Donnelley's boat and had phoned the police.

"I say, professor, he couldn't have shot himself twice," exclaimed Reynolds. "It MUST be murder!"

"Yes, he could—the first wasn't fatal but the second was. However, sergeant, observe this cabin more closely. See those damp impressions in the thick pile of the rug and the . . ."

"I got you. Of course it's murder!"

HOW DID THEY KNOW IT WAS MURDER AND NOT SUICIDE?

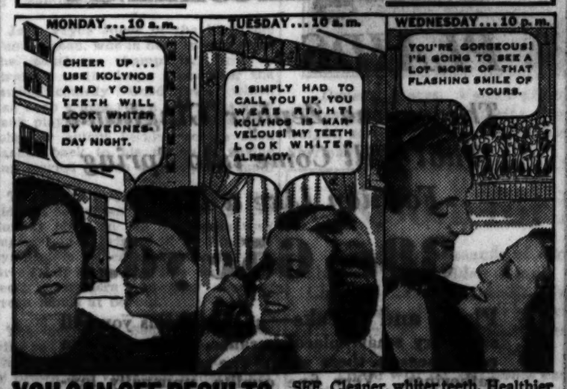
HOW TO GET WHITER TEETH from the toothpaste you use



MONDAY... 10 a.m.
CHEER UP... USE KOLYNOS AND YOUR TEETH WILL LOOK WHITER BY WEDNESDAY NIGHT.
TUESDAY... 10 a.m.
I SIMPLY HAD TO CALL YOU UP, YOU WERE RIGHT! KOLYNOS IS MARVELOUS! MY TEETH LOOK WHITER ALREADY.
WEDNESDAY... 10 p.m.
YOU'RE GORGEOUS! I'M GOING TO SEE A LOT MORE OF THAT FLASHING SMILE OF YOURS.

YOU CAN SEE RESULTS

START brushing your teeth with Kolynos. In just a few days they'll look whiter—shades whiter. They'll feel much cleaner. Here's the reason: Kolynos does what ordinary toothpaste can't do. As it cleans up ugly stain and tarnish—it foams into every tiny crevice and kills millions of germs that are the known cause of most tooth and gum troubles. Thus Kolynos gives RESULTS YOU CAN SEE. Cleaner, whiter teeth. Healthier looking gums. Give up incompetent ways of brushing and start using the Kolynos technique—a half-inch of this remarkable dental cream on a dry brush twice a day. It's the better, quicker way to cleaner, whiter teeth.

Four Little Vitamins Will Aid You on Road to Health

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

What do you know about vitamins? You should know more. So should we all. You're hearing so much today about vitamin D, for instance. That it is the great teeth preserver and body builder. That without it, you're not half the bright and beautiful girl you ought to be!

Come now, my sisters, and tell exactly what you know about vitamin D! In what foods is it most likely to be found? In what foods, for that matter, do you look for vitamin A or B or C, equally serious vitamins in this business of looking well through food intake?

Let's take this vitamin D that's getting most publicity right now. You find it in butter, cod liver oil, cream; in egg yolk and in liver and salmon and milk. So, if your body needs more calcium and phosphorous content, more blood, better growth—don't be afraid to partake heartily of these named foods.

In addition, and intricately included in your vitamin D supply is a full daily quota of fresh air and sunshine; sunshine and more sunshine. Vitamin D is present in certain licensed products, certain bread, yeast, certain cereals and strained vegetables, tomato juice and milk. But it is enough for you to remember that milk and butter, cream, egg yolk and liver give you vitamin D.

Vitamin C is another chemical food composition that contributes to good teeth and general health. It is to be found in fruits such as bananas, grapefruit, lemons, oranges, strawberries. And in such vegetables as tomatoes, turnips, potatoes and raw leaf vegetables.

Vitamin B, recommended for the one with loss of appetite and poor digestion and nerve disorders is found in grapefruit, lemons, milk, oranges, whole grains, peas and beans, in milk and nuts and almost all fruits and vegetables.

Vitamin A, a general body builder, is found in a number of the above named foods such as milk, butter, cheese, cream, green vegetables, liver, tomatoes and bananas.

Honor Gatti-Casazza on 25th Anniversary with Metropolitan

New York, Feb. 26.—(AP)—The Metropolitan opera celebrated with grandeur and burlesque tonight its twenty-fifth season under the directorship of Giulio Gatti-Casazza.

The compeers of grand opera today and yesterday were there, in a tribute to the massive, gray-bearded impresario.

Galli-Curci, the coloratura, came back to participate. She sat beside Alma Gluck. Olive Fremstad was there, too.

Gatti came to the "golden horseshoe" twenty-five years ago from La Scala in Milan. The opening opera that season was Aida, and Toscanini conducted the performance.

The queen of them all was there, in the first row, Marcella Sembrich, now 75. She came to the "Met" twenty-five years before Gatti.

Population Controls Cities' Share Under Hunter Act.

BY HAL FOUST.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., Feb. 26.—[Special.]—The general assembly this week is expected to receive the governor's highway advisory commission recommendations for the administration of $46,000,000 annual taxes collected from the motorists of Illinois. This bill will join several already before the legislature calling for various changes in the handling of road money.

The commission, created by the 1931 assembly and headed by Representative David Hunter of Rockford, proposes that the present distribution of license fees and motor fuel revenue be continued, with the state allocating half of its 2 cents from the gas tax for improvements within municipalities, the apportionment among cities in accordance with population. The counties would continue to receive 1 cent of the gas tax to be used for charity relief or for roads.

Most Radical Proposals.

The Agricultural Transportation Association of Illinois, a new organization with Senator Earl B. Searcy [Rep., Springfield], acting as spokesman in the legislature, is sponsoring the most radical of proposals for future uses of these special taxes paid by motorists. The scheme, as outlined by Charles F. Mansfield, general manager of the association, would take $35,000,000 of state collected automobile excises and distribute this money among counties, townships and cities to be substituted for an equal amount of direct property taxes levied by these smaller political units for roads and streets.

Under the Searcy-Mansfield plan, the distribution would be in proportion to property tax levied by the smaller units in 1931 for road and street purposes. The expenditure of this $35,000,000 of motorists' money would not be limited to state routes. The plan is vague and uncertain on many important points, some of which may be ironed out at a conference of a group of civic associations called for Tuesday night here.

Representative A. O. Galvin [Rep., Chicago] has introduced a bill sponsored by the Illinois Municipal league calling for an equal division of the 3 cent gas tax among the state highway department, the counties and the cities. This differs from the advisory commission's recommendation under which the state would retain control of the 1 cent, about $9,300,000, to be spent in municipalities.

Asks 50 Per Cent License Fee Cut.

Representative Galvin has another bill which would distribute the gasoline excise revenue with 1 cent to the state highway department, 1 cent to the counties, and 1 cent to the Illinois Emergency Relief commission.

Representative F. W. Lewis [Dem., Chicago] proposed a 50 per cent reduction in license fees for private passenger cars.

Close Check on Receipts.

"It is important that the state retain control of the motorists' money where a close check on receipts and expenditures can be made in one set of books," said George Barton, director of the motorists' club. "With many hands touching the money, there would be a loss from excessive overhead if from no other reason.

"State highway department administration, as it is now being developed along sound economic lines evolved from careful traffic studies, is the best assurance that the motorists' money will be spent where it will do them the most good."

CLAIMS PAINTING IS BY FAMOUS FLEMISH ARTIST

Dr. Robert B. Harshe, director of the Chicago Art institute, said last night he hopes that a painting hanging in the institute that has been attributed to Johannes Vermeer can be proved to be a product of his brush, as that will increase its value greatly. Vermeer of Delft, as he is known, was a 16th century Flemish painter. The claim that the painting is a Vermeer was advanced in New York by an English collector, L. Charles Wallach, according to dispatches.

"The painting in question has been attributed by critics and painters generally to Ochtervelt, who was a pupil of Vermeer," Dr. Harshe said. "Vermeer was one of the greatest painters and ruled supreme as a technician. The painting is a typical Vermeer subject, but it is an Ochtervelt subject as well. I do not consider it as good as another Ochtervelt that we have, however.

"The subjects are a man and a woman, seated at a table in a simple Dutch interior, with a chair in a corner and a dog on the floor. There are only about 20 or 30 Vermeers in existence. I hope sincerely that Mr. Wallach is able to prove his contention."

Police Learn Use of Gas from State Guard Experts

More than 250 policemen were instructed yesterday in the use of tear gas bombs by Lieut. Col. Alfred de Roulet, in charge of the chemical warfare section of the Illinois National Guard. The policemen assembled in Soldiers' field and were in charge of Chief of Detectives William Schoemaker. Col. De Roulet explained that through the use of tear gas mobs can be broken up quickly without injury of any kind to the demonstrators.

BY CHARLES BARTLETT.

The cantankerous New York Rangers, making their last appearance of the year at the Stadium last night, put another crimp in the playoff hopes of the Blackhawks, defeating them, 4 to 1, in a most ungentlemanly manner. They allowed the Hawks to take a 1 to 0 lead at the end of the first period and permitted them to retain that advantage through the second period, thus deceiving the Hawks and the 10,500 customers into believing that the Chicagoans might finally come off winners.

Then the New Yorkers revealed their true selves by making four goals at tantalizing intervals during the third session, and there was no keeping up with them.

Even Season Series.

The victory enabled the Rangers to even their season series with the Hawks, each having won two games and two contests resulting in ties. It also moved the Rangers only a point behind Detroit, American division leaders, who were tied by the Americans last night. The Hawks, in turn, are five points behind the Boston Bruins, their rivals for the last allotted position in the playoffs.

It was the far famed Cook-Boucher line which proved too much for the Blackhawks in the end. Capt. Teddy Graham had scored the first Chicago goal in the opening period with the assistance of Thompson and Tommy Cook. Then Boucher and Bill Cook came down the ice twice with a get out of our way rush and Bill scored both times on passes from Frank. Between these performances was a goal from the blue line off Butch Keeling's stick. Boucher became tired of passing the puck, and made the final score of the evening all by himself.

Graham Nets Puck.

After ten minutes of futile hammering, in which the Rangers had a slight advantage, the contest became exceedingly rough, with successive penalties to three of the Rangers—Bill Cook, Brennan, and Earl Seibert, the last named being jailed while assisting in warding off a Hawk attack which followed a penalty to Brennan.

With two Rangers in the box, the Hawks couldn't score, but as soon as Seibert, the last prisoner, was released, the red light back of Aikenhead winked and the Hawks led, 1 to 0. Thompson broke through the New York defense, and Cook, taking the rebound of Aikenhead's stop, passed it to Graham, who had come up to join the party. Teddy shoved it into the now open cage in 16:35.

Resume Fast Play.

The first ten minutes of the second period were transacted as roughly and speedily as the first, but nary a score developed. Only two penalties were assessed during that time, both of them to Blackhawks, Jenkins and Coulter.

The Rangers made the most of their absence, and most of the puck carrying was done in Hawk territory. However, the New Yorkers failed to make any impression on Gardiner.

The Rangers' persistence was finally rewarded before the third period was four minutes old. The awesome line of the brothers Cook and Boucher swept down the left side of the ice along the boards, with Boucher controlling the puck. He shoved it along to Bill Cook as they crossed the blue line, and Bill lined it home before Gardiner knew what had happened.

The Hawks were down pestering Aitkenhead, with Tommy Cook leading the charge, when the score suddenly became 2 to 1 in favor of the Rangers. Keeling took the puck down and fired one from the blue line which went past Gardiner. The time was 10 minutes 10 seconds.

The Rangers scored their third goal in 13:15. It was the combination of Boucher and Bill Cook again, Frank passing to Bill, who beat Gardiner in 13:50. The Rangers then became positively greedy and Boucher indicated that he would like to make a goal himself, so he skated into a pile of players near the Hawk net and made the score 4 to 1 in 14:50.

Wham! That's Bush Blowing Up; Malones Win, 17 to 16

BY EDWARD BURNS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Avalon, Cal., Feb. 26.—The first Cub intercub game, the Malone Lumbagoes vs. the Bush Tarbabies, this afternoon ended in a dramatic 17 to 16 victory for the Lumbagoes. While the score indicates a contest of free hitting, it does not reveal several tense situations, the last of which developed in the last seconds of the game.

Guy Bush's team grabbed a 9 to 6 lead in the fifth inning and Bush went in to pitch the sixth in order to protect the lead, whereupon Malone's men pounded the safety first Mississipian for eleven runs, the climax of which was a homer by Malone.

Babe Herman Smacks One.

Seeking to further humiliate Bush a bit later, Malone took the mask and bosom protector off Zack Taylor and ordered him to pitch the last two innings. Taylor fanned Bush in the first inning he pitched and effected two other put outs, but in the final inning Zack loaded the bases and Babe Herman socked a homer, his third hit of the game. Taylor allowed another score to count and with the tying run on third and the winning run on second and none out, Malone went in and retired the side for a stirring victory.

While there was some clowning among a few of the athletes, the afternoon's event was taken seriously by most of them and Bush was horribly upset by the carryings on.

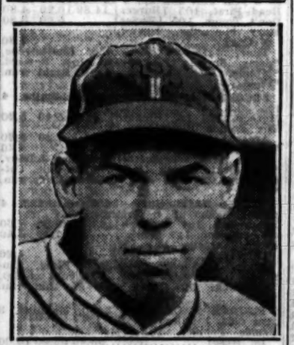
Piccard Gets Some Tips.

Manager Grimm presented a box of cigars to the winners with the understanding that none of the losers was to be permitted to smoke any of the spoils. Other trophies were personal matters between Malone and Bush. Among those who witnessed the several ascensions of Bush was Prof. Auguste Piccard, the stratosphere man, who still claims that he has been higher in the air than the Tarbaby manager.

After the game Bush issued a challenge to throw the conflict into a series of three games, but Malone had not consented to the proposition at press time.

The Cubs are eagerly awaiting the arrival of the second squad Tuesday noon in order that preparations can start for the first of the exhibition games. The Giants will be in Catalina next Saturday and Sunday for two games and the attraction is expected to attract some 6,000 persons from the mainland of the United States. This gathering will be augmented by about 1,500 natives, it is predicted.

ATTA BABE!



Babe Herman, new Cub outfielder, hits home run yesterday in game between Malone and Bush teams.

N. U. Plays Indiana Tonight; Ohio State Battles Purdue

Northwestern university's basketball team, back in the Big Ten conference title fight following Iowa's rout of Ohio State, sees a chance to step into a tie for the leadership tonight.

The Wildcats expect to accomplish this by beating Indiana at Patten gymnasium while Ohio State is losing to the rejuvenated Boilermakers at Purdue. These are the feature games on tonight's four game program. Of course, Northwestern's ideas of climbing into a tie with the pace setting Buckeyes are based on the theory Purdue will repeat the 37 to 29 trimming that Iowa handed Ohio State Saturday evening.

On the basis of the trouble Ohio State has been having even while winning on enemy courts, Purdue is conceded more than an even chance. The Boilermakers were beaten by only one point on the Ohio State floor, and with the advantages of improved play and home surroundings Purdue's prospects are bright for victory.

N. U. Encounters Trouble.

Northwestern had difficulty beating Wisconsin Saturday, 30 to 28, although it had whipped the Badgers by 18 points at Evanston, 40 to 22. This may indicate that the Wildcats are weakening following their two point setback at Purdue last week. But, if Northwestern is slipping, so is its foe of this evening, for Indiana experienced the humiliation of losing to the Maroons, 34 to 32, at Chicago's fieldhouse.

Chicago's first victory of the season brought jubilation to the Midway. The Maroons had lost nine in a row before surprising Indiana with improved team play and more accurate shooting.

Minnesota also scored its first victory, taking the measure of the Illini on their home floor, 30 to 28. Thus the tie for the cellar championship is unbroken, with the Maroons and Gophers each winning one and losing nine games.

Michigan Out of Race.

Michigan was eliminated from the race by suffering its third defeat, a 37 to 33 beating at Purdue. Tonight at Ann Arbor the Wolverines play the revived Gophers. Iowa also is out of the race, but it gained some solace by the rout of Ohio, the team which put the Hawkeyes out of it. Illinois plays Iowa at Iowa City tonight.

Joe Reiff of Northwestern added 16 points to his scoring record against Wisconsin and now has a total of 132. He has two more games, against Indiana tonight and Minnesota on Saturday, in which to pass the conference record of 154 established by Johnny Wooden of Purdue last year. Elmer Johnson of Northwestern remained in second place with 91, but Frank Froschauer of Illinois now is only one behind him. Leading scorers:

Moreland Keeps Houston Golf Title; Wins 6 and 5

Houston, Tex., Feb. 26.—(AP)—Gus Moreland of Dallas, Tex., defending champion, won the 19th annual invitational golf tournament of the Houston Country club today by defeating Ossie Carlton of Houston, 6 and 5. Moreland shot a 35, one under par, on the front nine this afternoon, playing on a water logged course. The final was over 36 holes.

BATTER UP! SOX TO HOLD OPENING WORKOUT TODAY

ComiskeyLearnsSimmons, Will Be in Shape.

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Pasadena, Cal., Feb. 26.—Preliminaries incidental to the year's first muscle stretching were gone through by the White Sox today. Strictly according to schedule Owner Lou Comiskey delivered a consignment of athletes from Chicago, while others straggled in from various points of the compass. Still others were missing this evening, but they'll all be here in time for the grand opening of the training season tomorrow.

Thus far the camp is all Adams and no Eves. One or two may show up later, but it is a better guess that the athletes will be unanimous in respecting the club's hint that the wives should remain at home. Comiskey evidently believes that a training trip is a business instead of a social affair.

Rookies Up for Inspection.

Actual operations on the training field will get under way about 10:30 o'clock tomorrow morning. The first hour will be devoted exclusively to the various rookies of whom Manager Fonseca knows little. There aren't many in this classification, so after about ten days of concentrating on the unknowns the boss will know pretty well what they are worth, if anything.

The regulars and men who had their big league experience elsewhere will make their season's debut after the green peas have had their hour. The plan is to keep the older fellows on the field until about 2:30 in the afternoon, after which they can have the day to themselves. This one session per day will be in order throughout the training grind unless the boys get to loafing. In that event their working hours will consume almost the entire day.

Al Simmons Reported O. K.

As soon as Comiskey arrived he phoned to Hot Springs, Ark., to talk to the doctor who has Al Simmons in charge. The Sox president was assured that there is nothing to worry about. Removal of infected teeth has so improved the noted slugger's ailing right hand that he is engaging in batting practice along with his other conditioning duties. Simmons expects to reach camp by March 10, which will make him available for the exhibition games. He is now the Sox's big gate attraction, so his presence naturally is of concern to his employer, who has to produce Al's $30,000 annual salary.

The two other men obtained in the deal with the Athletics last fall, Third Baseman Jimmy Dykes and Center Fielder Mule Haas, traveled to camp by way of the Panama canal. Catcher Charley Berry did the same thing. Infielder Luke Appling and Catcher Frank Grube motored to the coast, but did this only because they started before the club put a ban on that style of travel. The redoubtable Ted Lyons is not due until tomorrow.

Kowalik Makes a Mistake.

Fabian Kowalik, a rookie pitcher, arrived 24 hours too soon, but that is easily explained. He started from his home town, Fall City, Tex., which didn't possess a railroad time table. the journey from mid-Texas should take, bought a ticket and went his way. He was greatly shocked when he arrived a day too early and found none of his prospective teammates to assist him in killing time.

GOMEZ, YANKEE PITCHER, WEDS N. Y. SHOWGIRL

New York, Feb. 26.—[Special.]—Vernon Gomez, New York Yankee pitcher, today married Helen Frances Schwarz, known to the theater as June O'Dea, at the Church of the Blessed Sacrament. Miss O'Dea wept audibly throughout the ceremony. The sound of her sobs echoing in the chancel affected her maid of honor, Sunny O'Dea, a sister, and soon her weeping was as evident as the bride's. Through it all Gomez maintained an admirable calm.

VOTE ADOLPH IS O. K.

Champions on Parade; Show Loop a-Plenty

BY FRENCH LANE.

The folks who mingled in the loop theater crowds last night should not worry about the numerous groups of fighting men they saw parading on Michigan avenue, State street and over around Clark and Randolph streets. It was just the advance guard of champions from all parts of Chicagoland walking off their sea legs after they had traveled most of the day getting here for the Tournament of Champions.

Jack Pryce Jones of the Nashville Tennesseean, who is here in charge of the southern champions, isn't a stranger to the loop. Remember the musical comedy "Good News" which had such a long run a few years ago? Jack played a heavy rôle. When the jobs for actors became scarce Jack dashed back to his native Nashville and started out as a newspaper man.

The Green Bay, Wis., fighters provided a lot of entertainment for the Sunday idlers in the loop when they engaged in a brisk drill at Trafton's gymnasium yesterday afternoon. The Green Bay boys look like rough and ready customers and they are not green hands at boxing.

The lads along South Clark street will go out to the Tournament of Champions prepared to cheer for Harry Brown, the Vincennes welterweight champion. Harry is stopping with other members of the Vincennes team at the Atlantic hotel. He let most of the boys down around Clark and Van Buren feel his muscles last night. He is a machinist helper in the Big Four railway shops at Mount Carmel, Ill. He looks every inch a fighting man.

Fight Facts

Events—Sixth Golden Gloves Tournament of Champions and Chicago's First Annual Novice Championships.

Place—Chicago Stadium, 1800 West Madison street.

Time—Tonight and tomorrow night, 7 o'clock; Wednesday night, 8 o'clock.

Number of contestants—320, including the champions of 23 cities in seven states, 64 qualifiers in four Chicago sectionals, and 8 champions of the Catholic Youth organization, and 64 qualifiers in Chicago's novice tournament.

Number of bouts—Tonight, 112; tomorrow, 112; Wednesday, 56.

Where to buy tickets—Tribune Public Service office, 1 South Dearborn; Room 530 Tribune Tower; Chicago Stadium.

Boxers—Contestants in 112, 118, 126, and 135 pound classes of Tournament of Champions, and all novices, report between 2 and 6 o'clock this afternoon at Stadium for physical examinations and to weigh in; pairings by lot at 6:15 o'clock.

BY WILFRID SMITH.

Chicago's sixth annual Tournament of Champions, greatest in number of entries, widest in scope, begins tonight at 7 o'clock at the Stadium. Twenty-three cities in seven states, from Nashville, Tenn., to Green Bay, Wis., from Cleveland, O., to Davenport, Ia., have sent their champion boxers. They are joined by the eight best from Chicago's Catholic Youth Organization and 64 Chicago lads, who, in the last two weeks, survived four metropolitan sectional tournaments.

Two hundred and fifty-six boxers, winners in a field of 5,000 contestants enlisted in seven states, start tonight on the three day meet which will reduce the contenders for diamond studded golden gloves to 32. These survivors, four in each weight class, will decide the 1933 championships March 8 at the Stadium. From this tournament will be chosen Chicago's intercity squad. Then on March 29 they will face the Golden Gloves team from New York.

Low Admission Prices.

The Tournament of Champions is offered to Chicago fans at prices without parallel in boxing, either amateur or professional. Admission ranges from 40 and 75 cents to $1.10 for ringside and center mezzanine seats.

The championships in themselves are Chicago's greatest bargain, but if further incentive to see these boys tonight is needed, Chicago's first annual Golden Gloves Novice tournament will supply it. Sixty-four boxers have qualified for the meet. Wednesday night the eight final bouts in this division will be held in conjunction with Open division fights. Gold medals for the champions and silver medals for the runnersup are the awards.

All Novices to Report.

All novice boxers must report this afternoon at the Stadium to weigh in and for physical examinations. They also will be given their tournament tickets. Only the first four weight classes [112, 118, 126 and 135 pounds] in the Tournament of Champions need report this afternoon. These boys will fight twice tonight and then the winners will rest until Wednesday.

Tomorrow night, in addition to the novice bouts, the welterweights, middleweights, light heavyweights, and heavyweights in the Tournament of Champions will be called. They will box twice and then complete the eliminations for this week with one bout Wednesday. All contestants must report for physical examinations each afternoon of the days they fight. However, each will weigh in only once for the three nights.

112 Fights Tonight.

There will be 112 bouts tonight and the same number tomorrow night. On Wednesday night 56 bouts are scheduled.

All bouts this week will consist of three rounds. Each round is two minutes. The boxers will use eight ounce gloves.

Just as the physical aspects of this renewal of Golden Gloves is greatest in history, so are the contenders superior in ability to those of other years. Only three of the 1932 champions are in this year's meet. But from the farm and city has arisen a new host of hopefuls and from them it is expected eight boys will be found who can avenge the defeat last year in Madison Square Garden by New York's Golden Gloves team.

Rodak and Rothier Back.

Leo Rodak, captain of the 1932 Golden Gloves intercity and international team, who won the bantamweight title, is returning in the 126 pound class this year. He will fight tonight. Henry Rothier, last year's lightweight champion, will fight in the welterweight class. Rothier competed

TIES BROKEN IN 2 DIVISIONS OF K. OF C. LEAGUE

Hyde Park and Quigley Take Lead.

Ties for first place in two divisions of the Knights of Columbus Basketball league were broken yesterday when Santa Maria of the South End section took a trimming from Garcia Mareno, 24 to 13, and Englewood in the South division lost a thriller to Calumet, 19 to 18.

Loyola-Hyde Park moved into undisputed possession of first place in the South section when Turney of Calumet shot a last minute basket for the winning points against Englewood. Myszа, with three baskets and four free throws, kept the Calumet aggregation in the game after the first half had ended with his team ahead, 8 to 5. Lineup:

New York, Feb. 26.—(AP)—Welker Cochran, world champion, defeated Jay Bozeman, 700 to 618, in a 14 block three cushion billiard exhibition, completed at the Strand tonight. Cochran piled up his total in 644 innings. The champion won both of the final blocks.

MOON MULLINS—JUST A GOLD MINE

PROS TO ADOPT SCRIMMAGE LINE FORWARD PASS

Pittsburgh, Pa., Feb. 26.—(AP)—Rule changes designed to pep up the game were made today by the National Professional Football league.

Club owners made the forward pass legal from any point behind the line of scrimmage and moved the goal posts up to the goal line in an effort to increase thrills and reduce the number of tie games.

Joe F. Carr, president of the league, predicted these changes will make the game more spectacular and put the "foot" back in football by encouraging kicking.

The owners agreed that steps should be taken to balance the offense and defense to make the game more exciting for the spectator.

The collegiate "five yard rule," making it permissible to move the ball in ten yards whenever it is in play within five yards from the sidelines, also was approved.

After lengthy discussion, the 25 yard penalty for clipping was retained. The college penalty recently was lowered from 25 to 15 yards.

Carr said the clipping rule is enforced rigidly in professional football, regardless of the heavy penalty, and the owners agreed the game would not be benefited by lowering it. The college fumble rule, prohibiting defensive men from recovering fumbles, was retained.

Set Dates for Finals in Prep League Today

A meeting of officials and coaches will be held today in the office of the Chicago Public High School league to determine the dates and sites of the quarter-final round of play for the league lightweight and heavyweight basketball championships. Fifteen of the sixteen qualifiers—winners and runners-up in the four sections of the league have been chosen.

Harrison Tech's heavyweights may join the group. But to become eligible they must defeat Crane Tech, west section champion, in the playoff of a postponed game. The date of the contest has not been set.

May Cause Tie for Second.

The game will complete their sectional schedules. Crane Tech won nine consecutive games in capturing the fourth west division title, while Harrison has won six and lost three. Tuley and Marshall each has won six and lost four. Thus if Harrison loses to Crane it will create a tie for the right to accompany Crane Tech into the quarter-finals.

The teams which will compete in the title playoffs follow:

LIGHTWEIGHT.
North section—Roosevelt and Lane Tech.
South section—Calumet and Fenger.
Central section—Phillips and Hyde Park.
West section—Austin and McKinley.

HEAVYWEIGHT.
North section—Lake View and Senn.
South section—Bowen and Parker.
Central section—Phillips and Lindblom.

Catholic League Nears Finals.

Sectional schedules in the Chicago Catholic High School league will be completed Friday night, twelve games being scheduled. However, De Paul ended its sectional campaign last Friday. It won the north division heavy weight title by scoring eight consecutive triumphs.

Other teams which have clinched sectional championships are St. Patrick heavyweights and Leo and St. Philip lightweights. St. Patrick won the west division title by defeating St. Ignatius last Friday. St. Philip captured the west section lightweight crown, while Leo won in the south division.

SPARTA BEATS CLEVELAND, 1-0; ENTERS FINALS

Sparta, professional soccer champion of Chicago, entered the western division finals of the National cup competition yesterday by defeating Slavia of Cleveland, 1 to 0, at Sparta stadium. A crowd of about 3,000 saw the game.

Neither team had a decided advantage during the early minutes of play, but with about twenty minutes remaining of the first half Petrik took a pass from Vlick to outmaneuver the Slavia backs and score the winning goal.

Slavia made a determined effort to tie the score as the second half opened, but Baer protected the Chicagoans' lead with some brilliant stops. Near the close of the game Slavia again outsped the Sparta defense to enter scoring territory, but were unable to kick the ball past Baer.

Lineup:

SPARTA [1].		SLAVIA [0].

RUSSIAN GRAND DUKE ALEXANDER DIES IN FRANCE

ROQUEBRUNE-CAP MARTIN, France, Feb. 26.—(AP)—Grand Duke Alexander Michailovitch, brother-in-law of the last czar of Russia, died here today at the age of 66. The grand duke, who was grand admiral of the Russian navy at the time of the Russian revolution, had suffered from a spinal affliction, said to have resulted from an accident on his last visit to New York three years ago.

Widely known as a writer and lecturer, he had lived in Paris most of the time since the revolution. When his illness became acute, however, he moved to a little villa near Menton. In addition to the widow, Grand Duchess Xenie Alexandrovna, he is survived by three sons and a daughter, Princess Youssoupoff. The funeral will be held on Wednesday at the Russian chapel at Menton.

The grand duke, despite the seriousness of his ailment, was said even as late as last November to be making plans to sail this spring for the United States, which he called "my second homeland."

OFTEN VISITED CHICAGO.

Grand Duke Alexander has visited Chicago several times in the last few years to see his son, Prince Rostislav, who is employed in a Chicago railroad office. The prince's wife, Princess Rostislav, the former Princess Aleka Galitzine, is employed as a stylist for a State street department store.

It was during the World's Fair of 1893 that his imperial highness, then at the height of his power as admiral of the Russian navy, first visited Chicago. When he came to Chicago again in 1929 on a lecture tour of this country, in which he discussed the revolution in Russia and experiences of himself and his family, the grand duke was entertained by Mrs. Chauncey B. Blair, Mrs. Waller Borden, Mrs. Jule W. Brower, and other prominent hostesses.

Wrote "Once a Grand Duke."

Besides Prince Rostislav, two other sons are living in this country, Prince Vassili, who was a guest recently with his bride, of his brother in Chicago, is now operating a beauty salon in Cleveland, and Prince Dimitri lives in New York.

"Once a Grand Duke," Alexander's own story of his life, was published in book form in 1932 and was heralded as a contribution to historical volumes because of its analysis of the causes of the world war and the intimate picture he painted of conditions in his own country during that era.

Princess Rostislav stated last night that they would not make the trip abroad as it would be impossible to reach France in time for the funeral services. A memorial service may be held here later.

CHARLES CATLIN, SALVATION ARMY WORKER, IS DEAD

Charles R. Catlin, 44 years old, died of pneumonia yesterday at his home at 442 North Austin boulevard, Oak Park. He was a brother-in-law of Judge Harry B. Miller of the Superior court.

Mr. Catlin was associated with the Continental Casualty company. He was a native of London, England, and member of a family prominently identified there in Salvation Army work. His parents, now dead, held high rank in the army as did his sisters. Mr. Catlin was active in the Salvation Army here. He was a past master of the Austin lodge, A. F. & A. M., and a member of Cicero chapter, R. A. M., and Austin commandery, K. T.

His body will remain in the chapel at 5454 Chicago avenue until tomorrow, when it will be taken to the Salvation Army citadel, 1512 Madison street, where army and Masonic services will be held. Burial will be at Elm Lawn. Surviving Mr. Catlin are his widow, Helen, sister of Judge Miller, and a daughter, also Helen.

THE REV. JOHN K. WORRELL IS TAKEN BY DEATH

Chicago friends learned of the death yesterday in Ohio, Ill., of the Rev. John Knox Worrell, prominent in affairs of the Protestant Methodist church, and formerly a clergyman here. He was 65 years old.

The Rev. Mr. Worrell for many years—until recently—served as pastor of the Wake Forest Methodist church and the Chathamfield Community church, both on the south side. He was president of the Illinois Protestant Methodist conference.

Surviving him are his widow and six children. The children are Dorothy and Edna Worrell, Mrs. Ruth Nelson, Mrs. Rachel Medbold, Mrs. Miriam Martin and Benjamin Worrell.

J. N. HOSTETTER, 73, REAL ESTATE OPERATOR, DIES

Jacob N. Hostetter, 73 years old, a real estate operator on the west side for more than 35 years, died yesterday at the home of his son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Hueben thal, 1419 South 5th avenue, Maywood Mr. Hostetter maintained an office at 137 North Kedzie avenue, and was a charter member of the West Side Kiwanis club. Surviving besides his daughter is the widow, Mrs. Emma Royer Hostetter. Services will be held at 2:30 p. m., Wednesday, from the Warren Avenue Congregational church. Burial will be in Forest Home cemetery.

MRS. JANE M. KEITH, wife of Leigh S. Keith, consulting engineer, died suddenly yesterday at her home at 5459 Cornell avenue. Services will be held at 11 a. m. tomorrow in the chapel at 4227 Cottage Grove avenue. Burial will be at North Easton, Mass.

WARNER G. BAIRD OFFERS GARDEN PLAN FOR IDLE

Committee Proposes 3 Types of Aid.

Plans for enabling idle families in Chicago to obtain seeds and other supplies for producing garden crops are being made by Warner G. Baird, head of the real estate firm of Baird & Warner, it was learned yesterday.

Mr. Baird, who headed the garden committee of the Joint Emergency Relief fund last summer, declared that considerable saving in the cost of feeding city families could be effected if some one in the family would care for a garden plot.

Three types of garden work aid are proposed in the report submitted by the Baird committee, based on last year's experiences. Persons receiving relief but having land and tools available would be provided seed. Such organizations as the Salvation Army, Cook County Bureau of Public Welfare, and community organizations sponsoring garden projects would be supplied seed if they have land and equipment.

Reduces Relief Outlay.

The third group, those receiving relief but without land, tools or seed, would be supplied all three provided they produced crops which would enable the relief agency to reduce outlay for the family vegetable needs.

Last summer the relief fund garden committee carried through all three forms of aid, but not on so extensive a scale as Mr. Baird believes possible by immediately starting work for the 1933 season. There were 1,527 gardens well planted and tended and 181 gardens poorly handled in the 1,708 gardens scattered through the city in the committee's project. Most of the gardeners asked to have the project continued this year.

Idle men from the relief shelters aided the committee in sorting, packaging and distributing the seeds bought at wholesale. There were 1,750 assortments supplied to community agencies who supervised their own garden projects, in addition to the 2,000 supplied to individual families. Added to these were 1,121 families who grew their vegetables on plots supplied and supervised by the relief committee on forest preserve land near Maywood.

Average Crop Worth $40.

During the season, records were kept which showed that produce from each plot of 50 by 150 feet would have cost $40 at retail, the cost per plot, including transportation for gardeners and their harvest, being but $5.18. Most of the gardens produced more than the families could consume. After they had taken all they needed during the summer, 1,000 sacks full were delivered to their homes and 450 sacks more turned over to the shelters.

"A most interesting feature in this project is the good fellowship developed by those tending gardens," declared Mr. Baird. "There was a marked improvement in morale among the men. They developed much pride in their gardens and their health was definitely improved. In addition, they often brought their families along to enjoy the nearby forest preserves."

The ground for garden plots this year was plowed through coöperation of the forest preserve officials last fall. Plans are in such form that only the approval of the proper relief agency is needed to assure the idle of Chicago the chance to produce their own fresh garden foods again this spring, Mr. Baird said.

THOMAS GREGORY WILL BE BURIED AT HOUSTON, TEX.

New York, Feb. 26.—(AP)—Thomas Watt Gregory, attorney general in the Wilson cabinet, who died here early today of pneumonia, will be buried in Houston, Tex. His family left New York with the body tonight.

The prominent Democrat and lawyer came here from his home in Houston, 10 days ago for a conference with the President Elect Franklin D. Roosevelt and was stricken shortly after he left the Roosevelt town house.

The former attorney general was born in Crawfordsville, Miss., Nov. 6, 1861, the son of Francis Robert Gregory and Mary Cornelia Watt Gregory.

In 1913 he was made a special assistant attorney general of the United States to prosecute the New Haven Railroad company upon accusations of violations of the Sherman act, and entered the Wilson cabinet in 1914. He served through the stirring war period until March, 1919.

Mrs. Lydia Clark Benedict, Physical Educator, Dies

Columbus, O., Feb. 26.—(AP)—Mrs. Lydia Clark Benedict, 44, of Andover, Mass., widely known in the training of physical education teachers, died from pneumonia today after an eight day illness. Mrs. Benedict came to Ohio from the State Normal university at Normal, Ill., ten years ago. She was prominent in the women's division of the National Amateur Athletic federation, was a graduate of Wellesley college and received a master's degree from Columbia university. While in Illinois, Mrs. Benedict organized the first state athletic association for high school girls. Mrs. Benedict is survived by the widower, Bertram Benedict, author and newspaper man of Washington, D. C., and two sisters, Mrs. Marian Meyerskopf and Miss Edith Clark of Andover, Mass.

GRAIN TRADERS TAKE CHEER IN PRICE STABILITY

But They Are Wary Until Skies Clear.

BY CHARLES MICHAELS.

Grain traders are watching crop reports, financial statements of banks and other big institutions, and are placing much confidence in the stability of the grain markets around present price levels. They are not, however, inclined to get too enthusiastic over a big bulge in prices in the near future.

After there has been good growing weather they look for crop reports on winter wheat in the southwest to be the most bullish in years and they expect ultimately irregularly higher prices.

A clarification of the banking and financial situation, they say, is necessary to restore confidence and bring increased buyers into merchandise and all other markets, give more employment to workers of all classes, and bring greater consumption in foodstuffs, cotton, and other articles that are necessary to make up a good condition of trade in general.

Believe Prices Are Attractive.

At the present no one is looking for a runaway market, yet the belief is that prices are at levels that will attract buyers on all sharp declines. There has been heavy liquidation by large interests, with their offerings readily taken and with only a moderate break in prices. Within the last month wheat prices have moved within a range of around 2 cents.

On Saturday prices were down to the lowest since Feb. 6, close to 46 cents for May wheat, and at 47 and 48 cents for July and September. The close for the week on May wheat Chicago was 47 to 47⅛ cents, with July 47⅛ to 47⅝ cents and September 48⅝ to 48¾ cents, net losses for the week being ⅛ to ⅞ cent. May wheat in Winnipeg closed at 47⅛ cents; July, 48¾ to 48⅞ cents, and October, 49⅝ cents, prices being ⅝ to ¾ cent lower for the week. The March option in Liverpool finished the week at 46 cents, May at 47 cents, July at 48⅜ cents, and October new at 50¼ cents, with net losses of 1⅛ to 1¼ cents.

Crop Conditions Watched.

Weather and crop conditions throughout the southwest and middle west are being watched more closely than ever before. A few scattered showers caused uneasiness among traders, inducing them to sell out, but the trade's impression is that there must be general soaking rains all over the winter wheat states to save what is left of the crop.

Until there is a month or more of good growing weather it is regarded useless to make too many positive predictions. It is safe, however, as most traders see it, to look for the smallest stock of winter wheat in the southwest in recent years. Even under such conditions, should the middle west and northwest raise big crops, their total, with the surplus, it is said, would be sufficient for domestic requirements.

Control of acreage, it is believed, will be given especial attention by the government, as the new administration is expected to do many things for the benefit of agriculture, which never needed help more than at present. It is possible that the new secretary of agriculture, Henry A. Wallace, will be active in a movement to take up the question of acreage at the world's economic conference to be held in Europe in midsummer.

U. S. Supplies Declining.

Supplies of wheat in the United States are gradually decreasing. Canada and the southern hemisphere countries are exporting as much wheat as possible, and selling it abroad at apparently ruinous prices. The leading exporting countries have put largely increased quantities of wheat on ocean passage and there is so much of this wheat already headed, and to be headed, for European importing countries that they may reduce their purchases within the near future.

No report on farm reserves will be issued by the government on March 1, as has been customary for many years, its issuance being deferred until April 1. Chicago statisticians, however, are expected to issue their report of farm reserves as of March 1 on Wednesday. Their returns last year on wheat were 179,000,000 bushels; corn, 1,070,000,000 bushels; oats, 377,000,000 bushels.

Corn at New Low Levels.

Liquidating pressure on corn futures, due to increased receipts of grain sold to arrive in the previous week, and the market being caught without good buying support, and also to weakness in wheat, carried prices down to new low levels for the season. There was only a moderate recovery.

May corn closed at 24½ to 24⅝ cents; July, 26¼ cents, and September 27⅝ to 27¾ cents. Net losses for the week were ⅝ to 1 cent. Prices follow:

Oat prices dropped to around the season's low at the end of the week on scattered selling by tired holders, with offerings well absorbed by speculators and cash interests. May was down to 16¼ cents; July, 16⅛ cents, and September, 17⅛ cents, the close being ⅛ to ¼ cent above the low level.

World's Fair to Boost Use of Electricity

BY THOMAS FURLONG.

An increase in the consumption of electric power during the World's Fair season is anticipated by officials of the Commonwealth Edison company, who are now making plans to meet the larger demand.

Light and power requirements within the fair grounds will take approximately the same volume of energy as a city of the size of Evanston. Power consumption throughout the city and metropolitan area is also expected to expand because of the large number of visitors.

Officials estimated that $250,000 in income will accrue to the company as a result of the demand by the fair itself. The collateral uses of power during the exposition period should increase this figure materially.

Increased Traffic Load.

With a larger volume of passenger traffic the elevated and surface lines will require a bigger electrical load. Residences and hotels will house more people and take more electricity for lighting and miscellaneous uses.

The Edison company has invested $176,000 in conduits, cables, and substation equipment at the exposition grounds. The two 12,000 volt cables already serving the general area have been supplemented by two additional high voltage cables originating from different points within the system in order to insure continuity of service. The new cables lead to a specially constructed transformer outside the fair grounds. The exposition management has built its own extensions from the company's vaults to the various buildings and lighting displays.

Engineers Test Equipment.

Commonwealth Edison engineers designed and tested the major part of the electrical work in the fair grounds. This work was carried out under the direction of E. T. Tillson, who has been working for several years on special lighting effects, which will be one of the attractions of the exposition.

The lighting effects, engineers asserted, are entirely new in principle in many instances. Novel effects in exterior and interior illuminating are planned.

The electric light and power industry is preparing a special exhibit for the exposition. When the fair of 1893 was held the industry was in its infancy and the present exposition gives it an opportunity to emphasize its remarkable growth in the last 50 years.

Twelve Concerns Coöperate.

E. W. Lloyd, vice president of Commonwealth Edison, is chairman of the group preparing the exhibit. Twelve leading electric operating companies are coöperating in the work. The exhibit will cost approximately $200,000.

The central figure of the show will be a large diorama, 80 feet long, 8 feet deep, and 10 feet high, which will depict the process of lighting a modern city. The generation, transmission, and distribution of electricity within a city will be portrayed, showing the varied uses of energy during the day and night.

STONE & WEBSTER REPORT EARNINGS OF 72 CTS. A SHARE

Consolidated net income of Stone & Webster, Inc., including subsidiaries, for 1932 amounted to $1,524,085, equivalent to 72 cents per share on the 2,104,500 shares outstanding, according to the annual report released today to stockholders. For 1931 net income amounted to $3,291,785, or $1.65 a share, excluding losses during 1931 on sale of certain securities acquired prior to 1931 and charged to reserves set up on Dec. 31, 1930.

Consolidated gross earnings for 1932 amounted to $50,983,871, as compared with $59,522,087 for the prior year, a decline of 14 per cent. Operating expenses in 1932 were reduced to $23,687,872 from $29,904,041, a drop of 20 per cent. The totals of taxes, fixed charges, and appropriations for retirement reserves were substantially the same, amounting to $18,756,726 in 1932 and $18,868,020 in 1931. Savings are still to be realized from economies instituted in 1932, states the report.

Consolidated current asset position was improved. Notes payable were reduced to $6,800,935 on Dec. 31, 1932, as compared with $14,678,521 a year earlier. Cash stood at $8,079,667 at the year end. The report states that there is no funded debt or preferred stock of the parent corporation outstanding.

RESTRICT BANK WITHDRAWALS IN CLEVELAND

Dayton, O., Declares 3 Day Holiday.

Cleveland, O., Feb. 27.—(AP)—[Monday.]—Seven member banks of the Cleveland Clearing House association early today announced that effective immediately withdrawals by depositors would be limited temporarily to 5 per cent of net balances.

The statement of G. A. Stephenson, manager of the Cleveland Clearing House association, explaining the action, said Gov. George White had expressed an intention to propose laws to the legislature to stop or limit withdrawals from Ohio banks. The statement took cognizance of the fact that the governor has stated a bank holiday will not be the means to that end.

One Waives Restrictions.

One bank in Cleveland—the National City—did not sign the statement, issued after a prolonged conference among clearing house members. Neither did the National City issue any statement. It was assumed this bank would operate as usual without restrictions today.

The seven banks operate a total of 103 branch banks in the Cleveland area. The National City bank is the only remaining banking institution in the city. It operates no branches.

The participating banks are the American Savings bank, the Central United National bank, the Cleveland Trust company, the Guardian Trust company, the Lorain Street Savings and Trust company, the Society for Savings, and the Union Trust company.

Indianapolis Banks Act.

Indianapolis, Feb. 26.—(AP)—Indianapolis banks tonight announced restrictions "until further notice" of withdrawals from checking accounts, savings accounts, and deposits evidenced by certificates, to not more than 5 per cent of the amount on deposit.

A statement issued by the Indianapolis clearing house related there have been "unusual withdrawals by persons hoarding or by persons withdrawing for other than usual or business needs," and said the action has been taken "for the protection of depositors and the public."

The statement added: "Other portions of balances will be released from time to time as conditions justify."

LIMIT WITHDRAWALS

Columbus, O., Feb. 26.—(AP)—The five banks of Akron, O., agreed today to proceed with business tomorrow on a "restricted withdrawal basis" and the city commissioner of Dayton, O., declared a three day banking holiday for the three banks in that city.

The action was taken on the heels of a promise by Gov. George White to introduce legislation that would avoid declaration of a state-wide banking holiday.

The city commission of Dayton did not offer an explanation of its action, but Russell Tompert, president of the Winters National bank there, said the move was prompted by a desire to protect "faithful depositors in a moment of hysteria." He added he believed there would be legislative action to strengthen further the Ohio banking situation.

Anticipates Legislation.

Mayor C. Nelson Sparks of Akron asked the banks to take such action "in anticipation of helpful legislation" to be introduced by the governor.

The governor asserted last night there was no need for a banking holiday in Ohio. He said he would offer legislation to the current legislature "to prevent rumors of the necessity to declare a bank holiday and prevent the need of such a holiday."

Gov. White declined, however, to divulge the nature of the legislation or say when it would be introduced.

Theodore H. Tangeman, state director of commerce, late today reported to Gov. White that his stand against a holiday had met with a "most favorable" reaction.

Both Mayor Sparks and Gov. White in their statements said the necessity for legislative action in Ohio was traceable to the banking holiday declared in Michigan recently.

Restrictions in Akron.

Akron, O., Feb. 26.—(AP)—The five clearing house banks of Akron, whose last statements showed total resources of $90,807,000 and deposits of $55,230,000, agreed today to proceed with business tomorrow on a restricted basis.

The announcement was made by George W. Merz, president of the Akron Clearing House association, after Mayor C. Nelson Sparks had requested the banks of Akron to restrict withdrawals.

Under the restriction agreement, savings account withdrawals will be limited to one per cent per month. In accounts under $1,000 a withdrawal of at least $10 monthly will be permitted.

All checking accounts will be averaged by the banks on the basis of operations during recent months. Withdrawals that do not reduce a given account below this average will be honored. Otherwise the Clearing House association president said the right would be reserved to refuse to clear checks.

Asked to Agree.

"All checking account customers," Merz said, "are being requested to sign written agreements to conform with this plan. As soon as the signed acceptance has been returned withdrawals will be permitted.

"Deposits in excess of those on Feb. 25 and new savings deposits will be maintained as separate trust funds and either held in cash or invested in short term government securities, and such amounts will be considered free money, payable on demand."

The five banks in Akron are the First Central Trust company, the

4 KANSAS CITY BANKS WILL BE CONSOLIDATED

Kansas City, Mo., Feb. 26.—(AP)—Four Kansas City banks are consolidating tomorrow into an institution to be known as the Mercantile Home Bank and Trust company, with total deposits of $4,800,000 and assets of between $5,000,000 and $6,000,000.

The banks involved are the Mercantile Trust company, Kansas City's oldest bank; the Home Trust company, the Main Street bank, and the Sterling bank.

The institution will occupy headquarters of the Home Trust company. It will be headed by Samuel W. Woodson, president of the Mercantile Trust and former representative of Armour & Co. in Chicago.

North Western and Omaha to Unite Law Departments

The law departments of the Chicago and North Western and the Chicago, St. Paul, Minneapolis, and Omaha railways will be consolidated on March 1, according to an announcement made yesterday by S. N. Cady, vice president of the North Western. W. T. Faricy, formerly general solicitor of the Omaha, with offices in St. Paul, has been made general solicitor for the North Western. Offices will be here.

CHICAGO TRADE QUIET PENDING INAUGURAL OF NEW PRESIDENT

A seasonable low at wholesale and retail, due to the tendency of business to mark time until after the presidential inauguration on March 4 and the usual letup in merchandising preceding the Easter period, a recession in the activity of local steel plants, a second successive weekly increase in carloadings reported by five railways and a rise in local power output that was slightly better than the average for the United States, characterized the last week in Chicago, according to the trade observers of the Chicago Association of Commerce.

The turnover of merchandise in the majority of lines at retail was slow, although sales of low priced house goods, groceries, and women's apparel held at about the same levels as during preceding weeks. Furniture sales were the best for the year.

Due to the drop in buying by automobile manufacturers, steel activity went back to its former levels. Ingot production declined a shade under 19 per cent of rated capacity as a result of the various factors affecting the demand.

ASSERTS SOUND MONEY IS VITAL TO RECOVERY

New York, Feb. 26.—(AP)—Governmental assurances of the maintenance of sound money, in the opinion of the Guaranty Trust Company of New York, would do more at the present time to inaugurate a business revival than any other one factor.

In its monthly review published today, the bank said that "superficially, the preponderance of events has been on the unfavorable side." The seasonal advance in business activity since the year end, the bank found, "has been distinctly less marked than usual" and "confidence has been impaired by a reappearance of rather serious banking disturbances in some parts of the country."

"Since the one absolute prerequisite to credit extension is confidence in the future soundness of the currency," the review states, "it follows that the most constructive action that congress could take at the present juncture would be to give some convincing assurance that sound money would be maintained—first, by balancing the budget, and, second, by adopting a resolution definitely opposing drastic currency inflation in any form."

Grig.-Grunow Reports Loss of $2,799,680

The Grigsby-Grunow company last year operated at a loss of $2,799,680, according to the annual report mailed stockholders by B. G. Grigsby, chairman of the board and president.

The company, which operates in three major manufacturing fields—radio receiving sets, radio tubes, and electric refrigerators—in common with other manufacturing organizations suffered from the general drop in sales due to the depression, Mr. Grigsby stated.

Loss of Preceding Periods.

A loss of $1,642,500 was reported by the company for the seven months ending Dec. 31, 1931. Operations in the previous fiscal year, which ended May 31, 1931, resulted in a loss of $628,000.

Mr. Grigsby stated that of the current loss the amount of $1,987,294 is represented by depreciation and amortization charges. Commenting on this, he said:

"Obviously our capital investment is far beyond present requirements. Our plant, machinery, land, and buildings were acquired principally during the high cost boom period of 1928-29, and it will be proper to mention that your directors feel that as soon as business indicates a definite upturn this should be appraised and written down to present values and our capital structure altered accordingly, so there will be no unfair burden to handicap or delay a return to a dividend paying basis. Many of the largest companies in our country are following this procedure.

Economies Put in Effect.

"Further economies in operating costs have been made and are being made in line with lowered sales volume. Important improvements have been made in our prospects."

The balance sheet as of Dec. 31, 1932, showed current assets of $3,484,286, compared with $4,177,766 as of Dec. 31, 1931. Current liabilities on Dec. 31, 1932, were $1,273,817, compared with $1,079,291 on Dec. 31, 1931. There are no bank loans, the report says. Net sales totaled $9,349,740 for 1932.

New Haven January Net Reported as $361,203

Net railway operating income of the New York, New Haven, and Hartford for January was $361,203, against $928,715 for the same month of 1932. Gross was reduced to $5,247,940 from $7,008,748 a year ago.

WALL ST. HOPE OF SPRING RISE GROWING FAINT

Bank Troubles Cause New Recession.

BY FRED HARVEY.

New York, Feb. 26.—The week's fresh banking difficulties, culminating in the Maryland moratorium, have obscured anew the silver lining which speculative sky gazers were beginning to make out in the dark cloud so long overhanging Wall street. Hopes of a "premature" spring rise in stock market prices, so widely held of late, have just about been abandoned.

Certain optimistic souls still look to Hyde Park or Washington for some miracle to turn the trick, but the rank and file have just about become resigned to the conclusion that the market must wait on a business revival to show the way out of the current fog instead of trying to hoist itself by its own bootstraps and "set an example" for psychological effect, as it has been trying to do ever since the big mess started. And so far, it must be admitted, indications of any important spring expansion in business are disappointing.

Week Shows Sharp Reaction.

During the last week THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE'S average of fifty representative stocks was depreciated to the extent of 5.23 points, making the reaction one of the most severe since the Maine election put such a quietus to the so-called late summer advance last September. Virtually the whole list has been pounded to new low price levels for the year and the railroad group has receded to a new bottom for the long bear movement.

Of the week's fifteen most active stocks Allied Chemical lost 4⅝ points; American Can, 6½; American Telephone, 6¾; J. I. Case, 8½; Chrysler, 2¼; General Electric, 2; General Motors, 2¼; Montgomery Ward, 2½; New York Central, 3½; Radio, ⅞; United Aircraft, 4¾, and United States Steel, 2¾ points.

The fresh setback has brought the market index to within about 13½ points of its bear low registered during the second week of last July. All groups have broken through the so-called October resistance levels and the

The current major decline, which got under way after the preelection rally had reached its peak on Sept. 8, 1932, is the tenth big liquidating movement of the 3½ year bear market. As measured by THE TRIBUNE'S index, market valuations in the 5½ months have been reduced approximately 35 per cent. This is about the average of the nine previous slumps of the depression. Two of them, however, were much more severe. The one which began in February last year went on unchecked until it had carried prices down to their all-time lows amounted to 57.8 per cent. The first slump of all, that dating from the October-November break in 1929, amounted to 47.3 per cent.

The index touched 47.02 at its low yesterday and closed at 47.63. The July low was 33.98. The railroad group averages are now down to 18.61, compared with their July 8 low of 19.34.

Averages Show Five Phases.

Statistical sharks figure out five distinct phases of the present decline, each of about a month's duration. In the first four the recession halted at a level about midway between the July low and the late summer rally's high of Sept. 8. The five phases shape up in THE TRIBUNE'S index as follows:

Decline Began.	Price.	Decline Ended.	Price.
Sept. 8	$73.38	Oct. 10	$51.63
Oct. 20	60.43	Nov. 3	51.70
Nov. 12	56.38	Dec. 3	51.38
Dec. 15	55.83	Dec. 23	52.71
Jan. 11	61.50	Feb. 25	47.02

Decline Began.	Price.	Decline Ended.	Price.
Sept. 19, '29	$311.90	Nov. 13	$164.43
Apr. 11, '30	245.60	June 25	179.12
Sept. 10, '30	207.82	Dec. 17	133.43
Feb. 24, '31	173.07	June 2	113.25
June 27, '31	144.78	Oct. 5	79.07
Nov. 9, '31	104.39	Dec. 17	67.61
Dec. 19, '31	77.60	Jan. 5	65.30
Jan. 14, '32	80.88	Feb. 10	64.70
Feb. 19, '32	80.56	July 8	33.98
Sept. 8, '32	72.38	Feb. 25, '33	47.02

Watch for "New Deal."

Speculative interest during the new week will be focused very largely on the inauguration, and any inklings that may be forthcoming of what the "new deal" may mean for sick business and industry. Many believe that some authoritative announcement of policy by a spokesman of the new administration just now might work wonders in bolstering confidence against the storms that blow, and hopes are expressed that something of the nature may be forthcoming before very many more days have passed.

In the meantime there is an uncommonly large number of dividend meetings on the calendar for this week and the street thinks some of them may furnish extracts for a little cheer.

Mutual Life.

I am writing for information regarding Mutual Life Insurance company. I want to take out a policy in the company providing it is in good condition.—C. B. W.

Mutual Life Insurance company [New York City] is one of the oldest and largest life insurance companies in the world. It began business just 90 years ago.

It has strong backing and able management. Expenses are low and mortality rate is favorable.

Income in 1932 was $228,798,000 and disbursements totaled $208,049,000.

Admitted assets on Dec. 31, 1932, were one billion 127 million dollars, against one billion 106 million dollars the year before and $861,925,000 on Dec. 31, 1927.

Real estate on Dec. 31, 1932, totaled $20,167,000; mortgage loans were $300,391,000; policy loans were $220,856,000; United States government securities were $40,804,000; other bonds were $471,486,000; stocks were $22,108,000, and cash was $15,721,000.

The company set up a reserve for depreciation of securities and general contingencies of $58,773,000. Special contingency reserve was $9,275,000. Policy reserves were $966,990,000, supplementary contract reserves were $26,508,000, and other policy liabilities were $19,794,000.

At the close of 1931 insurance in force was four billion 450 million dollars.

Dividends to policyholders in 1933 will be about 17 per cent less than in 1932. The management recently stated:

"A slightly higher rate of mortality has decreased gains from that source; larger sums of cash on hand for purposes of liquidity, together with some decline in income through very small defaults in interest and dividends, have reduced gains from investment income; and a smaller volume of business, coupled with increased taxes, has reduced gains from loaning."

The company operates in every state of the United States except Texas.

High Pressure.

I today received a long distance call advising me to buy American Telephone and Telegraph. Will you kindly give me your opinion?—R. S.

Our opinion is that some one hopes to reap some ill-gotten gains at your expense. Reputable brokers do not make unsolicited calls to strangers urging them to purchase stock. If you will give us the name of the house that called you we shall be glad to try to get definite information on it for you. In the meantime we caution you against sending any money to the house.

GREAT STRIDES MADE LAST YEAR IN ELECTRICITY

Hoover Dam and Chicago Postoffice Cited.

There was no depression in engineering accomplishment in 1932. Records of the year reveal that the engineer and the scientist, the laboratory and the manufacturing aisle, are steadily developing and building new and better tools for man to attain a higher civilization.

Particularly is this true of the electrical industry. Much of this technical progress is depicted in a review of some of the engineering achievements of the Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing company.

Statistics concerning the Hoover dam project are of gigantic proportions. Preparations require two and a half years before the concrete is poured; railroads, highways, transmission lines, and a city built as construction tools. The dam will be as tall as a 60 story office building, 650 feet thick at the bottom, 1,180 feet long on top. It will create an artificial lake 115 miles long. There will be a million horse power generating plant installed.

Two Great Buildings.

Great modern buildings require an astonishing amount of machinery. This is exemplified in the two most extraordinary buildings of the last few years—the new Chicago postoffice and New York's Rockefeller Center.

The Chicago postoffice is the largest in the world, containing 50 acres of floor space. Its estimated cost is $21,000,000. It will sort mail for 1,000 towns in Illinois and also serve cities in Wisconsin, Ohio, Indiana, Iowa, and Missouri. For sorting mail the world's largest conveyor system has been installed. It is 14 miles long and is driven by 750 electric motors, totaling about 3,200 horse power. Electrical equipment in the building amounts to well over a million dollars.

Probably the largest single building project ever undertaken is the $250,000,000 group of buildings now under construction on the three block area of Rockefeller Center, New York. Seventy-four elevators recently installed in the 69 story tower, first and largest building of the group, form the largest single order ever place for elevator equipment.

Progress in Illumination.

It was in outdoor illumination that electric lighting began, and it is in this same field that some of the year's most interesting work is found.

Many aircraft flying in the vicinity of Washington's monument have made this 555 foot obelisk dangerous in a way its builders could never have imagined. A new complete flood lighting system installed this year was primarily for safety, but its beauty is a welcome by-product.

On the summit of the highest building on lower Manhattan, the tower at 60 Wall street, only 25 feet lower than the Eiffel tower, illuminating engineers have painted a striking pattern of light and shadows, surmounted by a lantern whose 1,300 square feet of opal-flashed glass is brilliant with the illumination from 25,000 watts. Ninety projectors light the upper stories of this building.

The most conspicuous body of water last summer was the Olympic swimming pool in Los Angeles, where the world's champion swimmers were competing. This pool, so large that it requires a million gallons of water to fill it, is lighted at night with forty under water flood lights. These are set into the walls.

Electricity in Transportation.

A self-propelled railroad car, running on pneumatic tires, weighing only a third as much per passenger as ordinary coaches, was the most colorful event of the year in electric transportation on land. The Budd-Michelin car for service on the Reading railroad is an earnest and courageous effort to free the railroads from some of their weight handicaps when competing with the automobile.

The Pennsylvania electrification progresses. Most of the passenger locomotives will soon have been delivered and the first of the freight locomotives is under construction. The last gap in the trolley between New Brunswick and Trenton has been closed and electricity is driving regular passenger trains between New York and Wilmington.

One of the most vigorous efforts made recently by American railroads to make their service more attractive has been the adoption of air conditioning. Equipments for the Illinois Central railroad represent the latest developments in this art.

Heavy Engineering Deals Gain Over Previous Week

Heavy engineering contracts last week totaled $16,011,000, compared with $9,464,000 in the previous week, the Engineering News-Record reports. Contracts averaged $21,453,000 in February, 1932.

MEAT INDUSTRY ADDS WORKERS; PAY ROLLS RISE

The Chicago Federal Reserve bank yesterday reported a profitable January in the meat packing industry.

Increases were reported in all departments and also in the number of employés and the size of the pay rolls, the report said. Production rose 5½ per cent against an average seasonal expansion of 2½ per cent and was only 5 per cent lower than January, 1931. While the number of employés during January was slightly more than in December, the number of hours worked rose 7½ per cent and wage payments increased 6½ per cent.

For the seventh federal reserve district the bank reported an expansion of 8 per cent in the manufacture of creamery butter. The month was 9 per cent above the 1923-'32 average and one and one-half in excess of the same month last year.

Commonwealth Customers—PAY LESS—for LOANS

YOU MAY OBTAIN UP TO $300. The rate on amounts above $100 is LOWER than the lawful rate.

NO LOWER RATE IN CHICAGO. Take 20 months to repay. If you pay in less time you are charged only for the time you keep the money. The faster you pay the less it costs.
